"Ike" Declares Free World's Power So Overwhelming Talk Of Fright "Almost Ridiculous"

Assertion Comes Despite Senators' Report European Defense Lagging

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — A Senate subcommittee quoted Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today as saying the free world's strength is so overwhelming "it is almost ridiculous for us to be talking in terms of fright and hysteria."

Eisenhower's assertion came despite a finding by a Foreign Relations subcommittee that Western Europe is lagging in building up its ground defense. It said, however, the Western European nations have promised Eisenhower a 75 per cent increase in their North Atlantic pact army divisions by next year.

In a formal report on its 14-day visit to Europe in July, the hine-member subcommittee said that Eisenhower, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander, told them, as of today:

Red Nations Have Unity

"The material, intellectual, spiritual, technical and professional resources available to the free world are so overwhelming as compared to what the Iron Curtain and satellite countries have, that it is almost ridiculous for us to be talking in terms of fright and hysteria, which we often do."

The senators said Eisenhower, with whom they conferred twice in his Paris headquarters, said the Iron Curtain countries do have a unity which the Western nations lack.

They quoted the General as declaring, however, that this is a unity "brought about by a gun and a sword held forever behind a man's back ready to chop off his head."

Eisenhower told the visiting senators that the job of the free nation is "to convince every nation participating, every man in that nation x x x that we are approaching this thing from the standpoint of of enlightened self-interest."

Air Bill Provision To Start

The subcommittee, reporting to the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees which start revising the $8,500,000,000 foreign aid bill tomorrow, said further in its report:

1. Eisenhower's headquarters is dissatisfied with the fact that while the United States has doubled its ground forces since the outbreak of the Korean war, Western Europe has increased them only 20 per cent.

2. Spain and Yugoslavia should be brought into the "master plans" for defense of Europe from Communist aggression. It estimated military and economic aid needs of Spain at $400,000,000.

Train Carrying 500 Is Derailed But No One Killed

Three Cars Skid Down Embankment

FOUR OAKS, N. C., Aug. 12 (AP)—A fast Miami-to-New York streamlined train carrying more than 500 passengers was wrecked today with three cars flying down a 20-foot embankment, but nobody was killed.

"The most miraculous thing I've ever seen," declared Dr. Watson Wharton, Smithfield. "The steel cars saved the passengers."

Other rescue workers voiced equal amazement.

Nine persons were hospitalized and scores were treated for cuts and bruises, but many of the 25 ambulances which converged on the scene went away empty.

The 18-car train, the Atlantic Coast Line's East Coast Champion, was passing a rain-hit filled area two miles north of here when nine middle cars derailed without warning.

Diner Noses Over Bank

The diner swung cross-wise on the double track and came to rest almost standing on its nose with one end buried in mud at the bottom of the bank and the other end in the air.

At the bottom of the bank, rescue workers found one car upside down, another on its side and one upright. The other cars stayed on the right of way, although one turned over.

Rescue workers made their way through all the cars and expressed astonishment the toll was no higher.

Four Oaks is about 30 miles southeast of Raleigh, the state capital.

Cloudburst Had Hit Area

C. G. Sibley, ACL assistant vice president for operation, said the train was due in Washington at 6 a. m., and in New York at 10:15 a. m. (EST).

"Indications are that the cause of the derailment was the fill sloughing off while the train was passing over due to recent heavy rains," Sibley said.

A cloudburst hit the area Friday. The railroad official said the engineer saw nothing wrong with the fill when approaching it. Sibley added another passenger train passed safely over the fill an hour ahead of the streamliner.

Million German Red Youths Stage 'Hate West' Rally

Huge Parade Dwarfs Hitler Era Displays

BERLIN, Aug. 12 (AP)—More than 1,000,000 blue-shirted girls and boys, chanting loyalty to Stalin and hate for the West, staged a giant parade in East Berlin today in a propaganda show that outdid Hitler's biggest spectacles.

The high point of the 14-day Communist World Youth Peace Festival came to an end after nine hours of steady marching past the reviewing stand in Marx-Engels Platz, the Red square that formerly was the Lustgarten.

Western precautions against violent incidents were unnecessary. Not a stone was thrown in anger all day.

Top Reds Review Parade

The Russian-controlled East German news agency said 2,000,000 youths participated in the giant demonstration — 1,500,000 who marched in the parade and 500,000 who acted as spectators and saved their strength for shouting slogans. Western observers thought the figures were somewhat exaggerated.

"This exceeded all expectations" said the news agency, adding that 35,000 delegates had come from West Germany and 22,000 from other foreign countries.

High German Communists, President Wilhelm Pieck, Premier Otto Grotewohl and Party Boss Walter Ulbricht and their Soviet guests, had seats of honor for the review.

Banners Lambast Truman

The marchers and cheering sections kept up a steady din of shouting "Long live Stalin," "Ami (Americans), go home," and "Ami, get out of Korea."

Coming in seemingly endless waves, many abreast, the paraders carried floats, banners and caricatures lambasting President Truman, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and the West German leaders, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Socialist Kurt Schumacher.

Several floats made capital of British use of Helgoland Island as a practice bombing target, and thousands shouted "Helgoland" just as Nazis once shouted "Danzig" when Hitler was plotting his war against Poland.

Iranian Oil Talks Receive Setback

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 12 (AP) — British-Iranian oil talks got a setback today.

The negotiators cancelled a session at which the British had planned to submit a new proposal for settlement of the dispute over nationalization of the rich Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, more than half owned by the British government.

A source close to the negotiations said the meeting was called off because Iranian officials had expressed privately their coolness to the proposals prepared, but not yet submitted officially, by British Lord Privy Seal Richard Stokes

Neither the British nor the Iranians want the talks to break down now, a week after they were started, however. It was believed the British, warned in advance of Iranian opposition, would revise their proposals in hope of reaching an agreement.

Stakes, it was reliably reported, had ready a plan to eliminate the name of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company from Iran, but keep British mangerial control of the oil fields and refinery.

Child Is Electrocuted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — Harry Sperling, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. B. Sperling, was electrocuted while playing in the living room of his home here today.

Police said he apparently tried to plug a cord into an electric wall socket and in some way received an electrical current through his body.

Army Action In "Cribbing" Case To Be Completed Soon

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—The Army said today that action should be completed early next week on the 90 West Point cadets who face dismissal for "cribbing" on examinations.

At the same time, the Army held firm to its stand that there would be no honorable discharges for cadets found guilty of violating the Military Academy's honor code.

Since Head Football Coach Earl (Red) Blaik appealed last week that the involved boys be permitted to leave the academy without stigma, there has been a strong movement to lighten the cadets' punishment.

Blaik has received a tremendous amount of mail, all of it sympathetic to the involved boys.

"The action we are to take has been approved by the Department of the Army and the President himself," Col. James B. Leer, the Military Academy's public information officer, said. "There can be no deviation from the statement made last week by the superintendent, Maj. Gen. Frederick Irving."

Irving announced that cadets admitting guilt under oath would be given a chance to resign.

Those refusing to resign will be discharged by administrative order, without specification as to character.

Foe Now Has Strength For Major Attack

Drive Might Come If Talks Founder

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Communists have made a big military buildup in Korea.

The question is: Are they planning a new offensive if the Kaesong armistice talks finally collapse, or are they pouring in troops merely to strengthen the hand of their negotiators?

High Allied officers agree that the enemy has plenty of power and can attack if he wants to, but Allied intelligence is uncertain whether such an attack will come.

A few intelligence officers will say "probably," but they say it with nothing like the certainty which they were able to forecast the big Red offensives of last January, February, April and May.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway confirmed the Red buildup in his report to the United Nations Aug. 3.

Evidence Assembled

Here is some of the evidence available in Korea to suggest an immediate Red drive if the Kaesong conference founders:

1. Unusually heavy truck traffic through North Korea towards the front, starting at the first mention of armistice talks late in June and continuing through mid-July.

Some Air Force pilots reported seeing up to 2,000 trucks at a time in this period, boldly using lights at night despite air attacks.

After July 15 this traffic eased off. This suggests the Reds had completed whatever preparations they had in mind.

2. An entirely new vigor in the North Korean army. North Korean units are on both the extreme eastern and western ends of the front and have been putting up some of the most violent resistance to small "limited-objective" Allied thrusts.

Red Artillery Increases

Their performance is infinitely better than that of the wretched North Korean First Corps which was knocked to pieces last April.

This lends support to reports that the North Korean army has been thoroughly reorganized and retrained.

3. Communist artillery has become more plentiful and bolder. Every part of the front now reports Red artillery fire as a routine matter, whereas a few months ago it was exceptional. The Reds then relied almost entirely on mortars for large-caliber fire.

Zwillman Sought In Boston Area

BOSTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Senate crime committee's hunt for Abner (Longie) Zwillman narrowed tonight to an undisclosed Greater Boston city where police said he "probably is hiding out."

Zwillman, described as a former bootlegger, is the object of a nationwide search. The crime committee wants to serve a subpoena on him to testify before it in Washington.

The hunt turned to land after a yacht on which Zwillman had been sailing was found at Block Island, R. I. The husky ex-bootlegger who now is in the tobacco business at Hillside, N. J., was no longer aboard the craft.

Richard Moser, the crime committee's chief counsel who called for the nationwide alert, said in New York:

"This former big-time bootlegger is believed to be bigger than (Frank) Costello but so far more successful in avoiding the public spotlight."

Zwillman had been reported aboard the 70-foot yacht "Howdy Podner" last week in Boston and Marblehead. United States marshals and Coast Guard patrol vessels were alerted to spot the yacht.

Moser said those aboard the vessel when it was found in Rhode Island readily conceded that Zwillman had been aboard and that they gave the information that he left it in the Massachusetts yachting port of Marblehead.

Maryland Police Seek One-Armed Bandit

NORTH BEACH, Md., Aug. 12 (AP)—A one-armed bandit snatched a bag of cash containing $1,000 to $1,500 in a beach restaurant today and escaped with a companion, police reported.

Officers later found the bag two miles from the beach and said they thought they had the thieves bottled up in Calvert County, Md.

Peiping Police Jail 19 Priests In Church Drive

Communists Shift To Frontal Attack

HONG KONG, Aug. 12 (AP)—Communist police jailed 19 Catholic priests, closed 12 of Peiping's 17 parish centers and put all the rest of the city's 80 foreign missionaries under house arrest in simultaneous raids July 25, church sources reported today.

Describing this as "the most frontal attack yet" made against the church in China, the sources predicted similar action against Catholics and other Christians throughout Red China.

The Reds have been conducting a campaign for an "independent" Catholic church, having no connection with the Vatican.

Red "Church" Or—None

The new direct drive apparently is intended to force the people to accept this Red "church" or none.

The Red press and radio, which have carried many items about the "independence" campaign, have as yet said nothing about the police action.

The information came from Catholics arriving in this British colony from Peiping.

These sources, which cannote be named, said those arrested in Peiping July 25 included Father Harold Rigney, former rector of the Catholic Fujen University and the only American missionary still in Peiping.

A Chicagoan in his late forties, he formerly served in Europe and Africa. A U. S. Air Force chaplain in World War II, he went to Peiping at the close of the war. He was rector of Fujen until last October, when the Communists put their own men in all administrative posts but permitted priests to continue teaching.

15 Germans Seized

Others reported seized included Father Joseph Miners, a German professor at Fujen University; another unidentified professor; the German Bishop Constans Kramer, of Luanfu Diocese; the Belgian Father Van Cooli, head of the Legion of Mary in North China; a Frenchman, and 13 other Germans.

The Reds previously announced a campaign against the Legion of Mary in Tientsin, and the official Red press demanded suppression of the organization throughout China.

Early died Saturday of a heart attack at the age of 61.

Funeral services will be held at the Washington Cathedral at 9 a.m. EST Tuesday and the burial in Arlington will follow at 10:30 a.m.

MacArthur Probe Group To Report

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—Sen. Harry Cain (R-Wash) revealed tonight that eight members of the joint Senate-House committee that investigated the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur have prepared a report on the hearing.

Cain, a member of the Armed Services Committee, said he was one of the signers of the document but when asked if the others also were Republicans he evaded the question.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga), who presided at the MacArthur hearing, said yesterday he would call a meeting soon to decide if a formal report is needed.

1,400 U. S. Troops Arrive In Italy

LEGHORN, Italy, Aug. 12 (AP) — Fourteen hundred serious-faced American soldiers landed at this west coast port today. It was the first large scale arrival of American troops in Italy since Allied armies liberated the country from Fascism.

Communist efforts to disrupt their arrival by a strike of 14,000 Red-controlled dock workers failed.

There was only the normal Sunday calm in this Communist-governed city beside the sunny Tyrrhenian.

All but 100 of the new arrivals will leave by train to reinforce U.S. occupation forces in Austria. They will go through the Brenner Pass in the first use of the new supply line intended to safeguard U. S. Austrian forces from any sudden attack which might cut off the former route across Germany.

Profit Rate Of Most Industries Increases

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission reported today that despite higher costs and taxes, "all but three of 25 major manufacturing industries" showed a higher rate of profit in 1950 than in prewar 1940.

The report, fourth in a series submitted to Congress by the FTC comparing prewar and postwar rates of return, after taxes, further said that "in all but six industries 1950 profit rates also showed an increase over 1949."

"The only three industries which failed to show a higher profit rate in 1950 than in 1940 were cigarets; cigars; and plug, smoking and chewing tobacco."

The six industries showing a decline in profits from 1949 to 1950 were listed as: Dairy Products; cigarets; cigars; plug, smoking and snuff tobacco; bread; biscuits and crackers.

Flattop Is Navy's Offensive Spearhead, Fechteler Says

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 12 (AP)—Adm. William Morrow Fechteler, the new chief of naval operations, says the battleship is an essential part of a carrier task force, "but the offensive spearhead of the Navy is the carrier and her planes."

The war in Korea, Fechteler told an interviewer, demonstrated anew the "mobility of carrier borne air power and its ability to go in and deliver air support of ground troops."

And whereas the Korean war has demonstrated the battleship "is an extremely powerful floating artillery in support of our troops," it should be remembered "we had absolute control of the sea."

"If the enemy had used naval forces, they could have stopped us from getting in, except what we could get in by air."

Fechteler does not subscribe to any hard and fast theory of equal distribution of United States naval strength in the Atlantic and the Pacific.

"Never, in my estimation, should there be a fixed concept of fleet distribution between the two oceans," he said. "Strategic considerations which develop from the international situation will dictate the distribution."

Member Of New French Cabinet Is Slain By Wife

Pierre Chevallier Had Wanted Divorce

ORLEANS, France, Aug. 12 (AP) — A promising young French politician who only yesterday won a post in the new French cabinet was shot to death by his pretty black-haired wife today after he told her he wanted a divorce.

He was 42-year-old Pierre Chevallier, who was named secretary of state for technical education, youth and sports in the cabinet of Premier Rene Pleven. Police said his wife, Yvonne, confessed to firing five shots from a revolver that killed him almost instantly.

Cheallier was mayor of war-devactated Orleans and a hero of the French resistance movement during World War Two. In private life he was a physician. She was a former midwife.

Pleven Is Shocked

Chevallier was a close co-worker of Premier Pleven. The Premier, shocked by the news of the domestic tragedy, dispatched high officials from his office to investigate.

Police gave this account:

A few days ago Mrs. Chevallier bought a small revolver and asked permission to carry it on the grounds her husband had dangerous political enemies.

Chevallier had been in Paris for the past week as the cabinet crisis neared its end. She telephoned him several times yesterday and reproached him for failing to come home. He told his wife he had taken over his new job and could not leave.

Shooting Climaxes Quarrel

This morning he had been scheduled to dedicate a bridge at Chatillon Sur-Loire — not far from Orleans. He left Paris in the early morning hours in an official ministry car.

At 9 a. m. the car pulled up outside his home here. He told the chauffeur to wait while he went inside to change his clothes.

A quarrel ensued. Chevallier told his wife he wanted a divorce. She drew the revolver and fired five times. Two bullets struck him in the head and three in the chest.

Mrs. Chevallier met police at the door and said:

"I have just killed my husband."

Enemy Truce Team Charts Buffer Ideas

Negotiators Meet Hour, 20 Minutes

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, Aug. 13 (AP)—United Nations and Communist truce teams met for one hour and 20 minutes today on the crucial Korean buffer zone issue.

There was no announcement of the results.

The delegates set the next meeting for 11 a. m. Tuesday (8 p. m., EST, Monday).

Each side entered todays session searching for a soft spot in the others demands for a buffer zone.

Both Red and United Nations delegations have held fast to their demands through 12 straight meetings.

But the Reds yesterday at Kaesong charted the two proposals on a Korean map in relation to present battle lines. A U. N. command spokesman said the Communists appeared slightly more conciliatory on the buffer zone issue.

The meetings had teetered for three days on the brink of collapse until Sundays session. Then North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il, senior Red delegate, acceded to a formal United Nations request for a map.

Document Closely Studied

The 30 x 48-inch document was closely studied at U. N. advance headquarters Sunday night. For the first time the Reds had put on paper their concept of:

1. The present battle lines.
2. The 38th parallel which the Reds insist be the buffer demarcation line.
3. The U. N. command's "original and generalized" proposal for a demilitarized zone.

The Allies have called for a demilitarized zone along a defensible line approximating the present fighting front. It is south of parallel 38 in the west and well north of the parallel in the center and east.

Responsible sources said they believed that, while the Reds were still vitally interested in drawing a demarcation line along the 38th parallel, they were even more interested in obtaining an armistice.

For this reason it was believed the Reds might retreat from their original stand toward a compromise.

Cautious Against Optimism

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, U. N. briefing officer who attended the session, cautioned against optimism, but pointed out that it was the first time the Communists had been willing to place any ideas—either their own or the United Nations—on a map.

Nuckols said this looked like "an indication of willingness to depart from their hitherto firm and inflexible position."

The U. N. command in a communique Sunday night said, "although no tangible progress was made toward a solution", on the buffer zone, the 22nd meeting "may have uncovered a mutually acceptable area in which further exploratory discussions might be held."

It was a cautious statement. However, it appeared that if the adamant stand of the Reds is modified, the U. N. may also consider some concessions on where to stop the shooting war.

Demos And GOP Enter TV Field

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Democratic and Republican National Committees have stuck cautious toes into the television field, with indications they will splurge in the 1952 campaign.

As a starter, the Democratic committee has agreed to help Sen. Benton (D-Conn) finance regular TV reports to constituents. These will be filmed in Washington and shown in Connecticut. Benton will be seeking a six-year Senate term in next year's election.

Charles Vandevander, Democratic national publicity director, said the committee is contributing a modest amount toward the cost and expects to pick up part of the tab for other campaigning lawmakers.

The Republican National Committee has been in the TV business since March. furnishing the cameraman and other production workers for 10-minute takes by Rep. Keating of New York.

William Mylander, GOP national publicity director, said the committee has made arrangements to help put Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), another 1952 candidate, on TV film for home consumption and is negotiating with Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) for a similar series.

Fourteen of the 19 Republican senators whose seats are at stake in next year's election are from states with TV facilities. Most of them will be knocking on the committee's door for help before the campaign rolls around.

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 12 (AP) — British-Iranian oil talks got a setback today.

The negotiators cancelled a session at which the British had planned to submit a new proposal for settlement of the dispute over nationalization of the rich Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, more than half owned by the British government.

A source close to the negotiations said the meeting was called off because Iranian officials had expressed privately their coolness to the proposals prepared, but not yet submitted officially, by British Lord Privy Seal Richard Stokes

Neither the British nor the Iranians want the talks to break down now, a week after they were started, however. It was believed the British, warned in advance of Iranian opposition, would revise their proposals in hope of reaching an agreement.

Stakes, it was reliably reported, had ready a plan to eliminate the name of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company from Iran, but keep British mangerial control of the oil fields and refinery.

Army Action In "Cribbing" Case To Be Completed Soon

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP) —The Army said today that action should be completed early next week on the 90 West Point cadets who face dismissal for "cribbing" on examinations.

At the same time, the Army held firm to its stand that there would be no honorable discharges for cadets found guilty of violating the Military Academy's honor code.

Since Head Football Coach Earl (Red) Blaik appealed last week that the involved boys be permitted to leave the academy without stigma, there has been a strong movement to lighten the cadets' punishment.

Blaik has received a tremendous amount of mail, all of it sympathetic to the involved boys.

"The action we are to take has been approved by the Department of the Army and the President himself," Col. James B. Leer, the Military Academy's public information officer, said. "There can be no deviation from the statement made last week by the superintendent, Maj. Gen. Frederick Irving."

Irving announced that cadets admitting guilt under oath would be given a chance to resign.

Those refusing to resign will be discharged by administrative order, without specification as to character.

Million German Red Youths Stage 'Hate West' Rally

Huge Parade Dwarfs Hitler Era Displays

BERLIN, Aug. 12 (AP)—More than 1,000,000 blue-shirted girls and boys, chanting loyalty to Stalin and hate for the West, staged a giant parade in East Berlin today in a propaganda show that outdid Hitler's biggest spectacles.

The high point of the 14-day Communist World Youth Peace Festival came to an end after nine hours of steady marching past the reviewing stand in Marx-Engels Platz, the Red square that formerly was the Lustgarten.

Western precautions against violent incidents were unnecessary. Not a stone was thrown in anger all day.

Top Reds Review Parade

The Russian-controlled East German news agency said 2,000,000 youths participated in the giant demonstration — 1,500,000 who marched in the parade and 500,000 who acted as spectators and saved their strength for shouting slogans. Western observers thought the figures were somewhat exaggerated.

"This exceeded all expectations" said the news agency, adding that 35,000 delegates had come from West Germany and 22,000 from other foreign countries.

High German Communists, President Wilhelm Pieck, Premier Otto Grotewohl and Party Boss Walter Ulbricht and their Soviet guests, had seats of honor for the review.

Banners Lambast Truman

The marchers and cheering sections kept up a steady din of shouting "Long live Stalin," "Ami (Americans), go home," and "Ami, get out of Korea."

Coming in seemingly endless waves, many abreast, the paraders carried floats, banners and caricatures lambasting President Truman, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and the West German leaders, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Socialist Kurt Schumacher.

Several floats made capital of British use of Helgoland Island as a practice bombing target, and thousands shouted "Helgoland" just as Nazis once shouted "Danzig" when Hitler was plotting his war against Poland.

Police said he apparently tried to plug a cord into an electric wall socket and in some way received an electrical current through his body.

Foe Now Has Strength For Major Attack

Drive Might Come If Talks Founder

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Communists have made a big military buildup in Korea.

The question is: Are they planning a new offensive if the Kaesong armistice talks finally collapse, or are they pouring in troops merely to strengthen the hand of their negotiators?

High Allied officers agree that the enemy has plenty of power and can attack if he wants to, but Allied intelligence is uncertain whether such an attack will come.

A few intelligence officers will say "probably," but they say it with nothing like the certainty which they were able to forecast the big Red offensives of last January, February, April and May.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway confirmed the Red buildup in his report to the United Nations Aug. 3.

Evidence Assembled

Here is some of the evidence available in Korea to suggest an immediate Red drive if the Kaesong conference founders:

1. Unusually heavy truck traffic through North Korea towards the front, starting at the first mention of armistice talks late in June and continuing through mid-July.

Some Air Force pilots reported seeing up to 2,000 trucks at a time in this period, boldly using lights at night despite air attacks.

After July 15 this traffic eased off. This suggests the Reds had completed whatever preparations they had in mind.

2. An entirely new vigor in the North Korean army. North Korean units are on both the extreme eastern and western ends of the front and have been putting up some of the most violent resistance to small "limited-objective" Allied thrusts.

Red Artillery Increases

Their performance is infinitely better than that of the wretched North Korean First Corps which was knocked to pieces last April.

This lends support to reports that the North Korean army has been thoroughly reorganized and retrained.

3. Communist artillery has become more plentiful and bolder. Every part of the front now reports Red artillery fire as a routine matter, whereas a few months ago it was exceptional. The Reds then relied almost entirely on mortars for large-caliber fire.

Zwillman Sought In Boston Area

BOSTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Senate crime committee's hunt for Abner (Longie) Zwillman narrowed tonight to an undisclosed Greater Boston city where police said he "probably is hiding out."

Zwillman, described as a former bootlegger, is the object of a nationwide search. The crime committee wants to serve a subpoena on him to testify before it in Washington.

The hunt turned to land after a yacht on which Zwillman had been sailing was found at Block Island, R. I. The husky ex-bootlegger who now is in the tobacco business at Hillside, N. J., was no longer aboard the craft.

Richard Moser, the crime committee's chief counsel who called for the nationwide alert, said in New York:

"This former big-time bootlegger is believed to be bigger than (Frank) Costello but so far more successful in avoiding the public spotlight."

Zwillman had been reported aboard the 70-foot yacht "Howdy Podner" last week in Boston and Marblehead. United States marshals and Coast Guard patrol vessels were alerted to spot the yacht.

Moser said those aboard the vessel when it was found in Rhode Island readily conceded that Zwillman had been aboard and that they gave the information that he left it in the Massachusetts yachting port of Marblehead.

Officers later found the bag two miles from the beach and said they thought they had the thieves bottled up in Calvert County, Md.

Peiping Police Jail 19 Priests In Church Drive

Communists Shift To Frontal Attack

HONG KONG, Aug. 12 (AP)—Communist police jailed 19 Catholic priests, closed 12 of Peiping's 17 parish centers and put all the rest of the city's 80 foreign missionaries under house arrest in simultaneous raids July 25, church sources reported today.

Describing this as "the most frontal attack yet" made against the church in China, the sources predicted similar action against Catholics and other Christians throughout Red China.

The Reds have been conducting a campaign for an "independent" Catholic church, having no connection with the Vatican.

Red "Church" Or—None

The new direct drive apparently is intended to force the people to accept this Red "church" or none.

The Red press and radio, which have carried many items about the "independence" campaign, have as yet said nothing about the police action.

The information came from Catholics arriving in this British colony from Peiping.

These sources, which cannote be named, said those arrested in Peiping July 25 included Father Harold Rigney, former rector of the Catholic Fujen University and the only American missionary still in Peiping.

A Chicagoan in his late forties, he formerly served in Europe and Africa. A U. S. Air Force chaplain in World War II, he went to Peiping at the close of the war. He was rector of Fujen until last October, when the Communists put their own men in all administrative posts but permitted priests to continue teaching.

15 Germans Seized

Others reported seized included Father Joseph Miners, a German professor at Fujen University; another unidentified professor; the German Bishop Constans Kramer, of Luanfu Diocese; the Belgian Father Van Cooli, head of the Legion of Mary in North China; a Frenchman, and 13 other Germans.

The Reds previously announced a campaign against the Legion of Mary in Tientsin, and the official Red press demanded suppression of the organization throughout China.

MacArthur Probe Group To Report

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—Sen. Harry Cain (R-Wash) revealed tonight that eight members of the joint Senate-House committee that investigated the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur have prepared a report on the hearing.

Cain, a member of the Armed Services Committee, said he was one of the signers of the document but when asked if the others also were Republicans he evaded the question.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga), who presided at the MacArthur hearing, said yesterday he would call a meeting soon to decide if a formal report is needed.

1,400 U. S. Troops Arrive In Italy

LEGHORN, Italy, Aug. 12 (AP) — Fourteen hundred serious-faced American soldiers landed at this west coast port today. It was the first large scale arrival of American troops in Italy since Allied armies liberated the country from Fascism.

Communist efforts to disrupt their arrival by a strike of 14,000 Red-controlled dock workers failed.

There was only the normal Sunday calm in this Communist-governed city beside the sunny Tyrrhenian.

All but 100 of the new arrivals will leave by train to reinforce U.S. occupation forces in Austria. They will go through the Brenner Pass in the first use of the new supply line intended to safeguard U. S. Austrian forces from any sudden attack which might cut off the former route across Germany.

Profit Rate Of Most Industries Increases

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission reported today that despite higher costs and taxes, "all but three of 25 major manufacturing industries" showed a higher rate of profit in 1950 than in prewar 1940.

The report, fourth in a series submitted to Congress by the FTC comparing prewar and postwar rates of return, after taxes, further said that "in all but six industries 1950 profit rates also showed an increase over 1949."

"The only three industries which failed to show a higher profit rate in 1950 than in 1940 were cigarets; cigars; and plug, smoking and chewing tobacco."

The six industries showing a decline in profits from 1949 to 1950 were listed as: Dairy Products; cigarets; cigars; plug, smoking and snuff tobacco; bread; biscuits and crackers.

Flattop Is Navy's Offensive Spearhead, Fechteler Says

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 12 (AP)—Adm. William Morrow Fechteler, the new chief of naval operations, says the battleship is an essential part of a carrier task force, "but the offensive spearhead of the Navy is the carrier and her planes."

The war in Korea, Fechteler told an interviewer, demonstrated anew the "mobility of carrier borne air power and its ability to go in and deliver air support of ground troops."

And whereas the Korean war has demonstrated the battleship "is an extremely powerful floating artillery in support of our troops," it should be remembered "we had absolute control of the sea."

"If the enemy had used naval forces, they could have stopped us from getting in, except what we could get in by air."

Fechteler does not subscribe to any hard and fast theory of equal distribution of United States naval strength in the Atlantic and the Pacific.

"Never, in my estimation, should there be a fixed concept of fleet distribution between the two oceans," he said. "Strategic considerations which develop from the international situation will dictate the distribution."

Member Of New French Cabinet Is Slain By Wife

Pierre Chevallier Had Wanted Divorce

ORLEANS, France, Aug. 12 (AP) — A promising young French politician who only yesterday won a post in the new French cabinet was shot to death by his pretty black-haired wife today after he told her he wanted a divorce.

He was 42-year-old Pierre Chevallier, who was named secretary of state for technical education, youth and sports in the cabinet of Premier Rene Pleven. Police said his wife, Yvonne, confessed to firing five shots from a revolver that killed him almost instantly.

Cheallier was mayor of war-devactated Orleans and a hero of the French resistance movement during World War Two. In private life he was a physician. She was a former midwife.

Pleven Is Shocked

Chevallier was a close co-worker of Premier Pleven. The Premier, shocked by the news of the domestic tragedy, dispatched high officials from his office to investigate.

Police gave this account:

A few days ago Mrs. Chevallier bought a small revolver and asked permission to carry it on the grounds her husband had dangerous political enemies.

Chevallier had been in Paris for the past week as the cabinet crisis neared its end. She telephoned him several times yesterday and reproached him for failing to come home. He told his wife he had taken over his new job and could not leave.

Shooting Climaxes Quarrel

This morning he had been scheduled to dedicate a bridge at Chatillon Sur-Loire — not far from Orleans. He left Paris in the early morning hours in an official ministry car.

At 9 a. m. the car pulled up outside his home here. He told the chauffeur to wait while he went inside to change his clothes.

A quarrel ensued. Chevallier told his wife he wanted a divorce. She drew the revolver and fired five times. Two bullets struck him in the head and three in the chest.

Mrs. Chevallier met police at the door and said:

"I have just killed my husband."

Negotiators Meet Hour, 20 Minutes

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, Aug. 13 (AP)—United Nations and Communist truce teams met for one hour and 20 minutes today on the crucial Korean buffer zone issue.

There was no announcement of the results.

The delegates set the next meeting for 11 a. m. Tuesday (8 p. m., EST, Monday).

Each side entered todays session searching for a soft spot in the others demands for a buffer zone.

Both Red and United Nations delegations have held fast to their demands through 12 straight meetings.

But the Reds yesterday at Kaesong charted the two proposals on a Korean map in relation to present battle lines. A U. N. command spokesman said the Communists appeared slightly more conciliatory on the buffer zone issue.

The meetings had teetered for three days on the brink of collapse until Sundays session. Then North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il, senior Red delegate, acceded to a formal United Nations request for a map.

Document Closely Studied

The 30 x 48-inch document was closely studied at U. N. advance headquarters Sunday night. For the first time the Reds had put on paper their concept of:

1. The present battle lines.
2. The 38th parallel which the Reds insist be the buffer demarcation line.
3. The U. N. command's "original and generalized" proposal for a demilitarized zone.

The Allies have called for a demilitarized zone along a defensible line approximating the present fighting front. It is south of parallel 38 in the west and well north of the parallel in the center and east.

Responsible sources said they believed that, while the Reds were still vitally interested in drawing a demarcation line along the 38th parallel, they were even more interested in obtaining an armistice.

For this reason it was believed the Reds might retreat from their original stand toward a compromise.

Cautious Against Optimism

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, U. N. briefing officer who attended the session, cautioned against optimism, but pointed out that it was the first time the Communists had been willing to place any ideas—either their own or the United Nations—on a map.

Nuckols said this looked like "an indication of willingness to depart from their hitherto firm and inflexible position."

The U. N. command in a communique Sunday night said, "although no tangible progress was made toward a solution", on the buffer zone, the 22nd meeting "may have uncovered a mutually acceptable area in which further exploratory discussions might be held."

It was a cautious statement. However, it appeared that if the adamant stand of the Reds is modified, the U. N. may also consider some concessions on where to stop the shooting war.

Demos And GOP Enter TV Field

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Democratic and Republican National Committees have stuck cautious toes into the television field, with indications they will splurge in the 1952 campaign.

As a starter, the Democratic committee has agreed to help Sen. Benton (D-Conn) finance regular TV reports to constituents. These will be filmed in Washington and shown in Connecticut. Benton will be seeking a six-year Senate term in next year's election.

Charles Vandevander, Democratic national publicity director, said the committee is contributing a modest amount toward the cost and expects to pick up part of the tab for other campaigning lawmakers.

The Republican National Committee has been in the TV business since March. furnishing the cameraman and other production workers for 10-minute takes by Rep. Keating of New York.

William Mylander, GOP national publicity director, said the committee has made arrangements to help put Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), another 1952 candidate, on TV film for home consumption and is negotiating with Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) for a similar series.

Fourteen of the 19 Republican senators whose seats are at stake in next year's election are from states with TV facilities. Most of them will be knocking on the committee's door for help before the campaign rolls around.

Former Cooking School Instructor On TV Now

When the Times-News Cooking School opens on Tuesday, September 11, at the Strand Theatre, there will be a new instructor in place of Miss Eddaline Stohr, now one of the leading stars on Television. Miss Stohr conducted most of the Times-News food demonstrations here since they were resumed after World War II.

In the July 28 issue of The New Yorker Miss Stohr was the subject of a review of Television programs. She is one of the most popular CBS home cooking demonstrators on TV.

"Miss Stohr has a pleasing voice," writes the commentator, "and the longer I listened the less eager I was to turn to something else—even visible."

The reason "listen" was emphasized was the failure of the reviewer's set to register the color transmission of Miss Stohr's assortment of red apples, orangey - yellow oranges, appetizingly brown pork chops and red barbecue sauce.

Regular attendants at the Times-News Cooking School each year can well imagine the attractive picture Miss Stohr makes on Television. She resigned early this year from the Chicago Live Stock and Meat Board to accept the television assignment with CBS.

Contracts have been signed and arrangements completed for the 1951 cooking school for Cumberland area homemakers. All expenses are paid by the Times-News as a public service, and admission to the four three - hour morning sessions at the Strand are free.

In addition to the valuable information imparted at the Tuesday-to-Friday school, there are approximately 20 awards daily for those who attend, in addition to 12 grand prizes on the final day. Baskets of groceries and the dishes prepared daily on the stage are given away by the newspaper sponsors.

Daily attendance at the cooking school sessions range from 1200 to 1600 women.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

MOST LETHAL OF LEADS

AMONG all the devastating leads that can be made by a defender who holds most of the trumps which are out against the declarer, the most lethal is his long suit. By making the declarer consume his trumps with ruffs, the defender puts his own in position to take tricks, and at the same time keeps the declarer from ruffing up a side suit of his own or the dummy for the purpose of establishing it as a means of getting discards in still another suit.

This deal produced a spade game at most tables of a duplicate, due to the defense put up by South, who generally led the diamond Q. In all of these cases, East got the jump by winning the first trick with the diamond A, leading the diamond 3, which South ruffed, then losing to the heart A, ruffing the heart Q, taking out South's second trump with the K, giving up his third trick to South on another diamond lead with an over-ruff of the spade 9 by the 10, ruffing his own good heart J when the 10 was led back, removing South's last trump with the A, still retaining one trump. Next he led to the club A and used the diamond K to drop North's last card of that suit. On this he discarded a club, and he put another then on the diamond 9 to assure the contract, having lost only two tricks to South's trumps and one to the heart A.

The successful defender in the South opened the heart A, felling the K. The heart Q ruff made declarer use his first trump, the spade 5 lead to the K used his second and the diamond 2 was led to the A. Now the spade A consumed Southth's second trump and the spade J to the Q left South with one trump and East with two. The heart 10 was led to the J for a club discard by East and the diamond K was ruffed by South's final trump. He returned the heart 9, which East ruffed, but this left the declarer only one trump, not enough to ruff up his diamond suit. So he had to lose a club trick at the end and be down one.

Kimble, of this county, attended a conference Saturday at the home of Senator Goldstein, Prince Frederick, Calvert County, to discuss the possibility of a pay increase for teachers from state funds. Those present in addition to the Cumberlander, were Speaker of the House of Delegates John H. Luber; State Superintendent of Schools Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., and David Zimmerman and John Seidel, members of Dr. Pullen's staff.

The state's failure to raise teachers salaries has caused a drop in teacher college enrollments and an increase in resignations by present teachers, Dr. Pullen told the legislators.

Pullen said the present $2,200 to $3,800 scale could be raised by a flat increase of $300 at an annual cost of $3,463,814 to the state. He said if a $400 hike is granted, the cost would be $5,164,689 annually.

Dr. Pullen suggested that a raise be granted, and also called for eight annual increases to teachers of $200 each instead of the present custom of granting 16 annual increases of $100 each.

Sen. Goldstein is chairman of a subcommittee of the Legislative Council to consider teacher pay increases. He said the subcommittee would have no comment until after a meeting with Governor McKeldin on Sept. 5. Senator Kimble said the committee must prepare a report before Oct. 15.

The world's first Christmas cards with religious designs were published in Belfast, Ireland, in 1875.

Three Forms Of Entertainment Listed For Fair

Includes Nightly Fireworks, Shows

Three forms of entertainment, in addition to record-breaking exhibits, will be offered Cumberland Fair goers next week at Fairgo, a show in front of the grandstand, a carnival and midway at the entrance area, and nightly fireworks exhibitions.

Prell's Broadway Shows will bring its 36 rides and sideshows to the midway, while the George A. Hamid Shows will have nine circus attractions on a stage to be erected in front of the grandstand.

Hamid will have Ira Millette and Penny, aerialists, a father and daughter team that performs on the high poles.

The LaFoun troup, two girls and two young men, will present acrobaties, juggling and oriental contortions.

The Three Brooks, a comedy team, two men, one of them a midget, and a blonde, Jeannette Balzer; The Great Telesco, a free pole artist; SaSo, the clown; Miss Conniee Shearer, arcrobat contortionist, and two yet to be announced, round out the program of outdoor amusements on the stage.

The Prell Show has 36 rides, shows and stands that dispense hot dogs, candy cotton and all the other carnival food. Shows include Salerno, the Man with the Asbestos Skin; The Monkey Circus; Broadway Scandals, featuring Bettie MacDonald; Zacchini, the Human Cannonball, and Worlds' fair freaks including Lentini, the three-legged man. Brilliant lighting effects and numerous musical groups feature this carnival attraction.

The Cumberland Fair Association will again resume its practice of having nightly fire works during the fair scheduled to open Monday, August 20, and continue through Saturday, August 25.

In addition to the amusements, the facilities at Fairgo will be jammed with exhibits. The agricultural, horticultural, live stock, poultry and homemaking entries are the largest ever listed here.

Former Cooking School Instructor On TV Now

When the Times-News Cooking School opens on Tuesday, September 11, at the Strand Theatre, there will be a new instructor in place of Miss Eddaline Stohr, now one of the leading stars on Television. Miss Stohr conducted most of the Times-News food demonstrations here since they were resumed after World War II.

In the July 28 issue of The New Yorker Miss Stohr was the subject of a review of Television programs. She is one of the most popular CBS home cooking demonstrators on TV.

"Miss Stohr has a pleasing voice," writes the commentator, "and the longer I listened the less eager I was to turn to something else—even visible."

The reason "listen" was emphasized was the failure of the reviewer's set to register the color transmission of Miss Stohr's assortment of red apples, orangey - yellow oranges, appetizingly brown pork chops and red barbecue sauce.

Regular attendants at the Times-News Cooking School each year can well imagine the attractive picture Miss Stohr makes on Television. She resigned early this year from the Chicago Live Stock and Meat Board to accept the television assignment with CBS.

Contracts have been signed and arrangements completed for the 1951 cooking school for Cumberland area homemakers. All expenses are paid by the Times-News as a public service, and admission to the four three - hour morning sessions at the Strand are free.

In addition to the valuable information imparted at the Tuesday-to-Friday school, there are approximately 20 awards daily for those who attend, in addition to 12 grand prizes on the final day. Baskets of groceries and the dishes prepared daily on the stage are given away by the newspaper sponsors.

Daily attendance at the cooking school sessions range from 1200 to 1600 women.

"Stark Mad" Scheduled At Manor Playhouse

"Stark Mad" is the scheduled attraction this week at the Colonial Manor Playhouse on U.S. 30, two miles west of Irwin, Pa. Shows there begin at 8:40 p. m. and the Wednesday matinee is at 2:15 p. m.

Plays at the Mountain Playhouse, Jennerstown, Pa., begin at 8:40 and there is a Friday matinee at 2 p. m.

Commissioners' Organization Plans Meeting

County Group Will Attend

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners has received from the Maryland Association of County Commissioners the program for the association's organizational meeting to be held Friday and Saturday, September 7 and 8, at Ocean City, with headquarters in the George Washington Hotel.

The first afternoon will be devoted to registration. Board President William H. Lemmert will attend the county commissioner presidents' meeting at 8 p. m.

Saturday registration will be at 9 a. m. followed by the general business meeting with W. Clyde Ford, Jr., of Somerset County, as temporary chairman.

The invocation will be given by Rev. William L. Dewees, rector of St. Paul's by the Sea Church, Ocean City, followed by the address of welcome by Ocean City's Mayor Daniel Trimper.

Officers and a board of directors will be elected. Three directors will be from the Western Shore and three from the Eastern Shore. This organization will mark the first time that the county commissioners of both shores have been in one body.

Previously the Western Shore and the Eastern Shore commissioners had separate organizations. The joint group was formed at a meeting April 11 of both groups.

Appointments will be made to these committees: legislative, welfare, convention, auditing and budget, constitution and bylaws, entertainment and resolutions.

At 1:30 p. m. Saturday, Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission, will talk on SRC plans, and Paul Burke, director of the State Traffic Safety Commission, will speak on the safety program and will present a movie, "Traffic Safety."

The convention banquet will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the George Washington Hotel. Stedman Prescott, judge of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, will be toastmaster and Governor T. R. McKeldin will be the speaker.

Attending from Allegany County will be Commissioners Lemmert, James Holmes and James Orr, Gorman C. Getty, county attorney, and James Stevenson, clerk to the board.

Parade Prize Goes To Bloomington

The Bloomington Volunteer Fire Company won first prize in the parade held Saturday night at Cresaptown by the fire company of that community. Midland was second and LaVale was third among the competing fire companies.

District No. 16, North Branch, won the prize for the best auxiliary in the line of march.

Miss Betty Twigg, who was crowned "Miss Cresaptown" on Friday night during the three-day festival, and her attendants, Miss Frances Winters and Miss Betty Wolford, rode in the parade.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

MOST LETHAL OF LEADS

AMONG all the devastating leads that can be made by a defender who holds most of the trumps which are out against the declarer, the most lethal is his long suit. By making the declarer consume his trumps with ruffs, the defender puts his own in position to take tricks, and at the same time keeps the declarer from ruffing up a side suit of his own or the dummy for the purpose of establishing it as a means of getting discards in still another suit.

This deal produced a spade game at most tables of a duplicate, due to the defense put up by South, who generally led the diamond Q. In all of these cases, East got the jump by winning the first trick with the diamond A, leading the diamond 3, which South ruffed, then losing to the heart A, ruffing the heart Q, taking out South's second trump with the K, giving up his third trick to South on another diamond lead with an over-ruff of the spade 9 by the 10, ruffing his own good heart J when the 10 was led back, removing South's last trump with the A, still retaining one trump. Next he led to the club A and used the diamond K to drop North's last card of that suit. On this he discarded a club, and he put another then on the diamond 9 to assure the contract, having lost only two tricks to South's trumps and one to the heart A.

The successful defender in the South opened the heart A, felling the K. The heart Q ruff made declarer use his first trump, the spade 5 lead to the K used his second and the diamond 2 was led to the A. Now the spade A consumed Soutth's second trump and the spade J to the Q left South with one trump and East with two. The heart 10 was led to the J for a club discard by East and the diamond K was ruffed by South's final trump. He returned the heart 9, which East ruffed, but this left the declarer only one trump, not enough to ruff up his diamond suit. So he had to lose a club trick at the end and be down one.

Fort Hill Reservoir Water Supply Low

The low water supply in Fort Hill reservoir was attributed Saturday night to "flushing of fire hydrants and cleaning fillers at the dam."

Water Superintendent Andrew G. Bender offered the explanation after several residents complained. Water in the reservoir had dropped to the midway mark.

Refreshing Viewpoint

At a Stanford University conference, Prof. Allan Nevins of Columbia University predicted there will be a change in the interpretation of American economic history, with more appreciative treatment for "the heroes of our material growth — the Rockefellers, Carnegies, Hills and Morgans."

Historians, Professor Nevins continued, have been "apologetic about our dollars, our race to wealth, our materialism; they mentioned deprecatingly our worship of size and deplored our boastfulness about steel tonnage and wheat production. They spoke scornfully of the robber barons, who were not robber barons at all."

Professor Nevins' prophecy is signicant, for what has been called the "masochistic school" of American history was born on the campus. There was some ground for criticism, but objectivity was always lacking. The historians confused the system with its abuses. They held that bigness was an evil in itself, ignoring its contributions to the nation's welfare, including the higher living standards which it made possible.

They ignored the courage, enterprise and broad vision with which the 19th Century built the industrial machine that is today the greatest bulwark of the nation's security.

A government which has incited suspicion and hatred of industrial leaders has found it necessary again and again to call them to manage the economy in wartime. Always they have responded patriotically, as they are responding now, and always they have accomplished miracles of production. Their skill and knowledge which are indispensable to the nation are always at its disposal.

Industrial development should be encouraged and its leaders, past and present, given credit for their achievements.

Fanning Inflation

There are many inconsistencies in government administration. Today, while urging people to refrain from needless spending and excessive borrowing to quell the inflationary flame, the government continues to fan that flame by new commitments by its credit lending and loan guaranteeing agencies.

In this critical period the lack of adequate fiscal control of these government corporate enterprises, as revealed by the Hoover Commission, should be a matter of serious concern. The commission found that not only was there confusion and duplication, but also unnecessary multiplication in their functions.

Worse still, some agencies were investing their surplus cash in government securities, thus compelling the government to pay interest on its own investment. The Hoover Commission's majority was led to the conclusion that direct lending by the government should be avoided except for emergencies on the ground that the practice opened up "dangerous possibilities of waste and favoritism" as well as inviting "political pressure or even corruption."

Subsequent disclosures about Reconstruction Finance Corporation lending by the Fulbright investigating committee sustained this report. As a result the pending Fulbright bill authorizes appropriations to a revolving fund for the RFC in place of its present authority to borrow from Treasury public debt receipts which are funds obtained in financing operations rather than from taxation. The menace of inflation makes the need of this method, applied to all similar agencies, more pressing than ever.

A comprehensive analysis of the situation has been supplied by the Tax Foundation of New York. Emphasizing the importance of placing the agencies under more effective budgetary control, the analysis shows that authorizations to spend from public debt receipts total nearly $20,000,000,000. And this in a period of boom economic activity.

The foundation logically contends that the restrictive policies imposed on private credit should be imposed on public credit.

Not The Full Solution

The beginning war on the drug evil, quickening on state and local fronts, is at last receiving notice in Congress. A series of bills has been introduced, nearly all directed to solving the problem by increasing prison penalties.

One measure, product of the Senate crime investigation, would impose mandatory sentences of 20 years to life in all cases involving sales to youths under 17 years. Other bills affecting sentences are pending. There is a bill, dedicated to better enforcement, which would post a reward of $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of peddlers.

Stiffer and firmer sentences for the ringleaders are surely indicated. It is to be hoped, however, that Congress will not stop there. That is a beginning, not an end.

The Federal Narcotics Bureau, which has only 180 officers, needs additional personnel. Expanded facilities for the care and treatment of narcotics addicts are required. Aid to local authorities, in their own communities, is essential.

As it is now, narcotics addicts, after imprisonment, are turned loose to return to their former environments, without a job, without helpful advice and interest, without hope.

Relief Roll Publicity

The distribution of welfare funds in this country has been accompanied by so much fakery and downright crookedness that several states want to make public the names of persons on relief. It is proper, they contend, that they should be able to check expenditures for old age assistance in the same way they now check other disbursements.

Under the present federal law, publication of relief rolls is not expressly forbidden. Still it amounts to that, inasmuch as any state which engages in the practice will lose its share of the sizable contribution which the federal government makes for this purpose every year.

But if the House of Representatives passes a bill already approved by the Senate the various states will have some discretion in the matter. Thus there will be restored to them their traditional right to determine whether the money entrusted to them by their taxpayers is being properly spent.

Nor are individual chiselers exclusively to blame. The responsibility for the present situation must be shared by those welfare agencies—federal as well as state—which have been more interested in giving away money than in seeing that it goes only to persons entitled to it.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Trench Mouth, Or Vincent's Infection

Penicillin has knocked trench mouth (Vincent's infection) from the list of unpleasant diseases. The wonder drug has not eliminated it, but when the lesions appear they cause less concern than in the past.

The disease was prevalent among soldiers in the trenches in World War I, hence the name. Two organisms predominate, the Bacillus fusiformis and the Borrelia vincentii. The resulting infection is more severe and painful than those caused by the streptococcus or staphylococcus. When they get the upper hand and invade the gums the affected site becomes red and puffy. As inflamation increases, ulcers form that are covered with a grayish membrane. These lesions have a punched out appearance and bleed easily on slight pressure or irritation. The gums are so tender that the victim finds it difficult to chew or even to swallow. Salivation increases and the breath becomes offensive.

The disease is not always confined to the gums; it may spread to the tonsils and produce tonsilitis or to the vocal cords, with ensuing hoarseness. Now and then the organisms even reach the bronchi resulting in an irritating cough. Many victims develop fever and headache and feel as ill as tho they had a strep throat.

The condition is most likely to attack individuals whose general resistance has been lowered thru illness, stress, or dissipation. Poor oral hygiene, inadequate diet, and vitamin deficiencies can do the same. Smoking also may play a role by lowering the resistance of the oral tissues. The organisms frequently are present in healthy individuals but they do no damage until resistance is decreased. Occasionally the infection occurs in epidemic proportions; in such cases it is contagious and is transmitted thru contaminated eating utensils, glassware, and towels. Epidemics of this nature appear in institutions and army barracks where the quarters are crowded.

Penicillin usually cleans up the lesions within 12 to 48 hours. It can be used locally in the form of a mouth wash, spray, or lozenge. Some physicians inject the wonder drug into an arm or leg, especially in more severe cases. When this is done, it is absorbed into the blood stream to combat the disease from within. In addition to these methods the remedy also is applied directly to the lesions via an applicator. But penicillin is not the only antibiotic that works, and more recently others have been used successfully.

Additional measures include mouth washes of sodium perborate, hydrogen peroxide, and normal saline solution. Good oral hygiene, and maintaining the health at par are essential to prevent recurrences. Any existing dental defects should receive attention.

TOMORROW: Man's search for nutrition is discussed by Dr. Van Dellen.

ROUGH SKIN

Mrs. D. Writes: "My husband and son have areas on the skin that are rough and feel like sandpaper. Is there any cure for this ugly condition?

REPLY

Olive oil or lanolin cream often gives temporary relief. A thorough examination is indicated because in some instances a deficiency of vitamin A or thyroid is responsible.

FROZEN JUICE

Mrs. L. writes: Does frozen concentrated orange juice contain as much vitamin C as fresh oranges?

REPLY

Yes. The vitamin C content will vary, as it does in fresh fruit, depending upon the soil in the area where the oranges are grown, their ripeness, and other factors. The containers should be properly refrigerated after purchasing and used soon after being poured into an open container.

CHAFING

Mrs. F. writes: I am overweight and suffer from chafing as soon as warm weather appears. What can I do?

REPLY

Obesity encourages the condition. Why not try to reduce? Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on relief measures in chafing.

Rh NEGATIVE

Mrs. Z. writes: Tests show that my blood is Rh negative. Could this blood type account for the fact that I'm cold all the time?

REPLY

No, because "negative" does not mean that you lack "warm cells." The test refers to the presence or absence of the Rhesus factor in the blood.

HAIR LOSS

Mrs. L. writes: I am a woman of 82 and used to have a thick head of hair but am losing it fast. Is there something wrong?

REPLY

This occurs from time to time in the elderly. The cause is not known. Now you can appreciate how men feel if the tresses begin to fall when scarcely out of their teens.

Russian Bear Has Swallowed Too Much — Can't Absorb Satellites; Western Propaganda Needed More Than Ever To Encourage Peoples Behind Iron Curtain

NEAR THE IRON CURTAIN, IN CENTRAL EUROPE—If there was ever a time when propaganda was needed to encourage and stimulate the people behind the iron curtain, now is it.

Already the people of the satellite countries and even many in Russia proper are tron by doubt and dissension and distrust. Their restlessness had been churning for some time but now it's near the boiling point.

All clues I have been able to pick up from the underground and from intelligence reports convince me that the Russian Bear has swallowed too much and will have to regurgitate. A bear that's suffering from acute indigestion is not usually belligerent and it may be that additional propaganda barrages by balloons, the Voice of America and every other device possible could help increase that sickness and tip the scales for peace.

Furthermore, messages of friendship and encouragement to the people behind the iron curtain at this time can help produce another Tito in Poland, Czechoslovakia or Hungary. That, of course, is what Stalin fears most.

There have been reports in previous years of trouble behind the iron curtain, but never as many as now. Two hundred Communist leaders in Bulgaria are reported under arrest; 22 Soviet generals and high Soviet officials have died mysteriously in the last seven months; four Czech generals have been arrested or committed suicide in six months; nine of the highest officers in the Polish army were tried for treason; 12 Polish seamen on a minesweeper mutinied, locked up their officers, and deserted to Sweden; four young Pols fled to Sweden in a stolen bullet-riddled airplane; three Lithuanians locked up other crew members on a Russian trawler and escaped.

Why People Rebel

This throbbing unrest inside the iron curtain has been caused in part by Soviet war preparations which have been going on for some time. When a government takes too much of the necessities of life—food, fuel, consumer goods—away from its people they rebel. When a Polish miner who hates Russia anyway is ordered to work harder to produce war material for communism, he gets restless. Likewise with the Czech uranium miner and the Hungarian farmer who never did like collective farming.

No nation in its right mind — though dictators seldom are in their right minds—makes war when the civilian population behind the lines is certain to rise up against the government. That's why the unrest behind the iron curtain is so important. To illustrate the seriousness of this situation and the importance of intensifying our propaganda, here is a brief summary of the best underground reports I can get of what is happening behind the curtain:

CZECHOSLOVAKIA—The Czechs have now recovered from the stunned apathy which followd the initial seizure of their country by Moscow and are beginning to get their courage back. A serious food shortage, blamed on the Russians, is partly responsible. On top of this the Voice of America, which predicted the arrest of Foreign Minister Vladimir Clementis and four other Czechs had its effect. Finally, Radio Free Europe has sent such devastating barrages of propaganda into Czechoslovakia that the Czech government has demanded that Radio Free Europe be taken off the air.

Kremlin Suspicions Increasing

POLAND — Resentment against Moscow is so serious that Vyacheslav Molotov, now the No. 2 man to Stalin and seldom seen in public, made a special trip to Warsaw to warn the Poles against following Tito. The importance of this warning is shown by the fact that Marshal Grigori Zhukov, hero of Berlin, and Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, military ruler of Poland, appeared with Molotov on the same platform. Behind this warning was the fact that the railroad between Berlin and Moscow is sabotaged so frequently that repair crews are kept busy night and day. Production is dropping. The Catholic church is leading a potent underground and Kremlin has become so suspicious of top Polish generals that nine of them have now been tried.

"Ulcer" To Cominform

BULGARIA — A peasant revolt has held up delivery of wheat to Russia and brought a battery of Soviet officials hurrying into Sofia. About 15,000 have been added to the 30,000 already in concentration camps, while treason trials have shown that the Agrarian (or peasant) party, once the strongest in Bulgaria, now operates a powerful underground. Agrarian leaders have encouraged the peasants to withhold crops and join guerrilla units in the mountains so successfully that the official cominform newspaper called Bulgaria an "ulcer" and criticized Premier Chervenkov for allowing the unrest to spread.

ROUMANIA—Minister of National Defense Emil Bodnaras has been arrested and there have been mass evacuations of those suspected of disloyalty to Moscow.

HUNGARY — Deportation of thousands of Hungarian peasants to concentration camps to face slavery and death have been recently denounced by U. S. Secretary of State Acheson. The leader of these mass arrests is Bela Szanto, Moscow-trained Hungarian especially sent to do the job. Szanto is a ruthless butcher who has already jailed 70,000 peasants because they have held back their grain or refused to collectivize their farms.

EAST GERMANY—Moscow's efforts to build a Communist German army have been partly frustrated by the desertion of officers of the "people's police" to Western Germany. Three separate undergrounds operate among the Russian and Red army personnel inside Germany.

This is just part of the story of restlessness now stirring behind the iron curtain and the opportunity awaiting American propaganda.

College Scholarships

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 12—I have recently received from a devoted father the copy of a letter which he wrote his son on graduation. In it he says:

Lincolns vs. Land

"Mother and I are proud of the record you made in school and college, especially by your continued faith in God and constant association with the church and the things it stands for. Now I have been thinking of what to give you as a graduation present. Mother wants me to give you a fine Lincoln convertible car; but I just don't feel it is right to do so.

"Hence, instead of giving you the car, I am enclosing a deed to 40 acres of good land worth three times the cost of the car. Land and labor are the basis of all wealth, especially in this day of inflation. Land is more desirable than money. Land will keep getting more valuable if you give it half the attention you would give a car. If you take care of the land, son, it will take care of you. I cannot object to your having a Lincoln, as I have two; but I earned the money with which I bought mine and I want you to do likewise."

Present Unfair Conditions

During the summer I have talked with several high school principals. They tell me that some of their highest and hardest working students have not the money to go to college. They can get partial scholarships, but unless they can live at home, they just can't swing it. On the other hand, students who are much less deserving go to college with an automobile and a big spending allowance.

Large corporations which send their employment managers to the colleges to hire the "best graduates" would do far better to go to the high schools and select their students by their high school record and then help finance these students through college. These corporations are now doing their picking four years late!

Importance of Summer Work

Of one thing I am certain—namely, that how high school students use their summers is of great importance. I have about come to the conslusion that I will employ only those who have worked every summer during high school and college.

Those who have earned at least half their college tuition and board are to be preferred. The best young people to hire are those who have earned their entire way through college, with the help of scholarships and summer work.

A person can do too much for his children or grandchildren. Unless a young person has learned to love work, something is wrong. It may have been careless school or home training, or giving the boy or girl too much money. Certainly more high school young people are harmed by having too much money, rather than too little money.

It is easier for a parent with money to say "yes" rather than refuse; but isn't this pure selfishness on the part of the parent or grandparent? Simetimes I think that families lacking money are more fortunate than those possessing it. Certainly this whole educational and home training problem is topsy-turvy.

Helping The Worthy

The best way to help young people is to give them opportunities to work and earn money. If they stick to the job—or themselves find a better one—then they will come out okay. I sometimes think a young person will do better in a job which he or she finds without family help. But idleness is dangerous to all concerned.

Next to giving young people good opportunities to work, perhaps the best way to help them is to say to the high school principal: I want to help some worthy student who is anxious to go to college but who must help his family and hence thinks he can't do so." Let me add that I, myself, would like to so help two or three such students who would immediately write me.

What About Trust Funds?

I believe in trust funds for children and grandchildren; but they should serve as insurance in case of sickness, old-age or hard luck. They should not result in making it unnecessary for the beneficiary to work, save and be a useful citizen. The love of work is a blessing.

Instead of arranging for the young person to get all the income when 26 years of age—it may be better to make him co-trustee with the bank but to move the 26 years up to 40 years. Trustees, however, should have power to use part of the accumulated income to help in case of need.

NOTE: I apologize for a mistake made in my release of July 8 on taxation. I should have said the Revenue Act of 1948—allows a marital deduction of 50 percent of the adjusted gross estate provided that much or more goes to the surviving spouse. This 50 percent would include life insurance which, although it pasees by contract rather than by will, is now viewed by the Internal Revenue Bureau as being part of the decedent's estate for estate tax purposes when the insured has paid the premiums, owns the policies and the other prescribed requirements which I mentioned have been fulfilled. In other words, I understand that the $40,000 limitation has temporarily been removed. R. W. B.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Which Way For Stalin?

WASHINGTON

There is a key to the mind of Joseph Stalin. For, if the past is any guide to the present and future, the voluminous writings of Stalin and his predecessor Lenin reflect the motives and intentions of Stalin quite as accurately as "Mein Kampf" did in Hitler's case. In the following imaginary address by Stalin to the Politburo, some of the words are Stalin's own words, or the words of Lenin quoted with approval by Stalin.

"Comrades. It has been whispered that the war in Korea was an error. This is counter-revolutionary infantilism. It is true that it has been necessary to liquidate those enemies of the people, the agents who reported that the American imperialists would not strongly react. Yet these are the checks which we must expect in the world-wide war in which we are engaged, a war which is a hundred times more difficult, prolonged, and complicated than the most stubborn of ordinary wars between states.

"Now, however, the time has come to reconsider our situation. We must remember that we live at all times but a hair's breadth from intervention by the imperialists. We of course know that it is inconceivable that the Soviet Republic should continue to exist for a long period side by side with the imperialist states. Ultimately one or the other must conquer.

Must Assure Victory

"The imperialists are now preparing a predatory alliance, led by the United States. As is well known, when it becomes sufficiently strong, this predatory alliance will fly at the throat of the first socialist state. In this situation, our aims are clear. Our ultimate aim must be, as always, all power to the Soviets. But first, the defense of the Soviet Union must be considered paramount—at any price, the victory of the Red Army over the armies of the imperialists must be assured.

"This can be assured in only one way, by breaking up the imperialist alliance. But in order to do this, we must make a choice. For this is a time when history confronts us with the necessity of deciding whether to take the direct or zigzag path.

"The nature of the direct path, the path of the direct frontal attack, is clear. One way to take the direct path, for example, would be to order now the liquidation of the fascist mercenary Tito by the armies of the peace-loving Peoples' Democracies, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria. If brought to a successful conclusion, such a direct frontal attack will cause the imperialist predatory alliance to disintegrate.

"Yet the danger here is evident. As is well known, the liberation of Yugoslavia, or other direct action, might cause the American ruling clique to unleash a new war. One can succeed by the direct frontal attack, only when one enjoys an overwhelming superiority of force. We must carefully consider whether we now enjoy such a superiority.

Zigzag Path Clear

"It is true, comrades, that the glorious peace-loving Red Army can smash the aggressor armies of the imperialist lackey Eisenhower into a thousand pieces. Yet our stocks of peoples' democratic atomic bombs are still comparatively low. Moreover, the iron discipline necessary for the dictatorship of the Proletariat has not been even yet fully imposed on the peoples' democracies, most notably in the case of China.

"For such reasons, we must ask ourselves whether for a time it will not be well to take the zigzag path. For, although Marxism energetically resists compromises, Marxism deems it necessary to resort to compromise . . . when the new is not yet strong enough to overthrow the old and when forces are inadequate, detours, waiting periods, zigzags, retreats . . . may be necessary.

"The way of the zigzag path is also clear. First, it will be necessary to liquidate the war in Korea, even should this cause difficulties with that devious, sly—I mean with our great peace-loving comrade, Mao Tse-tung. We must then greatly strengthen the peace offensive, while I shall again find an opportunity to stress the exportable doctrine of peaceful co-existence. Finally, we must by every means 'exacerbate the struggle between the ruling cliques of powers in the imperialist camp,' as Comrade Molotov aptly said at Warsaw, in order to cause the disintegration of the imperialist alliance. Yet here too, the danger is evident—that despite all our efforts, the disintegration of the imperialist alliance will not result.

"So, comrades, which is it to be? The direct path? Or the zigzag path?"

That Stalin and the men in the Kremlin are thinking in some such way is as sure as that the leopard has spots. It may be, of course, that they will make no clearcut choice, taking, as so often before, both paths at once. Yet we should quite soon have a very good idea of the general direction of the Kremlin's decision. For the outcome of the truce talks in Korea should provide solid evidence whether the Kremlin is to take the direct path—which will almost surely lead to war—or the zigzag path—which may lead to a precarious, but lasting state of not-war-not-peace.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Heart Of The Problem

In all the discussion of the West Point scandal, the emphasis lies on the immediate, on the young men, who are often euphemistically called boys, on the officers, on the parents. Many say, "boys will be boys," which is biologically correct until boys become men with the obligations and responsibilities of men.

Others feel that football players have to do so much practice that they cannot keep up with their work unless they are "assisted." And nothing is being said about the cadets who have not cheated.

The real issue is the nature and purpose of a college, university or other school, and of such special schools as West Point and Annapolis. This issue has, more or less, been dodged by many educators as well as parents, since it has become increasingly popular for young men and women to go to schools of higher education and special training whether they have an aptitude for scholarship or not.

The question then arises whether students attend to broaden their minds and spirits or to make friends or to mark time or to play what has come to be professional or semi-professional sports. When scholarships are given to men and women because of their excellence as students, the reward is in the field to which the universities have been devoted since the founding of Bologna in the 11th Century.

The athletic scholarship is a fee paid for special services rendered outside of scholarship. The object is to make money for the school, to attract box office receipts, to advertise the institution. It is strictly a business proposition and those to whom the fees are paid are professional performers—in whole or in part—depending upon the individual and the school.

Sometimes such paid performers are also capable of scholarship; often scholarship is not only foreign but offensive to them. In the latter instance, if they are good enough performers to be of commercial value, they are "assisted" to pass examinations so that they may comply with rules and regulations.

At such a school as West Point, this raises three important issues:

1. Under the honor system, the individual who "assists," the individual who is "assisted," and anyone who knows about it is honor bound to report the fact. West Point is a free school, the tuition, board, lodging, uniforms and other expenses being paid by the taxpayer. Also, the students are soldiers in the army, drawing pay. They are especially bound by rules and regulations in compliance with which they receive these benefits from the taxpayers.

2. These men are to be our generals of the future upon whom the survival of the nation depends. The United States makes a huge investment in each one of them, not only to be "educated," as you and I might have been at college, but to protect, defend and safeguard the nation and the Constitution. They are men apart, whose word must be inviolate for the safety of the nation. Therefore, the word, honor, must have, for them, a special and emphatic meaning.

3. The standing of a West Point man is not only a matter of personal pride; it is a matter of record, upon which an officer's career may depend. Even now, 48 years after his graduation, the fact that General Douglas MacArthur stood first in his class is significant.

If cadets are "assisted" the record is inaccurate. That assistance, on the other hand, may result in better men being kept lower on the list because they do not play football. It means that the standing of these soldiers and gentlemen is false. If the West Point records are falsified, we do not know any longer what kind of officer material is coming out of that school; we have no measure to decide whether it is safe to entrust them with the responsibilities for which they receive special training at the taxpayers' expense.

This, it seems to me, is the heart of the problem. A full and serious congressional investigation needs to be made of the entire situation, in a broad spirit, without regard to individuals.

West Point is either a school for military officers and gentlemen or it is a show place which Billy Rose might manage and save the taxpayer the cost. And these criteria could with advantage be applied to many prep schools, colleges, and universities. Perhaps some day, in their search for advertising methods, to raise funds, or to attract attention, schools will hire a corps of showgirls to put on an exhibition of slightly clothed pulchritude. But that is not education.

Refreshing Viewpoint

At a Stanford University conference, Prof. Allan Nevins of Columbia University predicted there will be a change in the interpretation of American economic history, with more appreciative treatment for "the heroes of our material growth — the Rockefellers, Carnegies, Hills and Morgans."

Historians, Professor Nevins continued, have been "apologetic about our dollars, our race to wealth, our materialism; they mentioned deprecatingly our worship of size and deplored our boastfulness about steel tonnage and wheat production. They spoke scornfully of the robber barons, who were not robber barons at all."

Professor Nevins' prophecy is signicant, for what has been called the "masochistic school" of American history was born on the campus. There was some ground for criticism, but objectivity was always lacking. The historians confused the system with its abuses. They held that bigness was an evil in itself, ignoring its contributions to the nation's welfare, including the higher living standards which it made possible.

They ignored the courage, enterprise and broad vision with which the 19th Century built the industrial machine that is today the greatest bulwark of the nation's security.

A government which has incited suspicion and hatred of industrial leaders has found it necessary again and again to call them to manage the economy in wartime. Always they have responded patriotically, as they are responding now, and always they have accomplished miracles of production. Their skill and knowledge which are indispensable to the nation are always at its disposal.

Industrial development should be encouraged and its leaders, past and present, given credit for their achievements.

Fanning Inflation

There are many inconsistencies in government administration. Today, while urging people to refrain from needless spending and excessive borrowing to quell the inflationary flame, the government continues to fan that flame by new commitments by its credit lending and loan guaranteeing agencies.

In this critical period the lack of adequate fiscal control of these government corporate enterprises, as revealed by the Hoover Commission, should be a matter of serious concern. The commission found that not only was there confusion and duplication, but also unnecessary multiplication in their functions.

Worse still, some agencies were investing their surplus cash in government securities, thus compelling the government to pay interest on its own investment. The Hoover Commission's majority was led to the conclusion that direct lending by the government should be avoided except for emergencies on the ground that the practice opened up "dangerous possibilities of waste and favoritism" as well as inviting "political pressure or even corruption."

Subsequent disclosures about Reconstruction Finance Corporation lending by the Fulbright investigating committee sustained this report. As a result the pending Fulbright bill authorizes appropriations to a revolving fund for the RFC in place of its present authority to borrow from Treasury public debt receipts which are funds obtained in financing operations rather than from taxation. The menace of inflation makes the need of this method, applied to all similar agencies, more pressing than ever.

A comprehensive analysis of the situation has been supplied by the Tax Foundation of New York. Emphasizing the importance of placing the agencies under more effective budgetary control, the analysis shows that authorizations to spend from public debt receipts total nearly $20,000,000,000. And this in a period of boom economic activity.

The foundation logically contends that the restrictive policies imposed on private credit should be imposed on public credit.

Not The Full Solution

The beginning war on the drug evil, quickening on state and local fronts, is at last receiving notice in Congress. A series of bills has been introduced, nearly all directed to solving the problem by increasing prison penalties.

One measure, product of the Senate crime investigation, would impose mandatory sentences of 20 years to life in all cases involving sales to youths under 17 years. Other bills affecting sentences are pending. There is a bill, dedicated to better enforcement, which would post a reward of $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of peddlers.

Stiffer and firmer sentences for the ringleaders are surely indicated. It is to be hoped, however, that Congress will not stop there. That is a beginning, not an end.

The Federal Narcotics Bureau, which has only 180 officers, needs additional personnel. Expanded facilities for the care and treatment of narcotics addicts are required. Aid to local authorities, in their own communities, is essential.

As it is now, narcotics addicts, after imprisonment, are turned loose to return to their former environments, without a job, without helpful advice and interest, without hope.

Relief Roll Publicity

The distribution of welfare funds in this country has been accompanied by so much fakery and downright crookedness that several states want to make public the names of persons on relief. It is proper, they contend, that they should be able to check expenditures for old age assistance in the same way they now check other disbursements.

Under the present federal law, publication of relief rolls is not expressly forbidden. Still it amounts to that, inasmuch as any state which engages in the practice will lose its share of the sizable contribution which the federal government makes for this purpose every year.

But if the House of Representatives passes a bill already approved by the Senate the various states will have some discretion in the matter. Thus there will be restored to them their traditional right to determine whether the money entrusted to them by their taxpayers is being properly spent.

Nor are individual chiselers exclusively to blame. The responsibility for the present situation must be shared by those welfare agencies—federal as well as state—which have been more interested in giving away money than in seeing that it goes only to persons entitled to it.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Trench Mouth, Or Vincent's Infection

Penicillin has knocked trench mouth (Vincent's infection) from the list of unpleasant diseases. The wonder drug has not eliminated it, but when the lesions appear they cause less concern thar in the past.

The disease was prevalent among soldiers in the trenches in World War I, hence the name. Two organisms predominate, the Bacillus fusiformis and the Borrelia vincentii. The resulting infection is more severe and painful than those caused by the streptococcus or staphylococcus. When they get the upper hand and invade the gums the affected site becomes red and puffy. As inflamation increases, ulcers form that are covered with a grayish membrane. These lesions have a punched out appearance and bleed easily on slight pressure or irritation. The gums are so tender that the victim finds it difficult to chew or even to swallow. Salivation increases and the breath becomes offensive.

The disease is not always confined to the gums; it may spread to the tonsils and produce tonsilitis or to the vocal cords, with ensuing hoarseness. Now and then the organisms even reach the bronchi resulting in an irritating cough. Many victims develop fever and headache and feel as ill as tho they had a strep throat.

The condition is most likely to attack individuals whose general resistance has been lowered thru illness, stress, or dissipation. Poor oral hygiene, inadequate diet, and vitamin deficiencies can do the same. Smoking also may play a role by lowering the resistance of the oral tissues. The organisms frequently are present in healthy individuals but they do no damage until resistance is decreased. Occasionally the infection occurs in epidemic proportions; in such cases it is contagious and is transmitted thru contaminated eating utensils, glassware, and towels. Epidemics of this nature appear in institutions and army barracks where the quarters are crowded.

Penicillin usually cleans up the lesions within 12 to 48 hours. It can be used locally in the form of a mouth wash, spray, or lozenge. Some physicians inject the wonder drug into an arm or leg, especially in more severe cases. When this is done, it is absorbed into the blood stream to combat the disease from within. In addition to these methods the remedy also is applied directly to the lesions via an applicator. But penicillin is not the only antibiotic that works, and more recently others have been used successfully.

Additional measures include mouth washes of sodium perborate, hydrogen peroxide, and normal saline solution. Good oral hygiene, and maintaining the health at par are essential to prevent recurrences. Any existing dental defects should receive attention.

TOMORROW: Man's search for nutrition is discussed by Dr. Van Dellen.

ROUGH SKIN

Mrs. D. Writes: "My husband and son have areas on the skin that are rough and feel like sandpaper. Is there any cure for this ugly condition?

REPLY

Olive oil or lanolin cream often gives temporary relief. A thorough examination is indicated because in some instances a deficiency of vitamin A or thyroid is responsible.

FROZEN JUICE

Mrs. L. writes: Does frozen concentrated orange juice contain as much vitamin C as fresh oranges?

REPLY

Yes. The vitamin C content will vary, as it does in fresh fruit, depending upon the soil in the area where the oranges are grown, their ripeness, and other factors. The containers should be properly refrigerated after purchasing and used soon after being poured into an open container.

CHAFING

Mrs. F. writes: I am overweight and suffer from chafing as soon as warm weather appears. What can I do?

REPLY

Obesity encourages the condition. Why not try to reduce? Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on relief measures in chafing.

Rh NEGATIVE

Mrs. Z. writes: Tests show that my blood is Rh negative. Could this blood type account for the fact that I'm cold all the time?

REPLY

No, because "negative" does not mean that you lack "warm cells." The test refers to the presence or absence of the Rhesus factor in the blood.

HAIR LOSS

Mrs. L. writes: I am a woman of 82 and used to have a thick head of hair but am losing it fast. Is there something wrong?

REPLY

This occurs from time to time in the elderly. The cause is not known. Now you can appreciate how men feel if the tresses begin to fall when scarcely out of their teens.

Russian Bear Has Swallowed Too Much — Can't Absorb Satellites; Western Propaganda Needed More Than Ever To Encourage Peoples Behind Iron Curtain

NEAR THE IRON CURTAIN, IN CENTRAL EUROPE—If there was ever a time when propaganda was needed to encourage and stimulate the people behind the iron curtain, now is it.

Already the people of the satellite countries and even many in Russia proper are tron by doubt and dissension and distrust. Their restlessness had been churning for some time but now it's near the boiling point.

All clues I have been able to pick up from the underground and from intelligence reports convince me that the Russian Bear has swallowed too much and will have to regurgitate. A bear that's suffering from acute indigestion is not usually belligerent and it may be that additional propaganda barrages by balloons, the Voice of America and every other device possible could help increase that sickness and tip the scales for peace.

Furthermore, messages of friendship and encouragement to the people behind the iron curtain at this time can help produce another Tito in Poland, Czechoslovakia or Hungary. That, of course, is what Stalin fears most.

There have been reports in previous years of trouble behind the iron curtain, but never as many as now. Two hundred Communist leaders in Bulgaria are reported under arrest; 22 Soviet generals and high Soviet officials have died mysteriously in the last seven months; four Czech generals have been arrested or committed suicide in six months; nine of the highest officers in the Polish army were tried for treason; 12 Polish seamen on a minesweeper mutinied, locked up their officers, and deserted to Sweden; four young Pols fled to Sweden in a stolen bullet-riddled airplane; three Lithuanians locked up other crew members on a Russian trawler and escaped.

Why People Rebel

This throbbing unrest inside the iron curtain has been caused in part by Soviet war preparations which have been going on for some time. When a government takes too much of the necessities of life —food, fuel, consumer goods—away from its people they rebel. When a Polish miner who hates Russia anyway is ordered to work harder to produce war material for communism, he gets restless. Likewise with the Czech uranium miner and the Hungarian farmer who never did like collective farming.

No nation in its right mind — though dictators seldom are in their right minds—makes war when the civilian population behind the lines is certain to rise up against the government. That's why the unrest behind the iron curtain is so important. To illustrate the seriousness of this situation and the importance of intensifying our propaganda, here is a brief summary of the best underground reports I can get of what is happening behind the curtain:

CZECHOSLOVAKIA—The Czechs have now recovered from the stunned apathy which followd the initial seizure of their country by Moscow and are beginning to get their courage back. A serious food shortage, blamed on the Russians, is partly responsible. On top of this the Voice of America, which predicted the arrest of Foreign Minister Vladimir Clementis and four other Czechs had its effect. Finally, Radio Free Europe has sent such devastating barrages of propaganda into Czechoslovakia that the Czech government has demanded that Radio Free Europe be taken off the air.

Kremlin Suspicions Increasing

POLAND — Resentment against Moscow is so serious that Vyacheslav Molotov, now the No. 2 man to Stalin and seldom seen in public, made a special trip to Warsaw to warn the Poles against following Tito. The importance of this warning is shown by the fact that Marshal Grigori Zhukov, hero of Berlin, and Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, military ruler of Poland, appeared with Molotov on the same platform. Behind this warning was the fact that the railroad between Berlin and Moscow is sabotaged so frequently that repair crews are kept busy night and day. Production is dropping. The Catholic church is leading a potent underground and Kremlin has become so suspicious of top Polish generals that nine of them have now been tried.

"Ulcer" To Cominform

BULGARIA — A peasant revolt has held up delivery of wheat to Russia and brought a battery of Soviet officials hurrying into Sofia. About 15,000 have been added to the 30,000 already in concentration camps, while treason trials have shown that the Agrarian (or peasant) party, once the strongest in Bulgaria, now operates a powerful underground. Agrarian leaders have encouraged the peasants to withhold crops and join guerrilla units in the mountains so successfully that the official cominform newspaper called Bulgaria an "ulcer" and criticized Premier Chervenkov for allowing the unrest to spread.

ROUMANIA—Minister of National Defense Emil Bodnaras has been arrested and there have been mass evacuations of those suspected of disloyalty to Moscow.

HUNGARY — Deportation of thousands of Hungarian peasants to concentration camps to face slavery and death have been recently denounced by U. S. Secretary of State Acheson. The leader of these mass arrests is Bela Szanto, Moscow-trained Hungarian especially sent to do the job. Szanto is a ruthless butcher who has already jailed 70,000 peasants because they have held back their grain or refused to collectivize their farms.

EAST GERMANY—Moscow's efforts to build a Communist German army have been partly frustrated by the desertion of officers of the "people's police" to Western Germany. Three separate undergrounds operate among the Russian and Red army personnel inside Germany.

This is just part of the story of restlessness now stirring behind the iron curtain and the opportunity awaiting American propaganda.

College Scholarships

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 12 —I have recently received from a devoted father the copy of a letter which he wrote his son on graduation. In it he says:

Lincolns vs. Land

"Mother and I are proud of the record you made in school and college, especially by your continued faith in God and constant association with the church and the things it stands for. Now I have been thinking of what to give you as a graduation present. Mother wants me to give you a fine Lincoln convertible car; but I just don't feel it is right to do so.

"Hence, instead of giving you the car, I am enclosing a deed to 40 acres of good land worth three times the cost of the car. Land and labor are the basis of all wealth, especially in this day of inflation. Land is more desirable than money. Land will keep getting more valuable if you give it half the attention you would give a car. If you take care of the land, son, it will take care of you. I cannot object to your having a Lincoln, as I have two; but I earned the money with which I bought mine and I want you to do likewise."

Present Unfair Conditions

During the summer I have talked with several high school principals. They tell me that some of their highest and hardest working students have not the money to go to college. They can get partial scholarships, but unless they can live at home, they just can't swing it. On the other hand, students who are much less deserving go to college with an automobile and a big spending allowance.

Large corporations which send their employment managers to the colleges to hire the "best graduates" would do far better to go to the high schools and select their students by their high school record and then help finance these students through college. These corporations are now doing their picking four years late!

Importance of Summer Work

Of one thing I am certain—namely, that how high school students use their summers is of great importance. I have about come to the conslusion that I will employ only those who have worked every summer during high school and college.

Those who have earned at least half their college tuition and board are to be preferred. The best young people to hire are those who have earned their entire way through college, with the help of scholarships and summer work.

A person can do too much for his children or grandchildren. Unless a young person has learned to love work, something is wrong. It may have been careless school or home training, or giving the boy or girl too much money. Certainly more high school young people are harmed by having too much money, rather than too little money.

It is easier for a parent with money to say "yes" rather than refuse; but isn't this pure selfishness on the part of the parent or grandparent? Simetimes I think that families lacking money are more fortunate than those possessing it. Certainly this whole educational and home training problem is topsy-turvy.

Helping The Worthy

The best way to help young people is to give them opportunities to work and earn money. If they stick to the job—or themselves find a better one—then they will come out okay. I sometimes think a young person will do better in a job which he or she finds without family help. But idleness is dangerous to all concerned.

Next to giving young people good opportunities to work, perhaps the best way to help them is to say to the high school principal: I want to help some worthy student who is anxious to go to college but who must help his family and hence thinks he can't do so." Let me add that I, myself, would like to so help two or three such students who would immediately write me.

What About Trust Funds?

I believe in trust funds for children and grandchildren; but they should serve as insurance in case of sickness,old-age or hard luck. They should not result in making it unnecessary for the beneficiary to work, save and be a useful citizen. The love of work is a blessing.

Instead of arranging for the young person to get all the income when 26 years of age—it may be better to make him co-trustee with the bank but to move the 26 years up to 40 years. Trustees, however, should have power to use part of the accumulated income to help in case of need.

NOTE:I apologize for a mistake made in my release of July 8 on taxation. I should have said the Revenue Act of 1948—allows a marital deduction of 50 percent of the adjusted gross estate provided that much or more goes to the surviving spouse. This 50 percent would include life insurance which, although it pasees by contract rather than by will, is now viewed by the Internal Revenue Bureau as being part of the decedent's estate for estate tax purposes when the insured has paid the premiums, owns the policies and the other prescribed requirements which I mentioned have been fulfilled. In other words, I understand that the $40,000 limitation has temporarily been removed. R. W. B.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Which Way For Stalin?

WASHINGTON

There is a key to the mind of Joseph Stalin. For, if the past is any guide to the present and future, the voluminous writings of Stalin and his predecessor Lenin reflect the motives and intentions of Stalin quite as accurately as "Mein Kampf" did in Hitler's case. In the following imaginary address by Stalin to the Politburo, some of the words are Stalin's own words, or the words of Lenin quoted with approval by Stalin.

"Comrades. It has been whispered that the war in Korea was an error. This is counter-revolutionary infantilism. It is true that it has been necessary to liquidate those enemies of the people, the agents who reported that the American imperialists would not strongly react. Yet these are the checks which we must expect in the world-wide war in which we are engaged, a war which is a hundred times more difficult, prolonged, and complicated than the most stubborn of ordinary wars between states.

"Now, however, the time has come to reconsider our situation. We must remember that we live at all times but a hair's breadth from intervention by the imperialists. We of course know that it is inconceivable that the Soviet Republic should continue to exist for a long period side by side with the imperialist states. Ultimately one or the other must conquer.

Must Assure Victory

"The imperialists are now preparing a predatory alliance, led by the United States. As is well known, when it becomes sufficiently strong, this predatory alliance will fly at the throat of the first socialist state. In this situation, our aims are clear. Our ultimate aim must be, as always, all power to the Soviets. But first, the defense of the Soviet Union must be considered paramount—at any price, the victory of the Red Army over the armies of the imperialists must be assured.

"This can be assured in only one way, by breaking up the imperialist alliance. But in order to do this, we must make a choice. For this is a time when history confronts us with the necessity of deciding whether to take the direct or zigzag path.

"The nature of the direct path, the path of the direct frontal attack, is clear. One way to take the direct path, for example, would be to order now the liquidation of the fascist mercenary Tito by the armies of the peace-loving Peoples' Democracies, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria. If brought to a successful conclusion, such a direct frontal attack will cause the imperialist predatory alliance to disintegrate.

"Yet the danger here is evident. As is well known, the liberation of Yugoslavia, or other direct action, might cause the American ruling clique to unleash a new war. One can succeed by the direct frontal attack, only when one enjoys an overwhelming superiority of force. We must carefully consider whether we now enjoy such a superiority.

Zigzag Path Clear

"It is true, comrades, that the glorious peace-loving Red Army can smash the aggressor armies of the imperialist lackey Eisenhower into a thousand pieces. Yet our stocks of peoples' democratic atomic bombs are still comparatively low. Moreover, the iron discipline necessary for the dictatorship of the Proletariat has not been even yet fully imposed on the peoples' democracies, most notably in the case of China.

"For such reasons, we must ask ourselves whether for a time it will not be well to take the zigzag path. For, although Marxism energetically resists compromises, Marxism deems it necessary to resort to compromise . . . when the new is not yet strong enough to overthrow the old and when forces are inadequate, detours, waiting periods, zigzags, retreats . . . may be necessary.

"The way of the zigzag path is also clear. First, it will be necessary to liquidate the war in Korea, even should this cause difficulties with that devious, sly—I mean with our great peace-loving comrade, Mao Tse-tung. We must then greatly strengthen the peace offensive, while I shall again find an opportunity to stress the exportable doctrine of peaceful co-existence. Finally, we must by every means 'exacerbate the struggle between the ruling cliques of powers in the imperialist camp,' as Comrade Molotov aptly said at Warsaw, in order to cause the disintegration of the imperialist alliance. Yet here too, the danger is evident—that despite all our efforts, the disintegration of the imperialist alliance will not result.

"So, comrades, which is it to be? The direct path? Or the zigzag path?"

That Stalin and the men in the Kremlin are thinking in some such way is as sure as that the leopard has spots. It may be, of course, that they will make no clearcut choice, taking, as so often before, both paths at once. Yet we should quite soon have a very good idea of the general direction of the Kremlin's decision. For the outcome of the truce talks in Korea should provide solid evidence whether the Kremlin is to take the direct path—which will almost surely lead to war—or the zigzag path—which may lead to a precarious, but lasting state of not-war-not-peace.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Heart Of The Problem

In all the discussion of the West Point scandal, the emphasis lies on the immediate, on the young men, who are often euphemistically called boys, on the officers, on the parents. Many say, "boys will be boys," which is biologically correct until boys become men with the obligations and responsibilities of men.

Others feel that football players have to do so much practice that they cannot keep up with their work unless they are "assisted." And nothing is being said about the cadets who have not cheated.

The real issue is the nature and purpose of a college, university or other school, and of such special schools as West Point and Annapolis. This issue has, more or less, been dodged by many educators as well as parents, since it has become increasingly popular for young men and women to go to schools of higher education and special training whether they have an aptitude for scholarship or not.

The question then arises whether students attend to broaden their minds and spirits or to make friends or to mark time or to play what has come to be professional or semi-professional sports. When scholarships are given to men and women because of their excellence as students, the reward is in the field to which the universities have been devoted since the founding of Bologna in the 11th Century.

The athletic scholarship is a fee paid for special services rendered outside of scholarship. The object is to make money for the school, to attract box office receipts, to advertise the institution. It is strictly a business proposition and those to whom the fees are paid are professional performers—in whole or in part—depending upon the individual and the school.

Sometimes such paid performers are also capable of scholarship; often scholarship is not only foreign but offensive to them. In the latter instance, if they are good enough performers to be of commercial value, they are "assisted" to pass examinations so that they may comply with rules and regulations.

At such a school as West Point, this raises three important issues:

1. Under the honor system, the individual who "assists," the individual who is "assisted," and anyone who knows about it is honor bound to report the fact. West Point is a free school, the tuition, board, lodging, uniforms and other expenses being paid by the taxpayer. Also, the students are soldiers in the army, drawing pay. They are especially bound by rules and regulations in compliance with which they receive these benefits from the taxpayers.

2. These men are to be our generals of the future upon whom the survival of the nation depends. The United States makes a huge investment in each one of them, not only to be "educated," as you and I might have been at college, but to protect, defend and safeguard the nation and the Constitution. They are men apart, whose word must be inviolate for the safety of the nation. Therefore, the word, honor, must have, for them, a special and emphatic meaning.

3. The standing of a West Point man is not only a matter of personal pride; it is a matter of record, upon which an officer's career may depend. Even now, 48 years after his graduation, the fact that General Douglas MacArthur stood first in his class is significant.

If cadets are "assisted" the record is inaccurate. That assistance, on the other hand, may result in better men being kept lower on the list because they do not play football. It means that the standing of these soldiers and gentlemen is false. If the West Point records are falsified, we do not know any longer what kind of officer material is coming out of that school; we have no measure to decide whether it is safe to entrust them with the responsibilities for which they receive special training at the taxpayers' expense.

This, it seems to me, is the heart of the problem. A full and serious congressional investigation needs to be made of the entire situation, in a broad spirit, without regard to individuals.

West Point is either a school for military officers and gentlemen or it is a show place which Billy Rose might manage and save the taxpayer the cost. And these criteria could with advantage be applied to many prep schools, colleges, and universities. Perhaps some day, in their search for advertising methods, to raise funds, or to attract attention, schools will hire a corps of showgirls to put on an exhibition of slightly clothed pulchritude. But that is not education.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

More Dead People

One nice thing about the supernatural. It gives a writer scope. The normal inconvenient requirements of time, space and plausibility are suspended when a writer starts monkeying around with spectres. That, I suppose, is why the supernatural is so popular on television—popular, that is, with the people who turn the stuff out, not necessarily popular with me.

John Crosby

There is the young couple — you must have encountered them at some time or other — who find themselves unexpectedly wandering through the woods and come upon a cabin where a wondrously wise old man utters cryptic observations about the hereafter. It's only after 10 minutes of this that the young people realize they are dead. I had rather suspected it from the outset, having seen more television than they have.

•—•—•

The supernatural drama has already been subdivided into certain definite types. One type is what I like to think of as the Ancient Curse story. A married couple are marooned in the old lighthouse and the aged lady, who has tended the place since her husband fell at Waterloo, tells them about the old bell in the belfry. When it rings, vengeance strikes. Sure enough, the wife, who plans to murder her husband, is struck down by the old bell just after she massacres the old boy. The moment the television camera enters an old house, I know an Ancient Curse is lying around somewhere like a coiled spring, that it will explode in somebody's face just in time for the closing commercial.

Then there is the philosophical type supernatural, an excellent example of which was on Cameo Theater, you should know, is a dramatic program (NBC-TV, 8 p. m. EDT Mondays) which dispenses with sets almost entirely and in this case came close to dispensing with a story, too. On this one, a woman tracked down her husband who had been declared dead seven or eight years earlier. He had, it developd, falled victim to philosophy. That's a terrible addiction, philosophy, 10 times worse—as far as wives are concerned — than heroin.

"I have learned the dualism of reality," he said dreamily. Every time he walked through a door, he declared, he remembered, by some process of association which eludes me, that the earth was at that very moment spinning at the rate of 33,000 miles an hour (or whatever it is) that only a few people like Einstein, Sir James Jeans, and Arthur Eddington felt this way about opening doors, and that, anyhow, this philosophy didn't leave space for such mundane things as wives. The wife considered this insufficient grounds for desertion — I'm afraid I agree — and shot him three times. The bullets just passed through him or missed him or something because he said, "Good night, Janet" and went through the door, thinking — I suppose — about the earth spinning so fast, about the dualism of reality and possibly about the electronic composition of door handles.

I never quite figured out whether this philosopher of the open door was alive or dead or whether philosophy made him bulletproof or just what the score was. I doubt that the author did either. As is said earlier, you don't have to explain things very closely in these mystical dramas. The author can circumvent explanation neatly by muttering about the timelessness of eternity.

It's downright unsettling to a man like myself who has always believed that bullets can be homicidal. In a recent "Lights Out" drama, a berserk Army veteran mowed down three people—two men and a woman—who, he explained hysterically, had been trying to kill him for six years. They were three ex-Nazis, who should have been dead for six years, but sure enough, they showed up at the end disguised as doctors and a nurse, hovering over an operation table. Presumably they finally finished the poor veteran off. But, the way I figure it, he'll be back, the veteran, pumping more useless bullets into the three dead Nazis and they'll retaliate by encasing him in cement and dumping him in the East River and so on into the timelessness of eternity.

Things were much easier in the Type supernatural fiction. Dracula was as dead as all thesec haracters, but he was disposed of finally and forever with a stake through his heart. These temporary dead guys never know when to lie down.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

FQUC IZXRH YO VRCCRL VROCZFRA CQUX CQUC ZM U OPQZZTVZH'O CYK? —CQUPWRLUH.

Saturday's Cryptoquote: LOUD WORDS AND LONGING ARE SO LITTLE WORTH: AND THE END IS HARD TO REACH—SWINBURNE.

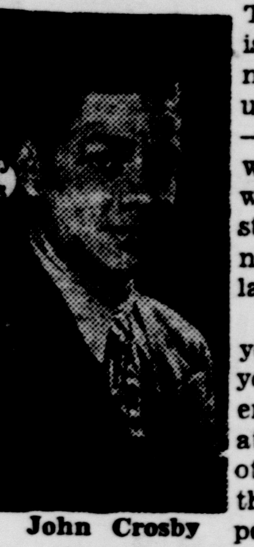
Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

More Dead People

One nice thing about the supernatural. It gives a writer scope. The normal inconvenient requirements of time, space and plausibility are suspended when a writer starts monkeying around with spectres. That, I suppose, is why the supernatural is so popular on television—popular, that is, with the people who turn the stuff out, not necessarily popular with me.



John Crosby

There is the young couple — you must have encountered them at some time or other — who find themselves unexpectedly wandering through the woods and come upon a cabin where a wondrously wise old man utters cryptic observations about the hereafter. It's only after 10 minutes of this that the young people realize they are dead. I had rather suspected it from the outset, having seen more television than they have.

●—●—●

The supernatural drama has already been subdivided into certain definite types. One type is what I like to think of as the Ancient Curse story. A married couple are marooned in the old lighthouse and the aged lady, who has tended the place since her husband fell at Waterloo, tells them about the old bell in the belfry. When it rings, vengeance strikes. Sure enough, the wife, who plans to murder her husband, is struck down by the old bell just after she massacres the old boy. The moment the television camera enters an old house, I know an Ancient Curse is lying around somewhere like a coiled spring, that it will explode in somebody's face just in time for the closing commercial.

Then there is the philosophical type supernatural, an excellent example of which was on Cameo Theater, you should know, is a dramatic program (NBC-TV, 8 p. m. EDT Mondays) which dispenses with sets almost entirely and in this case came close to dispensing with a story, too. On this one, a woman tracked down her husband who had been declared dead seven or eight years earlier. He had, it developd, falled victim to philosophy. That's a terrible addiction, philosophy, 10 times worse—as far as wives are concerned — than heroin.

"I have learned the dualism of reality," he said dreamily. Every time he walked through a door, he declared, he remembered, by some process of association which eludes me, that the earth was at that very moment spinning at the rate of 33,000 miles an hour (or whatever it is) that only a few people like Einstein, Sir James Jeans, and Arthur Eddington felt this way about opening doors, and that, anyhow, this philosophy didn't leave space for such mundane things as wives. The wife considered this insufficient grounds for desertion — I'm afraid I agree — and shot him three times. The bullets just passed through him or missed him or something because he said, "Good night, Janet" and went through the door, thinking — I suppose — about the earth spinning so fast, about the dualism of reality and possibly about the electronic composition of door handles.

I never quite figured out whether this philosopher of the open door was alive or dead or whether philosophy made him bulletproof or just what the score was. I doubt that the author did either. As is said earlier, you don't have to explain things very closely in these mystical dramas. The author can circumvent explanation neatly by muttering about the timelessness of eternity.

It's downright unsettling to a man like myself who has always believed that bullets can be homicidal. In a recent "Lights Out" drama, a berserk Army veteran mowed down three people—two men and a woman—who, he explained hysterically, had been trying to kill him for six years. They were three ex-Nazis, who should have been dead for six years, but sure enough, they showed up at the end disguised as doctors and a nurse, hovering over an operation table. Presumably they finally finished the poor veteran off. But, the way I figure it, he'll be back, the veteran, pumping more useless bullets into the three dead Nazis and they'll retaliate by encasing him in cement and dumping him in the East River and so on into the timelessness of eternity.

Things were much easier in the Type supernatural fiction. Dracula was as dead as all thesec haracters, but he was disposed of finally and forever with a stake through his heart. These temporary dead guys never know when to lie down.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

What Would You Have Done?

"I want to ask you a question," said the man to the banker. "It has to do with ethics."

"You have come to the right place," he answered.

"The father of a friend of mine died recently, and two brothers were the principal heirs. After a while, they went to his office where there was an old-fashioned safe. They began to go through the contents—memoranda made years ago, an old watch, and worthless papers. These were being thrown in the waste basket. Down near the bottom was a dusty package wrapped in newspapers, held together by elastic bands. It started to follow the rest of the junk, when one of them stopped and opened it. Then his eyes bulged.

"The contents were greenbacks, and these added up to $13,000. The question is, what should my friend have done?"

"Was his brother with him?" asked the banker. "If he was, they could have divided it up and put the money in their pockets. If not—" he winked.

"One was a lawyer and insisted they call the bank to send a messenger to deposit it as part of the estate."

"Of course, that was right, especially if the deposit had gone in our bank, but the situation would be mighty tempting to less honorable men, considering the present inheritance taxes," he concluded.

"I once asked Montague Glass what his favorite story was. He said it was about the boy who was learning ethics in school.

"'So they teach that now, do they?' asked his father. 'We used to have to learn the hard way. A customer came in our clothing store to buy a suit of clothes when $20 would get you one. He tried on several and finally found one which fitted. He reached in his wallet and handed me a $20 bill. As he was going out the door, I discovered there were two twenties stuck together. Now that's where ethics came in. The question was, should I tell my partner?'"

Ernest Cuneo contributed the following:

The term horse trader has long been one indicating the acme of American shrewdness and sometimes doubt has been expressed whether the reputation was justly earned. A classic story originated in Utica almost a hundred years ago. The local doctor had a great trotting mare which the town's David Harum pestered him to sell. She was famous, and her owner was very proud of her so for years there was no deal. But one cold January morning the two men met in the street, and the dealer was amazed when his offer was accepted.

"As is," said the doctor. "One thousand dollars down, and you take delivery at the stable.

The man peeled off $1,000 and rushed to the barn. There was the poor mare "as is" — not "as was" — stone dead. Undismayed he got in his buggy and headed out of town for Syracuse, where he broke into a poker game of the local sports.

"All of you know the doctor's horse," he said. "This is my offer. Each of you seven men put up $250, draw, and high card gets her."

The mare being famous, $1,750 was instantly in the pool. The winner drove off to Utica with the trader to find the horse still dead.

"But," he said, "I am not the man to cheat you. Here's the $250 back you paid for the draw."

He had cleaned up $500. So that ends this essay on ethics.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

There's nothing petty about the larceny committed by self-complacency. What it steals is your personal appeal. And the worst of it is the insidiousness with which your store of charm is taken away. Bit by bit, one thing disappears. You scarcely notice the absence of the first few—but when you wake up to what has happened, the task of replacement seems more than you can face.

Complacency at Work

Perhaps one day you notice a chipped nail, just before you are leaving the house. "Oh, what's the difference, no one's going to notice it," your complacency whispers. Soon, you are the one who doesn't notice—and then you are going out with chipped nails most of the time. The same thing happens with other details of grooming; your clothes lose their fastidiously cared-for look and, as your interest in your appearance slides, your posture slumps a bit—and then a bit more. Before you know it, although others do, your face acquires a bored and discontented expression. And your charm . . . where is it?

Your charm needs policing just as do any of your other precious possessions. On your daily check list should be such items as bath, deodorant, dental duty, skin and hair care, nails, meticulous make-up; cultivation of the Powers Girl posture; alertness for crooked stocking seams—and a crooked smile, too. You can fill out the rest of the list easily.

On your weekly charm patrol, there's a shampoo, de-fuzzing, manicure, clothes refurbishing; the straightening of your purses, bureau drawers, closets, and the cleasing of your cosmetic containers; the shining and polishing of shoes.

On Charm Duty

For monthly, bi-yearly and yearly chores, there are such items as hair cutting dates; permanents; medical and dental check-ups; seasonal wardrobe purchases carrying out your detailed plan; the completion of old projects and the finding of new ones to keep you an interesting and interested person.

With such a schedule, there'll be no pilfering of your charm! Your eyes will be wide open every minute. What happens to your personality and appearance will always be strictly under your control!

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12 (INS) — Louis B. Mayer, just back from Kentucky and New York, is staying in film production. L. B. has turned down the one hundred million dollar bank roll offered by his friend, Walter P. Chrysler, and other eastern industrialists, to head a films-for-television company.

LOUIS B. MAYER

I talked with the man whose long leadership in films won him the title of Mr. Motion Pictures the day he flew home from New York.

He said, "I've turned a deaf ear to all offers to produce for television. Pictures are my real interest"—and he added that no amount of money can tempt him away now, or in the near future.

He didn't, however, deny that the oil deal in which he is interested with big easterners, is booming. He says the New Mexico field is coming in bigger than the great oil fields of Texas.

The highest sum ever paid by TV—$50,000—goes to Irving Berlin for an hour show channeled by NBC, "Salute To Irving Berlin," September 12. Berlin is giving the entire fifty G's to the Boy Scouts of America.

Star singer of all the wonderful Berlin tunes will be Tony Martin. Margaret Truman closes the big hour with "God Bless America."

It's a big feather in Tony's already feathered cap that Irving chose him to sing his best beloved melodies plus a brand-new, never before heard song Irving is composing just for Martin.

Pretty swell of Peter Lawford to fly to Molokai from Honolulu and visit the children in the leper colony there.

Pete's island hostess, Mrs. Ronald Balcom, writes a friend in Hollywood, "the children knew Peter from reading the movie magazines. They get to see few pictures and usually they are old ones. But they love the movie books. Peter took with him some small shell bracelets for the little girls and some box cameras for the boys.

"His visit so deeply impressed him that he will make another trip to the colony before leaving for England this week."

The most "human" plot I've heard in a long time is "The Girl Who Couldn't Help It" which Producer Robert Bassler is readying for Mitzi Gaynor at 20th.

It's about a trim, streamlined girl who faithfully promises her G. I. sweetheart to wait for him. But, instead of pining away during the two years he's away, she eats like a horse.

When the boy friend returns he loses interest in the doll who has turned into a baby truck. How she diets in an attempt to win him back from blonde competition should strike home to many plump belles.

Hollywood in shorts:

Rita Hayworth meets the press this week and you can bet your life the biggest question she will have to answer is whether or not she is giving up the Moslem religion.

Following a collapse a few days ago, Valentina Cortesa has been ordered to bed until her baby is born in December. Olivia De Havilland was in bed seven months before the birth of her son.

Bob Hope, vacationing in Tahoe, coasted down the hill to Reno for Frank Sinatra's show at the Riverside Casino.

Dorothy Parker is out of the hospital following a freak accident. She had eight stitches taken in her forehead after tripping over her pooch. And for the first time in her life — no wisecracks.

Joan Crawford had the girls wondering at her courage in wearing a chic orange-colored dress with her red hair. On her it looked great — but I wouldn't try it, sister. Joan's luncheon date was her business manager, Myrt Blum.

Spencer Tracy staggering the room service at his Paris hotel by ordering quarts of milk in a champagne cooler! Spence's diet calls for lots of milk and he can't drink it unless it's freezing cold.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Pretty swell of Peter Lawford to fly to Molokai from Honolulu and visit the children in the leper colony there.

Pete's island hostess, Mrs. Ronald Balcom, writes a friend in Hollywood, "the children knew Peter from reading the movie magazines. They get to see few pictures and usually they are old ones. But they love the movie books. Peter took with him some small shell bracelets for the little girls and some box cameras for the boys.

"His visit so deeply impressed him that he will make another trip to the colony before leaving for England this week."

The most "human" plot I've heard in a long time is "The Girl Who Couldn't Help It" which Producer Robert Bassler is readying for Mitzi Gaynor at 20th.

It's about a trim, streamlined girl who faithfully promises her G. I. sweetheart to wait for him. But, instead of pining away during the two years he's away, she eats like a horse.

When the boy friend returns he loses interest in the doll who has turned into a baby truck. How she diets in an attempt to win him back from blonde competition should strike home to many plump belles.

Hollywood in shorts:

Rita Hayworth meets the press this week and you can bet your life the biggest question she will have to answer is whether or not she is giving up the Moslem religion.

Following a collapse a few days ago, Valentina Cortesa has been ordered to bed until her baby is born in December. Olivia De Havilland was in bed seven months before the birth of her son.

Bob Hope, vacationing in Tahoe, coasted down the hill to Reno for Frank Sinatra's show at the Riverside Casino.

Dorothy Parker is out of the hospital following a freak accident. She had eight stitches taken in her forehead after tripping over her pooch. And for the first time in her life — no wisecracks.

Joan Crawford had the girls wondering at her courage in wearing a chic orange-colored dress with her red hair. On her it looked great — but I wouldn't try it, sister. Joan's luncheon date was her business manager, Myrt Blum.

Spencer Tracy staggering the room service at his Paris hotel by ordering quarts of milk in a champagne cooler! Spence's diet calls for lots of milk and he can't drink it unless it's freezing cold.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Carl Wilfong, big righthander, pitched the Keyser Firemen into possession of first place in the Bi-State Baseball League yesterday when he turned back the Frostburg Demons with five hits, struck out four and posted his 11th consecutive triumph of the season. The score was 4-1.

Rotruck and Kuhn shared four of Keyser's eight hits and Bill See rapped a three-bagger. Langan's triple, Drew's double and two singles by Lou Baker were among Frostburg's five safeties.

At Lonaconing, Westvaco's Papermakers walloped a patched-up Lonaconing team by the score of 12-1. The win enabled Westvaco to tie Frostburg for the runner-up spot, one full game back of Keyser.

Manager Frank Patrone and Leo Ryan banged a double and single each while Tysinger smacked a pair of singles to head the Westvaco swatsmiths. Woody Woodson was in top form and shut out 'Coney until the 8th when Love doubled and scored on Curt Johnson's single. The Westvaco hurler struck out eight and gave up only five hits.

Darwin Cooper Cops 75th Heat Before 80,000

14th Winner At Akron Is From Williamsport, Gary, Ind., Boy 2nd

AKRON, O., Aug. 12 (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Darwin Cooper, representing Williamsport, Pa., whistled down the All-American Soapbox Derby course in his sleek black racer No. 137 today to win the 14th running of the classic at Derby Downs.

He bested 140 competitors from the United States, Canada, Alaska and the U. S. Occupation Zone of Germany. His prize is a $5,000 college scholarship at the school of his choice. About 80,000 fans saw the event.

Second place, with a prize of a new automobile, went to Raymond Marconi, 12, of Gary, Ind.

Third and last in the final, 75th heat was Paul F. Albreight of Jefferson City, Mo.

In the heat to determine the next three places, the order of finish was James Gray of Columbus, Ga., William E. Herget of Akron, O., and Ferdinand Funke of Evansville, Ind.

Cooper's time in the final heat was 27.97 seconds.

It was the first time a Pennsylvania entry had won the grand prize. The boy lives in Danville, but raced and won the area championship at Williamsport, under the sponsorship of the Sun-Gazette. He is the fourth Danville boy to represent Williamsport in the All-American.

Wilbur Shaw Collapses

Wilbur Shaw, 48, Indianapolis speedway official, was to have served as referee for today's races, but he suffered a heart attack and was taken to city hospital in a serious condition.

Shaw ran up the green-painted racing strip, 975.4 feet long, to board an automobile for the pre-race parade, and collapsed.

The winner, a freshman at Danville High School, is a tall, thin lad, serious and quiet. He is the eldest of four children of steelworker William Cooper, an employe of the Kennedy Van Saun Mfg. Co. in Danville.

Last year a cousin, Donald Alter, placed second in the All-American.

All the excited champion could say after his victory was "thanks—I'm glad I won. I sure put a lot of work in on my car."

Demaret's 276 2nd; Babe Zaharias Wins 4th "World" Tourney

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP)—Indomitable Ben Hogan, finishing the pressure-packed last round with a pair of dazzling 33's for 66 and a 15-under-par 273 for 72 holes, today bagged golf's biggest money award, $12,500, and the Tam O'Shanter "world" title.

Ben Hogan

Hogan, who boosted his winnings in five official tournaments this season to $20,400, trailed Jimmy Demaret, the 54-hole leader by five strokes entering the last round.

But his brilliant 33 wiped out four of the debits at 63 holes when Demaret wilted to a 37 on the first nine.

Demaret Collects $5,000

Demaret required another 37 to get home for a 74 and a 276 total. The colorful Ojai, Calif., pro who had been in the lead through the first three rounds, wound up second to collect $5,000.

Pete Cooper, the perennial contender from White Plains, N. Y., banged a final 69 while Bobby Locke and his newly-found putting touch added 70, each to finish at 277 and win $2,750

Lawson Little of Pebble Beach, Calif., fashioned his third straight 70 for 278 to be locked in that bracket with Clayton Heafner, the big Charlotte, N. C., veteran who once again was a victim of last-round jitters and soared to 73. Each earned $2,100.

Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, who won the Tam All-American crown last week, reeled off a respectable pair of 35's for 279 and seventh place. His swag was $1,800.

Grouped at 280, worth $1,650 for each, were Sam Snead and Lloyd Mangrum. Both took closing 73's.

Hogan ended officially his tournament golfing for the season.

"My next meet will be the Master's next April," said Ben, who celebrates his 39th birthday tomorrow. "I'm going home to Fort Worth with Val (his wife) tomorrow. Might

Yanks Blasted From Top Rung By Athletics

Philadelphia Halts Morgan In 1st, 9-5; Bags Nightcap, 7-4

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Pennsylvania curfew that prevents Sunday games from continuing after 5.59 p. m. (EST) erased a five-run New York Yankee rally in the eighth inning and allowed the Philadelphia Athletics to score a 7 to 4 win in the second game of a twin bill. The lowly Athletics also won the opener, 9 to 5 as they sent the Yanks reeling into second place 1½ games behind the Cleveland Indians.

The nightcap ended in rain and darkness and amid a welter of confusion as the Athletics appeared to be stalling and the Yankees appeared to be trying to hurry the game along. The top of the eighth inning took 22 minutes with the Bronx Bombers sending nine men to the plate and the A's using four pitchers.

It was indeed a dark, dismal day for the proud New Yorkers as the Athletics ended rookie Tom Morgan's eight-game winning streak in the opener. The youthful righthander hadn't lost since his first start of the season against Washington and was trying for his ninth win. He lasted only 2⅓ innings, allowing eight hits and six runs.

Frostburg's lone tally came in the eighth frame and it was unearned, giving Wilfong a total of 32 consecutive innings in which he has failed to yield an earned run. The Keyser ace's record for the season is 11 wins, three losses.

Rotruck and Kuhn shared four of Keyser's eight hits and Bill See rapped a three-bagger. Langan's triple, Drew's double and two singles by Lou Baker were among Frostburg's five safeties.

At Lonaconing, Westvaco's Papermakers walloped a patched-up Lonaconing team by the score of 12-1. The win enabled Westvaco to tie Frostburg for the runner-up spot, one full game back of Keyser.

Manager Frank Patrone and Leo Ryan banged a double and single each while Tysinger smacked a pair of singles to head the Westvaco swatsmiths. Woody Woodson was in top form and shut out 'Coney until the 8th when Love doubled and scored on Curt Johnson's single. The Westvaco hurler struck out eight and gave up only five hits.

Darwin Cooper Cops 75th Heat Before 80,000

14th Winner At Akron Is From Williamsport, Gary, Ind., Boy 2nd

AKRON, O., Aug. 12 (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Darwin Cooper, representing Williamsport, Pa., whistled down the All-American Soapbox Derby course in his sleek black racer No. 137 today to win the 14th running of the classic at Derby Downs.

He bested 140 competitors from the United States, Canada, Alaska and the U. S. Occupation Zone of Germany. His prize is a $5,000 college scholarship at the school of his choice. About 80,000 fans saw the event.

Second place, with a prize of a new automobile, went to Raymond Marconi, 12, of Gary, Ind.

Third and last in the final, 75th heat was Paul F. Albreight of Jefferson City, Mo.

In the heat to determine the next three places, the order of finish was James Gray of Columbus, Ga., William E. Herget of Akron, O., and Ferdinand Funke of Evansville, Ind.

Cooper's time in the final heat was 27.97 seconds.

It was the first time a Pennsylvania entry had won the grand prize. The boy lives in Danville, but raced and won the area championship at Williamsport, under the sponsorship of the Sun-Gazette. He is the fourth Danville boy to represent Williamsport in the All-American.

Wilbur Shaw Collapses

Wilbur Shaw, 48, Indianapolis speedway official, was to have served as referee for today's races, but he suffered a heart attack and was taken to city hospital in a serious condition.

Shaw ran up the green-painted racing strip, 975.4 feet long, to board an automobile for the pre-race parade, and collapsed.

The winner, a freshman at Danville High School, is a tall, thin lad, serious and quiet. He is the eldest of four children of steelworker William Cooper, an employe of the Kennedy Van Saun Mfg. Co. in Danville.

Last year a cousin, Donald Alter, placed second in the All-American.

All the excited champion could say after his victory was "thanks—I'm glad I won. I sure put a lot of work in on my car."

Winner's Best Time 27.9

Cooper's best time in the racer he took three months to build was 27.9 seconds in a first-round victory over Jerry Devault of Indianapolis and Alberto Martinez of Laredo, Tex. That was the second fastest time of the day.

The speed mark for the afternoon was 27.83 seconds posted by Thomas R. Gore of Atlanta in the second round. Cooper's time in the second round was 28.05 as he won over George Short of Pittsburgh and Bruce Steve of Ithaca, N. Y.

In the third round Gore finished third in a heat that Cooper took in 27.91, and in the fourth round, Cooper made it in 27.92 over young Gray from Georgia.

Demaret's 276 2nd; Babe Zaharias Wins 4th "World" Tourney

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP)—Indomitable Ben Hogan, finishing the pressure-packed last round with a pair of dazzling 33's for 66 and a 15-under-par 273 for 72 holes, today bagged golf's biggest money award, $12,500, and the Tam O'Shanter "world" title.

Ben Hogan

Hogan, who boosted his winnings in five official tournaments this season to $20,400, trailed Jimmy Demaret, the 54-hole leader by five strokes entering the last round.

But his brilliant 33 wiped out four of the debits at 63 holes when Demaret wilted to a 37 on the first nine.

Demaret Collects $5,000

Demaret required another 37 to get home for a 74 and a 276 total. The colorful Ojai, Calif., pro who had been in the lead through the first three rounds, wound up second to collect $5,000.

Pete Cooper, the perennial contender from White Plains, N. Y., banged a final 69 while Bobby Locke and his newly-found putting touch added 70, each to finish at 277 and win $2,750

Lawson Little of Pebble Beach, Calif., fashioned his third straight 70 for 278 to be locked in that bracket with Clayton Heafner, the big Charlotte, N. C., veteran who once again was a victim of last-round jitters and soared to 73. Each earned $2,100.

Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, who won the Tam All-American crown last week, reeled off a respectable pair of 35's for 279 and seventh place. His swag was $1,800.

Grouped at 280, worth $1,650 for each, were Sam Snead and Lloyd Mangrum. Both took closing 73's.

Hogan ended officially his tournament golfing for the season.

"My next meet will be the Master's next April," said Ben, who celebrates his 39th birthday tomorrow. "I'm going home to Fort Worth with Val (his wife) tomorrow. Might

Tribe Takes 10th In Row

Whips Chicago, 7-1, Grabs Lead In A. L.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Cleveland Indians took undisputed lead of the American League today by beating the Chicago White Sox 7 to 1 for their 10th straight victory.

The triumph was the 16th for Mike Garcia, who was backed with a 14-hit Cleveland attack, including homers by Bob Avila, Larry Doby and Ray Boone.

Garcia gave the White Sox only four hits. Box:

Yanks Blasted From Top Rung By Athletics

Philadelphia Halts Morgan In 1st, 9-5; Bags Nightcap, 7-4

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Pennsylvania curfew that prevents Sunday games from continuing after 5.59 p. m. (EST) erased a five-run New York Yankee rally in the eighth inning and allowed the Philadelphia Athletics to score a 7 to 4 win in the second game of a twin bill. The lowly Athletics also won the opener, 9 to 5 as they sent the Yanks reeling into second place 1½ games behind the Cleveland Indians.

The nightcap ended in rain and darkness and amid a welter of confusion as the Athletics appeared to be stalling and the Yankees appeared to be trying to hurry the game along. The top of the eighth inning took 22 minutes with the Bronx Bombers sending nine men to the plate and the A's using four pitchers.

It was indeed a dark, dismal day for the proud New Yorkers as the Athletics ended rookie Tom Morgan's eight-game winning streak in the opener. The youthful righthander hadn't lost since his first start of the season against Washington and was trying for his ninth win. He lasted only 2⅓ innings, allowing eight hits and six runs.

Excursion Boat Goes Aground; 827 Removed

BOSTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — The excursion steamer Nantasket went aground on Peddock's Island in dense fog today with 827 passengers aboard.

All passengers were removed by Coast Guard boats shortly after the craft's plight was discovered by a searching coast guard vessel.

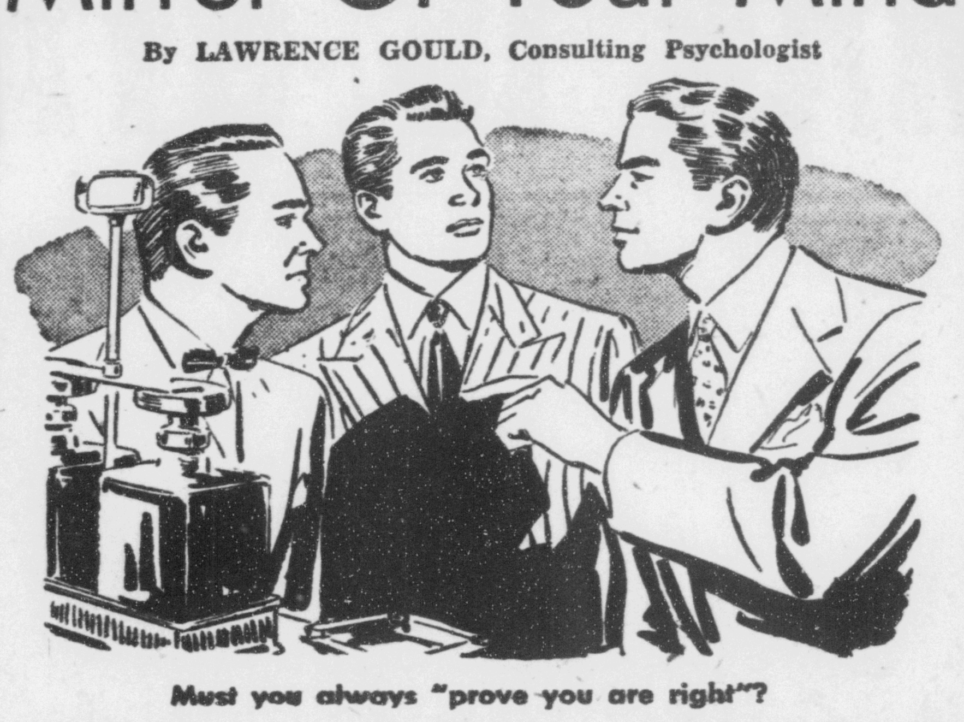
Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

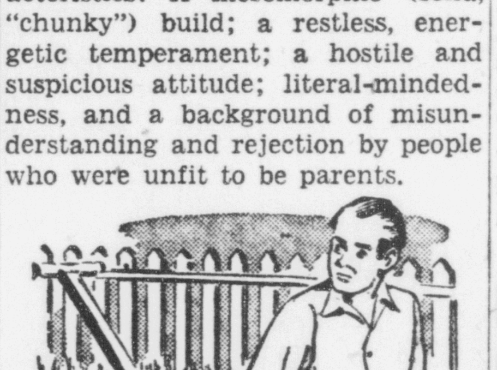


Must you always "prove you are right"?

Answer: Not if you can take the long view. If you have an argument with someone regarding a matter of fact—the spelling of a word, for instance—and discover later that you were right and can prove it, you have every right to crow about it. But this is one of those rights which it may cost more than it's worth to exercise. If the other fellow really wants to know the answer he can look it up for himself, while if he does not, this means that he values his vanity more than the truth and will only be annoyed by being forced to admit that you were "smarter than he was."

Are delinquents recognizable?

Answer: Yes, report Drs. Sheldon P. and Eleanor Glueck in "Unraveling Delinquency." This was shown by an experiment in which 500 delinquent and 500 non-delinquent Boston boys were matched for age, national origin, I.Q. and residence in underprivileged neighborhoods. It proved possible to distinguish the delinquents by five characteristics: A mesomorphic (solid, "chunky") build; a restless, energetic temperament; a hostile and suspicious attitude; literal-mindedness, and a background of misunderstanding and rejection by people who were unfit to be parents.



Are good habits easier to lose than bad ones?

Answer: They are apt to be, not because human beings are bad, but because they are short-sighted. The only "force" in a habit is the satisfaction it affords you, and in general what we call bad habits (like putting unpleasant things off) provide an immediate satisfaction while good habits (such as punctuality and neatness) do not "pay off" until later. To complicate matters further, you are likely to think of a good habit as a duty and it is hard for your unconscious mind to realize that a duty can bring any satisfaction at all. The way to retain good habits is to learn to enjoy them.

Tito May Deport Achbishop Stepinac

ROME, Aug. 12 (AP)— U. S. Sen. Blair Moody (D-Mich) said tonight that Yugoslav Premier Marshall Tito is considering deporting Archbishop Alojzijc Stepinac as one of three possible ways of settling the case of the imprisoned Roman Catholic prelate.

The Senator had a two-hour conversation with the Yugoslav Premier today at his summer home on the island of Brioni, off Pola, Yugoslavia. During the talks Tito warned that the next year will be "the period of greatest danger" to world peace.

Tito indicated that the case of Archbishop Stepinac, sentenced in 1946 to 16 years' imprisonment for alleged wartime collaboration with the Nazis, has become a thorny one. The Yugoslav Premier said he would be pleased to see the problem solved and soon would take some action on it, Moody said.

Ransom Disqualified In World Tournament

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP) — Henry Ransom of Dallas, Tex., the defending "world" golf champion at Tam O'Shanter, today was disqualified in the current tournament for being late in starting his fourth round.

Tournament officials said Ransom, who registers out of St. Andrews, Ill., was more than an hour late. Ransom made no excuses, they said, other than that he just failed to leave home in time to make his starting time of 9:24 a. m.

The Texan was far out of the running in trying to defend his "world" crown after shooting 74-77-72—223 through 54 holes.

play a few exhibitions, however." (—for at least $1,500 apiece).

Hogan, who staged rousing finishes to win the Master's and his third National Open this year, was his machine-like self in returning to Tam for the first time in four years and tying a ribbon around it.

Hogan's four trips were 68-69-70-66, a harmony of consistency but still four strokes shy of matching the Tam O'Shanter record of 269 set by Byron Nelson in 1945.

Hogan's big payoff shot him from seventh to second place on the season's financial list. In the lead is Mangrum with a total of $21,078 after picking up $1,650 today.

"Babe" Wins Fourth Time

Drawing down $2,100 top money in the concurrent women's "world" open, was Babe Zaharias who finished with a three-under 73 for a 298.

The Babe has won all four of the "world" meets held and for the fourth straight time Patty Berg finished as runner-up.

Miss Berg finished six strokes behind with 304 with a closing 79 that was worth $900.

Betsy Rawls of Austin, Tex., skidded to a final 84 to share third place at 307 with Louise Suggs, Carrollton, Ga., who closed with 79. Each collected $500.

U. S. Netmen Win Over Canada, 5-0

MONTREAL, Aug. 12 (INS) — The United States made a clean sweep over Canada today in their American Zone Davis Cup final when Art Larsen of San Leandro, Cal., and Budge Patty of Los Angeles, scored straight set triumphs over Henri Rochon and Lorne Main.

Larsen disposed of Rochon, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3 and Patty beat Main 6-3, 6-3, 6-2, to give the U. S. a 5-0 victory. The stateside swingers did not drop a set. It was the third blank job registered by the U. S. in its bid to regain the famous cup from Australia.

The sweep of Canada followed 5-0 routs of Japan and Mexico and gained the Star Spangled swingers the right to meet Sweden in the interzone finals at Melbourne, Australia in December.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Must you always "prove you are right"?

Answer: Not if you can take the long view. If you have an argument with someone regarding a matter of fact—the spelling of a word, for instance—and discover later that you were right and can prove it, you have every right to crow about it. But this is one of those rights which it may cost more than it's worth to exercise. If the other fellow really wants to know the answer he can look it up for himself, while if he does not, this means that he values his vanity more than the truth and will only be annoyed by being forced to admit that you were "smarter than he was."

Are delinquents recognizable?

Answer: Yes, report Drs. Sheldon P. and Eleanor Glueck in "Unraveling Delinquency." This was shown by an experiment in which 500 delinquent and 500 non-delinquent Boston boys were matched for age, national origin, I.Q. and residence in underprivileged neighborhoods. It proved possible to distinguish the delinquents by five characteristics: A mesomorphic (solid, "chunky") build; a restless, energetic temperament; a hostile and suspicious attitude; literal-mindedness, and a background of misunderstanding and rejection by people who were unfit to be parents.

Are good habits easier to lose than bad ones?

Answer: They are apt to be, not because human beings are bad, but because they are short-sighted. The only "force" in a habit is the satisfaction it affords you, and in general what we call bad habits (like putting unpleasant things off) provide an immediate satisfaction while good habits (such as punctuality and neatness) do not "pay off" until later. To complicate matters further, you are likely to think of a good habit as a duty and it is hard for your unconscious mind to realize that a duty can bring any satisfaction at all. The way to retain good habits is to learn to enjoy them.

Tito May Deport Achbishop Stepinac

ROME, Aug. 12 (AP)— U. S. Sen. Blair Moody (D-Mich) said tonight that Yugoslav Premier Marshall Tito is considering deporting Archbishop Alojzijc Stepinac as one of three possible ways of settling the case of the imprisoned Roman Catholic prelate.

The Senator had a two-hour conversation with the Yugoslav Premier today at his summer home on the island of Brioni, off Pola, Yugoslavia. During the talks Tito warned that the next year will be "the period of greatest danger" to world peace.

Tito indicated that the case of Archbishop Stepinac, sentenced in 1946 to 16 years' imprisonment for alleged wartime collaboration with the Nazis, has become a thorny one. The Yugoslav Premier said he would be pleased to see the problem solved and soon would take some action on it, Moody said.

Hogan, who staged rousing finishes to win the Master's and his third National Open this year, was his machine-like self in returning to Tam for the first time in four years and tying a ribbon around it.

Hogan's four trips were 68-69-70-66, a harmony of consistency but still four strokes shy of matching the Tam O'Shanter record of 269 set by Byron Nelson in 1945.

FROSTBURG WOMAN IS STABBED TO DEATH

Young Mother Of Twins Dies Following Family Argument

Donna Beeman 3rd Victim Slain In 10 Days

An 18-year-old mother of twins was stabbed to death early yesterday morning by her irate husband following a family argument in the home of the girl's parents in Frostburg. It was the third slaying in Allegany County within the past 10 days.

Mrs. Donna L. Beeman died shortly after receiving stab wounds from the front and back which, authorities said, apparently were inflicted with a penknife by her husband, Noah Earl Beeman, 24, Midland.

Hemorrhage Cited

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death was caused by hemorrhage due to stab wounds in the lungs and heart. He added the young woman succumbed about 12:40 a. m. yesterday.

Fighting On Floor

Investigation revealed the Beeman woman was staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Airhart, Railroad Street, Frostburg, Dr. Deming reported, and her husband visited her there Saturday night.

An argument ensued between the young couple, Dr. Deming stated, and erupted into a fight which the girl's mother apparently joined. The father-in-law, elsewhere in the house at the time, told police he heard a noise in the kitchen of the house and when he investigated discovered his wife and the Beemans struggling on the floor.

Ran From House

Mrs. Beeman broke loose from the struggle and ran from the house, Deming said Airhart added, and she apparently ran about 75 feet up the roadway before she collapsed and died.

Frostburg police were notified and investigated. They found Mrs. Beeman lying dead alongside the road, with two stab wounds in her body, Deming went on. Beeman was arrested by the Frostburg authorities and lodged in jail until the State's Attorney's office could launch an investigation.

Witnesses to the fracas along with Beeman were questioned throughout yesterday in the State's Attorney's office and the probe will be continued today, they added. It has not yet been determined if anyone else was in the house at the time of the stabbing, police said.

Husband Is Held

Beeman is being held in the Allegany County jail where no charge has been placed against him pending completion of the investigation, authorities related.

Mrs. Beeman worked in the Berkowity pajama factory in Frostburg and was staying with her parents, police reported. Her husband, who once served six months in the Maryland House of Correction for robbery, was living with his mother Mrs. Effie Beeman, in Midland, they continued. He is unemployed.

Criminal Investigator William F. Baker, Maryland State Police, LaVale barracks, is aiding with the investigation.

A funeral service for Mrs. Beeman will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at the Frostburg Church of Nazarene with Rev. Joseph D. Byers officiating. Interment will be in Eckhart Cemetery.

Mrs. Beeman is survived besides her husband and parents by her twin children, Frederick and Gloria Jean, aged six months, two brothers, Louis Airhart, Jr., at home, and William, Eckhart and five sisters, Mrs. Argyle Lancaster, Shaft, Mrs. Arthur Femi, Morantown; Mrs. George Komatz, Eckhart, Mrs. James Warnick, Baltimore, and Helen, at home.

Murder Charges Placed

The first county incident occurred August 2, when Nile J. Michael, 50-year-old Celanese worker, was shot by his alleged common-law spouse, Margaret E. Gray, 39 ,in their North Branch home. Michael was shot in the groin with a .22 calibre and died list Sunday in Memorial Hospital here. The Gray woman was charged with murder and is held in the county jail for action of the October Grand Jury.

The second shooting took place early in the morning August 6 when 27-year-old George A. Schurg, Hoffman, was shot in the chest with a .22 calibre bullet fired by his wife, Mrs. Shirley Meek Schurg, 21. Schurg died Friday in Miners Hospitl, Frostburg, and a murder charge was filed against Mrs. Schurg.

Mrs. Schurg yesterday received permission from the sheriff's office to attend her husband's funeral in Frostburg today at 2:30. She will be accompanied by Trooper Baker.

Weather

Cumberland's all-too-usual weekend weather was here again yesterday, as the weatherman measured .35 of an inch of rainfall for Saturday night and Sunday. The rain brought the mercury down to a more reasonable high of 80, but that wasn't much help, since the humidity rose to a stuffy 82 per cent. Yesterday's low was 67, and by 8 p. m. the thermometer was down to 74 degrees. Better prospects are in sight for today, but the Weather Bureau would commit itself only to the extent of "mostly fair and less humid."

Man Struck By Auto Dies From Injuries

Wheeler Robey Had Fractured Skull

A 75-year-old man who was struck by an automobile Saturday night on Route 220 three miles south of Rawlings, died yesterday morning about 9:30 in Potomac Valley Hospital where he had been admitted following the mishap.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said Wheeler A. Robey, Danville, succumbed after receiving a fractured skull in the accident.

State Trooper A. M. Spioch, Maryland State Police, who investigated the fatal mishap, said Robey alighted from a car driven by Frank Rhodes, N. Y., who is visiting at 500 North Centre Street. Robey was walking across the highway toward his home when he was struck. He died without regaining consciousness, Dr. Deming added.

According to witnesses, Spioch stated, Robey left the car in which he was riding on the right side of the road, crossed behind the vehicle and swiftly walked into the highway.

Paul E. Goins, Detroit, Mich., driver of another car, told police he saw the Rhodes car stop but failed to see Robey until the latter stepped in front of Goins' vehicle.

Goins said he swerved to the left to avoid hitting Robey but the victim was struck a glancing blow and hurled to the road, Spioch related.

Witnesses to the accident called for assistance and the McCoole Volunteer Fire Company responded and took the injured man to the Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser, W. Va.

Spioch noted both cars were traveling in the direction of Cumberland when the mishap occurred. In addition to Rhodes, Robey's brother, Conrad, was in the first car. Members of the Michigan auto included Goins' wife and sister-in-law.

Goins was placed in Allegany County jail here pending action by the State's Attorney's office. No charges have yet been preferred, police added.

Three Injured In Auto Mishaps

The conditions of three persons injured in accidents over the weekend were reported as good by the hospitals last night.

Mrs. Lela Harden, 25, of Spring Gap, suffered possible skull fracture and other injuries, and Christian Harden, 5, sustained facial lacerations and contusions. They were admitted to Memorial Hospital Saturday morning.

Hospital attaches reported that the car driven by the woman's husband, Elmer Harden, careened from the road near Spring Gap and struck the embankment. The driver and three other children in the auto were not hurt.

Edward Harman, 23, of Twiggtown, was admitted to Allegany Hospital Saturday night with rib injuries after the truck in which he was riding with Frank Casteel, 29, Bedford Street, overturned on Oldtown Road.

Casteel received treatment for abrasions, and Harman was admitted for X-rays. State Trooper John F. Browning is investigating.

Saucers Again? "Mystery Light" Baffles Observers

First it was flying saucers. Then it was an oversize balloon. And now it's a mysterious light in the sky.

According to William McFarland, who saw it, it was just a bright light in the eastern sky, just below the clouds. It happened twice, at about 1 a. m. Saturday and again at the same time yesterday morning.

McFarland, a Constitution Park night watchman, said the light seemed to go on and off once in a while, but it didn't move. It just hung there in the sky.

Several other people told him they'd seen the phenomenon, but they couldn't explain it either. Robert R. Golden, custodian and weather observer at the Park, theorized that it may have been a weather balloon.

No one else ventured a guess. It was a little too early for the sunrise, and it was in the wrong place for the Northern Lights.

The new building is part of the First Federal's huge expansion program, directors of the association report. The organization bought the Baltimore site last year. The building is planned to be able to construct additional floors in the future if necessary.

First Federal Association To Construct New Building

The expansion program of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association will get underway in approximately a week or 10 days with the beginning of construction of the company's new ultra-modern bank building on Baltimore Street.

After months of delay in which the building plans were made, cancelled and remade because of the inability to obtain steel for construction, the association finally obtained permission from the National Production Authority to begin building the new structure, Lynn C. Lashley, executive vice president of the organization, announced over the weekend.

The Bank Building and Equipment Corporation of America from St. Louis, Mo., drew the plans for the two-story building, Lashley said, and will have charge of the construction although bids will be let to local contractors for the actual work.

Reinforced Concrete

The new banking house will be made entirely of reinforced concrete and brick to meet the requirements of the NPA, Lashley explained. Plans call for the structure to be two stories high with basement, concrete foundation walls and footing, floor columns and framework. The exterior walls will be of roman brick with limestone coping and trim and facing will be red granite.

The architecture for the new building is on a contemporary style and the First Federal will occupy the main floor and basement. The second floor will be made into offices for rental, Lashley added.

The modern building will replace the old Belvidere Hall, 139-143 Baltimore Street, which the bank bought July 28, 1950 for $175,000. The old building, which formerly housed the Belvidere Theatre, had been converted into store rooms which until recently were occupied by Thom McAn Shoe Store and Moskins Credit Clothing Store on the ground floor and the J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets, on the second floor.

Preliminary work will be the tearing down of the old building prior to new construction. First contracts will be let on this phase of work, Lashley noted.

$250,000 Cost

Lashley estimated the new construction would cost approximately a quarter million dollars and would be completed in about 11 months.

The front of the building will have large glass windows and doorway with a semi-circular coping above the entrance. Space for an executive office and three office desks, secretary's desk and three interview booths will be in the main street lobby. Also on the street-level floor will be eight teller windows and check window, a cash and book vault and waiting room for customers.

A circular stairway to the left of the main entrance leads downstairs to the lower lobby which contains directors room, mechanical and storage equipment, toilet facilities, employes recreation room, safe deposit vault and coupon booths, and kitchen and lunch room for the employes.

The interior, to be constructed in a semi-circular effect, will be air conditioned, sound proof with carpeted floors, and colored walls. An elevator shaft also will be constructed.

The building will measure 48 by 125 feet, with parking lot, driveway and auto teller window in the rear.

Explaining the expansion move of the association, Lashley noted the company had outgrown its present quarters on North Centre Street where its current assets have risen to over $7,000,000. The association received its Federal charter in 1935 and had less than a million dollars in assets at the time, Lashley continued.

The organization will remain in its present building until the new bank structure is completed, Lashley added.

Church, Clubs Hold Picnics Despite Weather

Usual Crowds Flock To Parks

Threatening skies and cooler temperatures failed to daunt picnickers yesterday at several large outings and family picnics.

Among the larger events were a church picnic, two club outings and a luncheon club picnic. The crowd at Constitution Park was described as "pretty good" in spite of the weather.

St. Patrick's Catholic Church held its annual parish outing at Malamphy's Meadowbrook Farm from 1 to 8 p. m. The program included races, games and novelty contests for adults and children.

Prizes were given in events ranging from sack races to pie eating and cracker whistling.

The Cumberland Rotary Club spent the afternoon at the new camp of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts, on Oldtown Road. Members went canoeing and swimming in the artificial lake, and competed in several types of games.

Target shooting prizes were awarded to John D. Liebau, Walter Edwards, Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Ray Hillingsworth.

Cumberland Lodge 63, B.P.O. Elks held its annual picnic at Fairgo. Special features were continuous orchestra music, an act by a magician, and several contests.

Cumberland Council, United Commercial Travelers, held its outing at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

Several family reunions were held in the area and the usual Sunday crowds flocked to picnic sites.

Shriners To Give Show For Tots

Ali Ghan Shrine Club will present a special free matinee showing of its "Stars On Parade" Wednesday August 22, for crippled and underprivileged county children.

W. H. Rayburn, general chairman, said the special presentation will be the only matinee performance in the show's five-day run during the Cumberland Fair.

The nine-act performance will get under way at 2:30 p. m. Chartered city buses will leave the State Armory on South Centre Street at about 1:30 p. m.

Last year, the Shriners entertained about 500 children at the Fair. Names of youngsters will be furnished through the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, Associated Charities, the Salvation Army, the Welfare Board and the Keating Memorial Day Nursery.

Organizations in the Georges Creek section also have been contacted for names of children, Rayburn said. Five city firemen will be on hand to assist the children.

Regularly scheduled performances will start at 8 p. m. each day. Fire works in front of the grandstand will follow the evening showings.

W. Va. Professor Wounded In Dispute Over Thomas Girl

Hospital Report Man's Injuries Not Serious

PARSONS, W. Va. — Herman D. Sydenspringer, 43-year-old engineering professor at West Virginia University, was shot early yesterday in a dispute with a mine foreman involving a 17-year-old Thomas, W. Va., girl, according to Tucker County Sheriff D. E. Crosten, but attendants at Tucker County Hospital here said that he was not wounded seriously.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Crosten and State Police last night were continuing their search for the mine foreman, Tom Ford, 45, of Thomas, who was identified by the sheriff as the man who wounded Sydenspringer. They also were looking for the weapon, probably a pistol, with which the professor was shot.

Worked At Mine

Sydenspringer, who is a son-in-law of C. O. Gallinger, owner of a mine at Thomas, had been working at the mine during the summer months, according to Sheriff Crosten. In this connection he became acquainted with Ford, who was foreman at Gallinger's mine.

Sydenspringer and Ford had worked together Saturday. At the close of the day, the mine foreman invited the professor to go out with him and his girl friend, Miss Gardenia Evans, 17, of Thomas. The sheriff said that Ford was married and the father of several children but was separated from his wife.

The two men and the girl drank some intoxicants during the evening while riding in Ford's automobile, the sheriff was told. Late in the evening Ford got into the back seat of his car and appeared to go to sleep, the girl reported. Sydenspringer then drove Ford's car into Thomas and parked it at DiBacco's garage.

At that point Sydenspringer told Miss Evans that he would take Ford to his room in Thomas. Immediately, Ford, who actually had only been feigning sleep, opened the car door, got into the driver's seat after ordering Sydenspringer to move over.

Made Accusation

Ford then drove the car from the garage to Bunker Hill, a section in Thomas, and there stopped in front of the girl's house. The mine foreman then accused Sydenspringer of trying to get Miss Evans to go to his room, Sheriff Crosten was told. They both denied the accusation.

"I'm going to kill you," Ford was quoted as saying and then he pulled out a gun which had been concealed in the car. A bullet struck Sydenspringer's right arm, above the elbow, the bullet passing through the muscle.

Sheriff Crosten stated that Ford then refused to allow the professor to leave the automobile for some time. When he did they went into the Evans home. There Ford threattened to shoot Sydenspringer again, they said, but Mrs. Willis Evans, the girl's mother, stood in front of the wounded man and kept him from carrying out the threat. She coaxed Ford into another room.

Eventually, Evans, father of the girl, drove Sydenspringer to the office of Dr. John Miller in Thomas. After treating him briefly the physician advised that he should come to the hospital here for more complete examination. Sydenspringer then drove his own automobile the 14 miles from Thomas to Parsons He reached the hospital about 5.30 a. m.

The District delegates went on record as favoring Benjamin L. Wolfson, Baltimore, as department commander, and Thomas B. Finan, this city, as judge advocate.

Today's Sermonette

Some one touched me; for I perceive that power has gone forth from me. Luke 8:46.

By REV. W. W. PATTERSON

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon prepared by Rev. W. W. Patterson, pastor of LaVale Methodist Church. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The Transforming Touch

The scriptural incident which is the basis for our sermon today is one of the bast known in the New Testament. It is known and loved because it does depict the power of faith and its happy reward. However, it is not only the picture of a woman who needed a greater physician than she had thus far been able to find, but the manner in which the Christ was aware of the sincere seeking individual.

Rev. Patterson

You remember that He was surrounded by many people, and yet He turned to his disciples and said, "Who touched me?" Peter, being perplexed by this question replied, "Master, the multitude throng thee and press thee, and sayest thou, Who touched me?"

The attitude of Jesus toward the merely curious onlooker was summed up in what may well be the most pathetic words He ever uttered, "Ye would not come to Me that ye might have life." You see there was a difference between the manner in which men came to Jesus. They could come to Him physically with no great desire for spiritual fellowship or identification. They were mentally interested but not morally persuaded. But they could come as the woman did, with great faith in His ability to lift her into a new life; to heal her diseases. The world today is still curious about the Galilean Physician, but it has never quite understood that it is really sick and needs His healing, transforming touch. This is the truth that the world must be made to see.

The woman in the story would not have been so blessed had not someone told her of Christ. She would have missed this greatest opportunity of her life if she had not known about His coming to her village. However, even this knowledge would have benefited her little if she had not been able to believe in Him. It was necessary that she know of the Physician, that she have faith in His ability to heal and that she have the courage to act upon that faith. Naturally a timid soul, it was not easy for her to force her way through the crowd, whom, had they known that she was ceremoniously unclean, would no doubt have thrown her out of their midst. Then again, she did not want Jesus to know that she touched His garment. But the Master had a sensitive soul for such needs and such faith and even though she merely touched His robe, He knew that someone had touched Him in whose soul was to be found a great, yearning, powerful faith. Of all the people who thronged about Him, brushing His clothes and body, he felt that only this afflicted woman had really touched Him.

Multitudes of people are thronging the Christ today as they gather for worship in their churches, as they are trying to analyse His teaching, but comparatively few are really touching Him. Few are going away from the scene of Christ's ministrations with the feeling that somehow life has become transformed by virtue of His touching it. Their frustrated and sin-sick souls have not been restored to health. Certainly the fault does not lie with the physician, but the patient. Too often we come to Him with our own diagnosis and remedy, wishing that He might merely sign the prescription which, in our human thinking, we are sure will effect a cure. But no man has the ability to so save himself and his generation.

We talk of building a Christian world but it is not we who shall build it, but the Christ touching the world into greatness and peace through us. As our lives are transformed by His spirit, just so is a part of the world transformed. It is always a better world the moment an individual has touched the garment of Jesus by the compulsion of a great faith in His ability to heal and bless.

We talk of building a great church, but it is not we who shall build it, but the Christ functioning through our redeemed lives. No church is ever quite the same after just one person in its membership has had the courage to brave the crowd of merely conventional Christians in order to touch the Christ and to be touched by Him.

Would that all men this morning might have the faith that is necessary to release the divine power to heal; the divine love, and bring down upon humanity the divine panacea for all our ills.

We shall perhaps never seek the Christ in this way until we do it in desperation. When confronted with the alternatives between death and life, destruction and survival, we will brave the ridicule of the multitudes and prove the ancient truth that the man who dares to really trust in God shall know the truth and the truth shall set him free.

FROSTBURG WOMAN IS STABBED TO DEATH

Donna Beeman 3rd Victim Slain In 10 Days

An 18-year-old mother of twins was stabbed to death early yesterday morning by her irate husband following a family argument in the home of the girl's parents in Frostburg. It was the third slaying in Allegany County within the past 10 days.

Mrs. Donna L. Beeman died shortly after receiving stab wounds from the front and back which, authorities said, apparently were inflicted with a penknife by her husband, Noah Earl Beeman, 24, Midland.

Hemorrhage Cited

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death was caused by hemorrhage due to stab wounds in the lungs and heart. He added the young woman succumbed about 12:40 a. m. yesterday.

Fighting On Floor

Investigation revealed the Beeman woman was staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Airhart, Railroad Street, Frostburg, Dr. Deming reported, and her husband visited her there Saturday night.

An argument ensued between the young couple, Dr. Deming stated, and erupted into a fight which the girl's mother apparently joined. The father-in-law, elsewhere in the house at the time, told police he heard a noise in the kitchen of the house and when he investigated discovered his wife and the Beemans struggling on the floor.

Ran From House

Mrs. Beeman broke loose from the struggle and ran from the house, Deming said Airhart added, and she apparently ran about 75 feet up the roadway before she collapsed and died.

Frostburg police were notified and investigated. They found Mrs. Beeman lying dead alongside the road, with two stab wounds in her body, Deming went on. Beeman was arrested by the Frostburg authorities and lodged in jail until the State's Attorney's office could launch an investigation.

Witnesses to the fracas along with Beeman were questioned throughout yesterday in the State's Attorney's office and the probe will be continued today, they added. It has not yet been determined if anyone else was in the house at the time of the stabbing, police said.

Husband Is Held

Beeman is being held in the Allegany County jail where no charge has been placed against him pending completion of the investigation, authorities related.

Mrs. Beeman worked in the Berkowity pajama factory in Frostburg and was staying with her parents, police reported. Her husband, who once served six months in the Maryland House of Correction for robbery, was living with his mother Mrs. Effie Beeman, in Midland, they continued. He is unemployed.

Criminal Investigator William F. Baker, Maryland State Police, LaVale barracks, is aiding with the investigation.

A funeral service for Mrs. Beeman will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at the Frostburg Church of Nazarene with Rev. Joseph D. Byers officiating. Interment will be in Eckhart Cemetery.

Mrs. Beeman is survived besides her husband and parents by her twin children, Frederick and Gloria Jean, aged six months, two brothers, Louis Airhart, Jr., at home, and William, Eckhart and five sisters, Mrs. Argyle Lancaster, Shaft, Mrs. Arthur Femi, Morantown; Mrs. George Komatz, Eckhart, Mrs. James Warnick, Baltimore, and Helen, at home.

Murder Charges Placed

The first county incident occurred August 2, when Nile J. Michael, 50-year-old Celanese worker, was shot by his alleged common-law spouse, Margaret E. Gray, 39 ,in their North Branch home. Michael was shot in the groin with a .22 calibre and died list Sunday in Memorial Hospital here. The Gray woman was charged with murder and is held in the county jail for action of the October Grand Jury.

The second shooting took place early in the morning August 6 when 27-year-old George A. Schurg, Hoffman, was shot in the chest with a .22 calibre bullet fired by his wife, Mrs. Shirley Meek Schurg, 21. Schurg died Friday in Miners Hospitl, Frostburg, and a murder charge was filed against Mrs. Schurg.

Mrs. Schurg yesterday received permission from the sheriff's office to attend her husband's funeral in Frostburg today at 2:30. She will be accompanied by Trooper Baker.

Man Struck By Auto Dies From Injuries

Wheeler Robey Had Fractured Skull

A 75-year-old man who was struck by an automobile Saturday night on Route 220 three miles south of Rawlings, died yesterday morning about 9:30 in Potomac Valley Hospital where he had been admitted following the mishap.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said Wheeler A. Robey, Danville, succumbed after receiving a fractured skull in the accident.

State Trooper A. M. Spioch, Maryland State Police, who investigated the fatal mishap, said Robey alighted from a car driven by Frank Rhodes, N. Y., who is visiting at 500 North Centre Street. Robey was walking across the highway toward his home when he was struck. He died without regaining consciousness, Dr. Deming added.

According to witnesses, Spioch stated, Robey left the car in which he was riding on the right side of the road, crossed behind the vehicle and swiftly walked into the highway.

Paul E. Goins, Detroit, Mich., driver of another car, told police he saw the Rhodes car stop but failed to see Robey until the latter stepped in front of Goins' vehicle.

Goins said he swerved to the left to avoid hitting Robey but the victim was struck a glancing blow and hurled to the road, Spioch related.

Witnesses to the accident called for assistance and the McCoole Volunteer Fire Company responded and took the injured man to the Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser, W. Va.

Spioch noted both cars were traveling in the direction of Cumberland when the mishap occurred. In addition to Rhodes, Robey's brother, Conrad, was in the first car. Members of the Michigan auto included Goins' wife and sister-in-law.

Goins was placed in Allegany County jail here pending action by the State's Attorney's office. No charges have yet been preferred, police added.

Three Injured In Auto Mishaps

The conditions of three persons injured in accidents over the weekend were reported as good by the hospitals last night.

Mrs. Lela Harden, 25, of Spring Gap, suffered possible skull fracture and other injuries, and Christian Harden, 5, sustained facial lacerations and contusions. They were admitted to Memorial Hospital Saturday morning.

Hospital attaches reported that the car driven by the woman's husband, Elmer Harden, careened from the road near Spring Gap and struck the embankment. The driver and three other children in the auto were not hurt.

Edward Harman, 23, of Twiggtown, was admitted to Allegany Hospital Saturday night with rib injuries after the truck in which he was riding with Frank Casteel, 29, Bedford Street, overturned on Oldtown Road.

Casteel received treatment for abrasions, and Harman was admitted for X-rays. State Trooper John F. Browning is investigating.

Saucers Again? "Mystery Light" Baffles Observers

First it was flying saucers. Then it was an oversize balloon. And now it's a mysterious light in the sky.

According to William McFarland, who saw it, it was just a bright light in the eastern sky, just below the clouds. It happened twice, at about 1 a. m. Saturday and again at the same time yesterday morning.

McFarland, a Constitution Park night watchman, said the light seemed to go on and off once in a while, but it didn't move. It just hung there in the sky.

Several other people told him they'd seen the phenomenon, but they couldn't explain it either. Robert R. Golden, custodian and weather observer at the Park, theorized that it may have been a weather balloon.

No one else ventured a guess. It was a little too early for the sunrise, and it was in the wrong place for the Northern Lights.

Weather

Cumberland's all-too-usual weekend weather was here again yesterday, as the weatherman measured .35 of an inch of rainfall for Saturday night and Sunday. The rain brought the mercury down to a more reasonable high of 80, but that wasn't much help, since the humidity rose to a stuffy 82 per cent. Yesterday's low was 67, and by 8 p. m. the thermometer was down to 74 degrees. Better prospects are in sight for today, but the Weather Bureau would commit itself only to the extent of "mostly fair and less humid."

First Federal Association To Construct New Building

The expansion program of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association will get underway in approximately a week or 10 days with the beginning of construction of the company's new ultra-modern bank building on Baltimore Street.

After months of delay in which the building plans were made, cancelled and remade because of the inability to obtain steel for construction, the association finally obtained permission from the National Production Authority to begin building the new structure, Lynn C. Lashley, executive vice president of the organization, announced over the weekend.

The Bank Building and Equipment Corporation of America from St. Louis, Mo., drew the plans for the two-story building, Lashley said, and will have charge of the construction although bids will be let to local contractors for the actual work.

Reinforced Concrete

The new banking house will be made entirely of reinforced concrete and brick to meet the requirements of the NPA, Lashley explained. Plans call for the structure to be two stories high with basement, concrete foundation walls and footing, floor columns and framework. The exterior walls will be of roman brick with limestone coping and trim and facing will be red granite.

The architecture for the new building is on a contemporary style and the First Federal will occupy the main floor and basement. The second floor will be made into offices for rental, Lashley added.

The modern building will replace the old Belvidere Hall, 139-143 Baltimore Street, which the bank bought July 28, 1950 for $175,000. The old building, which formerly housed the Belvidere Theatre, had been converted into store rooms which until recently were occupied by Thom McAn Shoe Store and Moskins Credit Clothing Store on the ground floor and the J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets, on the second floor.

Preliminary work will be the tearing down of the old building prior to new construction. First contracts will be let on this phase of work, Lashley noted.

Lashley estimated the new construction would cost approximately a quarter million dollars and would be completed in about 11 months.

The front of the building will have large glass windows and doorway with a semi-circular coping above the entrance. Space for an executive office and three office desks, secretary's desk and three interview booths will be in the main street lobby. Also on the street-level floor will be eight teller windows and check window, a cash and book vault and waiting room for customers.

A circular stairway to the left of the main entrance leads downstairs to the lower lobby which contains directors room, mechanical and storage equipment, toilet facilities, employes recreation room, safe deposit vault and coupon booths, and kitchen and lunch room for the employes.

The interior, to be constructed in a semi-circular effect, will be air conditioned, sound proof with carpeted floors, and colored walls. An elevator shaft also will be constructed.

The building will measure 48 by 125 feet, with parking lot, driveway and auto teller window in the rear.

Explaining the expansion move of the association, Lashley noted the company had outgrown its present quarters on North Centre Street where its current assets have risen to over $7,000,000. The association received its Federal charter in 1935 and had less than a million dollars in assets at the time, Lashley continued.

The organization will remain in its present building until the new bank structure is completed, Lashley added.

Church, Clubs Hold Picnics Despite Weather

Usual Crowds Flock To Parks

Threatening skies and cooler temperatures failed to daunt picnickers yesterday at several large outings and family picnics.

Among the larger events were a church picnic, two club outings and a luncheon club picnic. The crowd at Constitution Park was described as "pretty good" in spite of the weather.

St. Patrick's Catholic Church held its annual parish outing at Malamphy's Meadowbrook Farm from 1 to 8 p. m. The program included races, games and novelty contests for adults and children.

Prizes were given in events ranging from sack races to pie eating and cracker whistling.

The Cumberland Rotary Club spent the afternoon at the new camp of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts, on Oldtown Road. Members went canoeing and swimming in the artificial lake, and competed in several types of games.

Target shooting prizes were awarded to John D. Liebau, Walter Edwards, Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Ray Hillingsworth.

Cumberland Lodge 63, B.P.O. Elks held its annual picnic at Fairgo. Special features were continuous orchestra music, an act by a magician, and several contests.

Cumberland Council, United Commercial Travelers, held its outing at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

Several family reunions were held in the area and the usual Sunday crowds flocked to picnic sites.

Shriners To Give Show For Tots

Ali Ghan Shrine Club will present a special free matinee showing of its "Stars On Parade" Wednesday August 22, for crippled and underprivileged county children.

W. H. Rayburn, general chairman, said the special presentation will be the only matinee performance in the show's five-day run during the Cumberland Fair.

The nine-act performance will get under way at 2:30 p. m. Chartered city buses will leave the State Armory on South Centre Street at about 1:30 p. m.

Last year, the Shriners entertained about 500 children at the Fair. Names of youngsters will be furnished through the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, Associated Charities, the Salvation Army, the Welfare Board and the Keating Memorial Day Nursery.

Organizations in the Georges Creek section also have been contacted for names of children, Rayburn said. Five city firemen will be on hand to assist the children.

Regularly scheduled performances will start at 8 p. m. each day. Fire works in front of the grandstand will follow the evening showings.

W. Va. Professor Wounded In Dispute Over Thomas Girl

Hospital Report Man's Injuries Not Serious

PARSONS, W. Va. — Herman D. Sydenspringer, 43-year-old engineering professor at West Virginia University, was shot early yesterday in a dispute with a mine foreman involving a 17-year-old Thomas, W. Va., girl, according to Tucker County Sheriff D. E. Crosten, but attendants at Tucker County Hospital here said that he was not wounded seriously.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Crosten and State Police last night were continuing their search for the mine foreman, Tom Ford, 45, of Thomas, who was identified by the sheriff as the man who wounded Sydenspringer. They also were looking for the weapon, probably a pistol, with which the professor was shot.

Worked At Mine

Sydenspringer, who is a son-in-law of C. O. Gallinger, owner of a mine at Thomas, had been working at the mine during the summer months, according to Sheriff Crosten. In this connection he became acquainted with Ford, who was foreman at Gallinger's mine.

Sydenspringer and Ford had worked together Saturday. At the close of the day, the mine foreman invited the professor to go out with him and his girl friend, Miss Gardenia Evans, 17, of Thomas. The sheriff said that Ford was married and the father of several children but was separated from his wife.

The two men and the girl drank some intoxicants during the evening while riding in Ford's automobile, the sheriff was told. Late in the evening Ford got into the back seat of his car and appeared to go to sleep, the girl reported. Sydenspringer then drove Ford's car into Thomas and parked it at DiBacco's garage.

At that point Sydenspringer told Miss Evans that he would take Ford to his room in Thomas. Immediately, Ford, who actually had only been feigning sleep, opened the car door, got into the driver's seat after ordering Sydenspringer to move over.

Made Accusation

Ford then drove the car from the garage to Bunker Hill, a section in Thomas, and there stopped in front of the girl's house. The mine foreman then accused Sydenspringer of trying to get Miss Evans to go to his room, Sheriff Crosten was told. They both denied the accusation.

"I'm going to kill you," Ford was quoted as saying and then he pulled out a gun which had been concealed in the car. A bullet struck Sydenspringer's right arm, above the elbow, the bullet passing through the muscle.

Sheriff Crosten stated that Ford then refused to allow the professor to leave the automobile for some time. When he did they went into the Evans home. There Ford threatened to shoot Sydenspringer again, they said, but Mrs. Willis Evans, the girl's mother, stood in front of the wounded man and kept him from carrying out the threat. She coaxed Ford into another room.

Eventually, Evans, father of the girl, drove Sydenspringer to the office of Dr. John Miller in Thomas. After treating him briefly the physician advised that he should come to the hospital here for more complete examination. Sydenspringer then drove his own automobile the 14 miles from Thomas to Parsons He reached the hospital about 5.30 a. m.

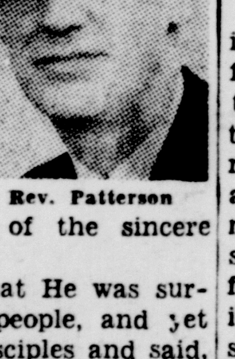
Today's Sermonette

Some one touched me; for I perceive that power has gone forth from me. Luke 8:46.

By REV. W. W. PATTERSON

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon prepared by Rev. W. W. Patterson, pastor of LaVale Methodist Church. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The Transforming Touch



Rev. Patterson

The scriptural incident which is the basis for our sermon today is one of the bast known in the New Testament. It is known and loved because it does depict the power of faith and its happy reward. However, it is not only the picture of a woman who needed a greater physician than she had thus far been able to find, but the manner in which the Christ was aware of the sincere seeking individual.

You remember that He was surrounded by many people, and yet He turned to his disciples and said, "Who touched me?" Peter, being perplexed by this question replied, "Master, the multitude throng thee and press thee, and sayest thou, Who touched me?"

The attitude of Jesus toward the merely curious onlooker was summed up in what may well be the most pathetic words He ever uttered, "Ye would not come to Me that ye might have life." You see there was a difference between the manner in which men came to Jesus. They could come to Him physically with no great desire for spiritual fellowship or identification. They were mentally interested but not morally persuaded. But they could come as the woman did, with great faith in His ability to lift her into a new life; to heal her diseases. The world today is still curious about the Galilean Physician, but it has never quite understood that it is really sick and needs His healing, transforming touch. This is the truth that the world must be made to see.

The woman in the story would not have been so blessed had not someone told her of Christ. She would have missed this greatest opportunity of her life if she had not known about His coming to her village. However, even this knowledge would have benefited her little if she had not been able to believe in Him. It was necessary that she know of the Physician, that she have faith in His ability to heal and that she have the courage to act upon that faith. Naturally a timid soul, it was not easy for her to force her way through the crowd, whom, had they known that she was ceremoniously unclean, would no doubt have thrown her out of their midst. Then again, she did not want Jesus to know that she touched His garment. But the Master had a sensitive soul for such needs and such faith and even though she merely touched His robe, He knew that someone had touched Him in whose soul was to be found a great, yearning, powerful faith. Of all the people who thronged about Him, brushing His clothes and body, he felt that only this afflicted woman had really touched Him.

Multitudes of people are thronging the Christ today as they gather for worship in their churches, as they are trying to analyse His teaching, but comparatively few are really touching Him. Few are going away from the scene of Christ's ministrations with the feeling that somehow life has become transformed by virtue of His touching it. Their frustrated and sin-sick souls have not been restored to health. Certainly the fault does not lie with the physician, but the patient. Too often we come to Him with our own diagnosis and remedy, wishing that He might merely sign the prescription which, in our human thinking, we are sure will effect a cure. But no man has the ability to so save himself and his generation.

We talk of building a Christian world but it is not we who shall build it, but the Christ touching the world into greatness and peace through us. As our lives are transformed by His spirit, just so is a part of the world transformed. It is always a better world the moment an individual has touched the garment of Jesus by the compulsion of a great faith in His ability to heal and bless.

We talk of building a great church, but it is not we who shall build it, but the Christ functioning through our redeemed lives. No church is ever quite the same after just one person in its membership has had the courage to brave the crowd of merely conventional Christians in order to touch the Christ and to be touched by Him.

Would that all men this morning might have the faith that is necessary to release the divine power to heal; the divine love, and bring down upon humanity the divine panacea for all our ills.

We shall perhaps never seek the Christ in this way until we do it in desperation. When confronted with the alternatives between death and life, destruction and survival, we will brave the ridicule of the multitudes and prove the ancient truth that the man who dares to really trust in God shall know the truth and the truth shall set him free.

REDS APPEAR MORE CONCILIATORY

Assertion Comes Despite Senators' Report European Defense Lagging

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — A Senate subcommittee quoted Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today as saying the free world's strength is so overwhelming "it is almost ridiculous for us to be talking in terms of fright and hysteria."

Eisenhower's assertion came despite a finding by a Foreign Relations subcommittee that Western Europe is lagging in building up its ground defense. It said, however, the Western European nations have promised Eisenhower a 75 per cent increase in their North Atlantic pact army divisions by next year.

In a formal report on its 14-day visit to Europe in July, the nine-member subcommittee said that Eisenhower, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander, told them, as of today:

Red Nations Have Unity

"The material, intellectual, spiritual, technical and professional resources available to the free world are so overwhelming as compared to what the Iron Curtain and satellite countries have, that it is almost ridiculous for us to be talking in terms of fright and hysteria, which we often do."

The senators said Eisenhower, with whom they conferred twice in his Paris headquarters, said the Iron Curtain countries do have a unity which the Western nations lack.

They quoted the General as declaring, however, that this is a unity "brought about by a gun and a sword held forever behind a man's back ready to chop off his head."

Eisenhower told the visiting senators that the job of the free nation is "to convince every nation participating, every man in that nation x x x that we are approaching this thing from the standpoint of of enlightened self-interest."

Air Bill Provision To Start

The subcommittee, reporting to the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees which start revising the $8,500,000,000 foreign aid bill tomorrow, said further in its report:

1. Eisenhower's headquarters is dissatisfied with the fact that while the United States has doubled its ground forces since the outbreak of the Korean war, Western Europe has increased them only 20 per cent.

2. Spain and Yugoslavia should be brought into the "master plans" for defense of Europe from Communist aggression. It estimated military and economic aid needs of Spain at $400,000,000.

Train Carrying 500 Is Derailed But No One Killed

Three Cars Skid Down Embankment

FOUR OAKS, N. C., Aug. 12 (AP)—A fast Miami-to-New York streamlined train carrying more than 500 passengers was wrecked today with three cars flying down a 20-foot embankment, but nobody was killed.

"The most miraculous thing I've ever seen," declared Dr. Watson Wharton, Smithfield. "The steel cars saved the passengers."

Other rescue workers voiced equal amazement.

Nine persons were hospitalized and scores were treated for cuts and bruises, but many of the 25 ambulances which converged on the scene went away empty.

The 18-car train, the Atlantic Coast Line's East Coast Champion, was passing a rain-hit filled area two miles north of here when nine middle cars derailed without warning.

Diner Noses Over Bank

The diner swung cross-wise on the double track and came to rest almost standing on its nose with one end buried in mud at the bottom of the bank and the other end in the air.

At the bottom of the bank, rescue workers found one car upside down, another on its side and one upright. The other cars stayed on the right of way, although one turned over.

Rescue workers made their way through all the cars and expressed astonishment the toll was no higher.

Cloudburst Had Hit Area

C. G. Sibley, ACL assistant vice president for operation, said the train was due in Washington at 6 a. m., and in New York at 10:15 a. m. (EST).

"Indications are that the cause of the derailment was the fill sloughing off while the train was passing over due to recent heavy rains," Sibley said.

A cloudburst hit the area Friday.

The railroad official said the engineer saw nothing wrong with the fill when approaching it. Sibley added another passenger train passed safely over the fill an hour ahead of the streamliner.

Iranian Oil Talks Receive Setback

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 12 (AP) — British-Iranian oil talks got a setback today.

The negotiators cancelled a session at which the British had planned to submit a new proposal for settlement of the dispute over nationalization of the rich Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, more than half owned by the British government.

A source close to the negotiations said the meeting was called off because Iranian officials had expressed privately their coolness to the proposals prepared, but not yet submitted officially, by British Lord Privy Seal Richard Stokes

Neither the British nor the Iranians want the talks to break down now, a week after they were started, however. It was believed the British, warned in advance of Iranian opposition, would revise their proposals in hope of reaching an agreement.

Stakes, it was reliably reported, had ready a plan to eliminate the name of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company from Iran, but keep British mangerial control of the oil fields and refinery.

Army Action In "Cribbing" Case To Be Completed Soon

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—The Army said today that action should be completed early next week on the 90 West Point cadets who face dismissal for "cribbing" on examinations.

At the same time, the Army held firm to its stand that there would be no honorable discharges for cadets found guilty of violating the Military Academy's honor code.

Since Head Football Coach Earl (Red) Blaik appealed last week that the involved boys be permitted to leave the academy without stigma, there has been a strong movement to lighten the cadets' punishment.

Blaik has received a tremendous amount of mail, all of it sympathetic to the involved boys.

"The action we are to take has been approved by the Department of the Army and the President himself," Col. James B. Leer, the Military Academy's public information officer, said. "There can be no deviation from the statement made last week by the superintendent, Maj. Gen. Frederick Irving."

Irving announced that cadets admitting guilt under oath would be given a chance to resign.

Those refusing to resign will be discharged by administrative order, without specification as to character.

SEEKS $500,000 — Miss Alice J. Nelson, Boston, 38-year-old former beauty contest winner, leaves Suffolk Superior Court in Boston where she brought a $500,000 suit against the estate of the late Henry I. Million German Red Youths Stage 'Hate West' Rally

Huge Parade Dwarfs Hitler Era Displays

BERLIN, Aug. 12 (AP)—More than 1,000,000 blue-shirted girls and boys, chanting loyalty to Stalin and hate for the West, staged a giant parade in East Berlin today in a propaganda show that outdid Hitler's biggest spectacles.

The high point of the 14-day Communist World Youth Peace Festival came to an end after nine hours of steady marching past the reviewing stand in Marx-Engels Platz, the Red square that formerly was the Lustgarten.

Western precautions against violent incidents were unnecessary. Not a stone was thrown in anger all day.

Top Reds Review Parade

The Russian-controlled East German news agency said 2,000,000 youths participated in the giant demonstration — 1,500,000 who marched in the parade and 500,000 who acted as spectators and saved their strength for shouting slogans. Western observers thought the figures were somewhat exaggerated.

"This exceeded all expectations" said the news agency, adding that 35,000 delegates had come from West Germany and 22,000 from other foreign countries.

High German Communists, President Wilhelm Pieck, Premier Otto Grotewohl and Party Boss Walter Ulbricht and their Soviet guests, had seats of honor for the review.

Banners Lambast Truman

The marchers and cheering sections kept up a steady din of shouting "Long live Stalin," "Ami (Americans), go home," and "Ami, get out of Korea."

Coming in seemingly endless waves, many abreast, the paraders carried floats, banners and caricatures lambasting President Truman, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and the West German leaders, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Socialist Kurt Schumacher.

Several floats made capital of British use of Helgoland Island as a practice bombing target, and thousands shouted "Helgoland" just as Nazis once shouted "Danzig" when Hitler was plotting his war against Poland.

Child Is Electrocuted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — Harry Sperling, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. B. Sperling, was electrocuted while playing in the living room of his home here today.

Police said he apparently tried to plug a cord into an electric wall socket and in some way received an electrical current through his body.

Foe Now Has Strength For Major Attack

Drive Might Come If Talks Founder

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Communists have made a big military buildup in Korea.

The question is: Are they planning a new offensive if the Kaesong armistice talks finally collapse, or are they pouring in troops merely to strengthen the hand of their negotiators?

High Allied officers agree that the enemy has plenty of power and can attack if he wants to, but Allied intelligence is uncertain whether such an attack will come.

A few intelligence officers will say "probably," but they say it with nothing like the certainty which they were able to forecast the big Red offensives of last January, February, April and May.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway confirmed the Red buildup in his report to the United Nations Aug. 3.

Evidence Assembled

Here is some of the evidence available in Korea to suggest an immediate Red drive if the Kaesong conference founders:

1. Unusually heavy truck traffic through North Korea towards the front, starting at the first mention of armistice talks late in June and continuing through mid-July.

Some Air Force pilots reported seeing up to 2,000 trucks at a time in this period, boldly using lights at night despite air attacks.

After July 15 this traffic eased off. This suggests the Reds had completed whatever preparations they had in mind.

2. An entirely new vigor in the North Korean army. North Korean units are on both the extreme eastern and western ends of the front and have been putting up some of the most violent resistance to small "limited-objective" Allied thrusts.

Red Artillery Increases

Their performance is infinitely better than that of the wretched North Korean First Corps which was knocked to pieces last April.

This lends support to reports that the North Korean army has been thoroughly reorganized and retrained.

3. Communist artillery has become more plentiful and bolder. Every part of the front now reports Red artillery fire as a routine matter, whereas a few months ago it was exceptional. The Reds then relied almost entirely on mortars for large-caliber fire.

Zwillman Sought In Boston Area

BOSTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Senate crime committee's hunt for Abner (Longie) Zwillman narrowed tonight to an undisclosed Greater Boston city where police said he "probably is hiding out."

Zwillman, described as a former bootlegger, is the object of a nationwide search. The crime committee wants to serve a subpoena on him to testify before it in Washington.

The hunt turned to land after a yacht on which Zwillman had been sailing was found at Block Island, R. I. The husky ex-bootlegger who now is in the tobacco business at Hillside, N. J., was no longer aboard the craft.

Richard Moser, the crime committee's chief counsel who called for the nationwide alert, said in New York:

"This former big-time bootlegger is believed to be bigger than (Frank) Costello but so far more successful in avoiding the public spotlight."

Zwillman had been reported aboard the 70-foot yacht "Howdy Podner" last week in Boston and Marblehead. United States marshals and Coast Guard patrol vessels were alerted to spot the yacht.

Moser said those aboard the vessel when it was found in Rhode Island readily conceded that Zwillman had been aboard and that they gave the information that he left it in the Massachusetts yachting port of Marblehead.

Maryland Police Seek One-Armed Bandit

NORTH BEACH, Md., Aug. 12 (AP)—A one-armed bandit snatched a bag of cash containing $1,000 to $1,500 in a beach restaurant today and escaped with a companion, police reported.

Officers later found the bag two miles from the beach and said they thought they had the thieves bottled up in Calvert County, Md.

Peiping Police Jail 19 Priests In Church Drive

Communists Shift To Frontal Attack

HONG KONG, Aug. 12 (AP)—Communist police jailed 19 Catholic priests, closed 12 of Peiping's 17 parish centers and put all the rest of the city's 80 foreign missionaries under house arrest in simultaneous raids July 25, church sources reported today.

Describing this as "the most frontal attack yet" made against the church in China, the sources predicted similar action against Catholics and other Christians throughout Red China.

The Reds have been conducting a campaign for an "independent" Catholic church, having no connection with the Vatican.

Red "Church" Or—None

The new direct drive apparently is intended to force the people to accept this Red "church" or none.

The Red press and radio, which have carried many items about the "independence" campaign, have as yet said nothing about the police action.

The information came from Catholics arriving in this British colony from Peiping.

These sources, which cannote be named, said those arrested in Peiping July 25 included Father Harold Rigney, former rector of the Catholic Fujen University and the only American missionary still in Peiping.

A Chicagoan in his late forties, he formerly served in Europe and Africa. A U. S. Air Force chaplain in World War II, he went to Peiping at the close of the war. He was rector of Fujen until last October, when the Communists put their own men in all administrative posts but permitted priests to continue teaching.

15 Germans Seized

Others reported seized included Father Joseph Miners, a German professor at Fujen University; another unidentified professor; the German Bishop Constans Kramer, of Luanfu Diocese; the Belgian Father Van Cooli, head of the Legion of Mary in North China; a Frenchman, and 13 other Germans.

The Reds previously announced a campaign against the Legion of Mary in Tientsin, and the official Red press demanded suppression of the organization throughout China.

MacArthur Probe Group To Report

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—Sen. Harry Cain (R-Wash) revealed tonight that eight members of the joint Senate-House committee that investigated the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur have prepared a report on the hearing.

Cain, a member of the Armed Services Committee, said he was one of the signers of the document but when asked if the others also were Republicans he evaded the question.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga), who presided at the MacArthur hearing, said yesterday he would call a meeting soon to decide if a formal report is needed.

1,400 U. S. Troops Arrive In Italy

LEGHORN, Italy, Aug. 12 (AP) — Fourteen hundred serious-faced American soldiers landed at this west coast port today. It was the first large scale arrival of American troops in Italy since Allied armies liberated the country from Fascism.

Communist efforts to disrupt their arrival by a strike of 14,000 Red-controlled dock workers failed.

There was only the normal Sunday calm in this Communist-governed city beside the sunny Tyrrhenian.

All but 100 of the new arrivals will leave by train to reinforce U.S. occupation forces in Austria. They will go through the Brenner Pass in the first use of the new supply line intended to safeguard U. S. Austrian forces from any sudden attack which might cut off the former route across Germany.

Profit Rate Of Most Industries Increases

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission reported today that despite higher costs and taxes, "all but three of 25 major manufacturing industries" showed a higher rate of profit in 1950 than in prewar 1940.

The report, fourth in a series submitted to Congress by the FTC comparing prewar and postwar rates of return, after taxes, further said that "in all but six industries 1950 profit rates also showed an increase over 1949."

"The only three industries which failed to show a higher profit rate in 1950 than in 1940 were cigarets; cigars; and plug, smoking and chewing tobacco."

The six industries showing a decline in profits from 1949 to 1950 were listed as: Dairy Products; cigarets; cigars; plug, smoking and snuff tobacco; bread; biscuits and crackers.

Flattop Is Navy's Offensive Spearhead, Fechteler Says

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 12 (AP)—Adm. William Morrow Fechteler, the new chief of naval operations, says the battleship is an essential part of a carrier task force, "but the offensive spearhead of the Navy is the carrier and her planes."

The war in Korea, Fechteler told an interviewer, demonstrated anew the "mobility of carrier borne air power and its ability to go in and deliver air support of ground troops."

And whereas the Korean war has demonstrated the battleship "is an extremely powerful floating artillery in support of our troops," it should be remembered "we had absolute control of the sea."

"If the enemy had used naval forces, they could have stopped us from getting in, except what we could get in by air."

Fechteler does not subscribe to any hard and fast theory of equal distribution of United States naval strength in the Atlantic and the Pacific.

"Never, in my estimation, should there be a fixed concept of fleet distribution between the two oceans," he said. "Strategic considerations which develop from the international situation will dictate the distribution."

Member Of New French Cabinet Is Slain By Wife

Pierre Chevallier Had Wanted Divorce

ORLEANS, France, Aug. 12 (AP) — A promising young French politician who only yesterday won a post in the new French cabinet was shot to death by his pretty black-haired wife today after he told her he wanted a divorce.

He was 42-year-old Pierre Chevallier, who was named secretary of state for technical education, youth and sports in the cabinet of Premier Rene Pleven. Police said his wife, Yvonne, confessed to firing five shots from a revolver that killed him almost instantly.

Chevallier was mayor of war-devastated Orleans and a hero of the French resistance movement during World War Two. In private life he was a physician. She was a former midwife.

Pleven Is Shocked

Chevallier was a close co-worker of Premier Pleven. The Premier, shocked by the news of the domestic tragedy, dispatched high officials from his office to investigate.

Police gave this account:

A few days ago Mrs. Chevallier bought a small revolver and asked permission to carry it on the grounds her husband had dangerous political enemies.

Chevallier had been in Paris for the past week as the cabinet crisis neared its end. She telephoned him several times yesterday and reproached him for failing to come home. He told his wife he had taken over his new job and could not leave.

Shooting Climaxes Quarrel

This morning he had been scheduled to dedicate a bridge at Chatillon Sur-Loire — not far from Orleans. He left Paris in the early morning hours in an official ministry car.

At 9 a. m. the car pulled up outside his home here. He told the chauffeur to wait while he went inside to change his clothes.

A quarrel ensued. Chevallier told his wife he wanted a divorce. She drew the revolver and fired five times. Two bullets struck him in the head and three in the chest.

Mrs. Chevallier met police at the door and said:

"I have just killed my husband."

Enemy Truce Team Charts Buffer Ideas

Negotiators Meet Hour, 20 Minutes

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, Aug. 13 (AP)—United Nations and Communist truce teams met for one hour and 20 minutes today on the crucial Korean buffer zone issue.

There was no announcement of the results.

The delegates set the next meeting for 11 a. m. Tuesday (8 p. m., EST, Monday).

Each side entered todays session searching for a soft spot in the others demands for a buffer zone.

Both Red and United Nations delegations have held fast to their demands through 12 straight meetings.

But the Reds yesterday at Kaesong charted the two proposals on a Korean map in relation to present battle lines. A U. N. command spokesman said the Communists appeared slightly more conciliatory on the buffer zone issue.

The meetings had teetered for three days on the brink of collapse until Sundays session. Then North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il, senior Red delegate, acceded to a formal United Nations request for a map.

Document Closely Studied

The 30 x 48-inch document was closely studied at U. N. advance headquarters Sunday night. For the first time the Reds had put on paper their concept of:

1. The present battle lines.

2. The 38th parallel which the Reds insist be the buffer demarcation line.

3. The U. N. command's "original and generalized" proposal for a demilitarized zone.

The Allies have called for a demilitarized zone along a defensible line approximating the present fighting front. It is south of parallel 38 in the west and well north of the parallel in the center and east.

Responsible sources said they believed that, while the Reds were still vitally interested in drawing a demarcation line along the 38th parallel, they were even more interested in obtaining an armistice.

For this reason it was believed the Reds might retreat from their original stand toward a compromise.

Cautious Against Optimism

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, U. N. briefing officer who attended the session, cautioned against optimism, but pointed out that it was the first time the Communists had been willing to place any ideas—either their own or the United Nations—on a map.

Nuckols said this looked like "an indication of willingness to depart from their hitherto firm and inflexible position."

The U. N. command in a communique Sunday night said, "although no tangible progress was made toward a solution", on the buffer zone, the 22nd meeting "may have uncovered a mutually acceptable area in which further exploratory discussions might be held."

It was a cautious statement. However, it appeared that if the adamant stand of the Reds is modified, the U. N. may also consider some concessions on where to stop the shooting war.

Demos And GOP Enter TV Field

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Democratic and Republican National Committees have stuck cautious toes into the television field, with indications they will splurge in the 1952 campaign.

As a starter, the Democratic committee has agreed to help Sen. Benton (D-Conn) finance regular TV reports to constituents. These will be filmed in Washington and shown in Connecticut. Benton will be seeking a six-year Senate term in next year's election.

Charles Vandevander, Democratic national publicity director, said the committee is contributing a modest amount toward the cost and expects to pick up part of the tab for other campaigning lawmakers.

The Republican National Committee has been in the TV business since March, furnishing the cameraman and other production workers for 10-minute takes by Rep. Keating of New York.

William Mylander, GOP national publicity director, said the committee has made arrangements to help put Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), another 1952 candidate, on TV film for home consumption and is negotiating with Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) for a similar series.

Fourteen of the 19 Republican senators whose seats are at stake in next year's election are from states with TV facilities. Most of them will be knocking on the committee's door for help before the campaign rolls around.

Former Cooking School Instructor On TV Now

When the Times-News Cooking School opens on Tuesday, September 11, at the Strand Theatre, there will be a new instructor in place of Miss Eddaline Stohr, now one of the leading stars on Television. Miss Stohr conducted most of the Times-News food demonstrations here since they were resumed after World War II.

In the July 28 issue of The New Yorker Miss Stohr was the subject of a review of Television programs. She is one of the most popular CBS home cooking demonstrators on TV.

"Miss Stohr has a pleasing voice," writes the commentator, "and the longer I listened the less eager I was to turn to something else—even visible."

The reason "listen" was emphasized was the failure of the reviewer's set to register the color transmission of Miss Stohr's assortment of red apples, orangey - yellow oranges, appetizingly brown pork chops and red barbecue sauce.

Regular attendants at the Times-News Cooking School each year can well imagine the attractive picture Miss Stohr makes on Television. She resigned early this year from the Chicago Live Stock and Meat Board to accept the television assignment with CBS.

Contracts have been signed and arrangements completed for the 1951 cooking school for Cumberland area homemakers. All expenses are paid by the Times-News as a public service, and admission to the four three-hour morning sessions at the Strand are free.

In addition to the valuable information imparted at the Tuesday-to-Friday school, there are approximately 20 awards daily for those who attend, in addition to 12 grand prizes on the final day. Baskets of groceries and the dishes prepared daily on the stage are given away by the newspaper sponsors.

Daily attendance at the cooking school sessions range from 1200 to 1600 women.

MOST LETHAL OF LEADS

AMONG all the devastating leads that can be made by a defender who holds most of the trumps which are out against the declarer, the most lethal is his long suit. By making the declarer consume his trumps with ruffs, the defender puts his own in position to take tricks, and at the same time keeps the declarer from ruffing up a side suit of his own or the dummy for the purpose of establishing it as a means of getting discards in still another suit.

This deal produced a spade game at most tables of a duplicate, due to the defense put up by South, who generally led the diamond Q. In all of these cases, East got the jump by winning the first trick with the diamond A, leading the diamond 3, which South ruffed, then losing to the heart A, ruffing the heart Q, taking out South's second trump with the K, giving up his third trick to South on another diamond lead with an over-ruff of the spade 9 by the 10, ruffing his own good heart J when the 10 was led back, removing South's last trump with the A, still retaining one trump. Next he led to the club A and used the diamond K to drop North's last card of that suit. On this he discarded a club, and he put another then on the diamond 9 to assure the contract, having lost only two tricks to South's trumps and one to the heart A.

The successful defender in the South opened the heart A, felling the K. The heart Q ruff made declarer use his first trump, the spade 5 lead to the K used his second and the diamond 2 was led to the A. Now the spade A consumed South's second trump and the spade J to the Q left South with one trump and East with two. The heart 10 was led to the J for a club discard by East and the diamond K was ruffed by South's final trump. He returned the heart 9, which East ruffed, but this left the declarer only one trump, not enough to ruff up his diamond suit. So he had to lose a club trick at the end and be down one.

What kind of play must South build to make a grand slam in No Trumps on this deal after the heart 10 is led?

Guest Pastor Preaches At Local Church

Rev. Claude R. MacDonald, pastor of the Pfafftown Christian Church, Winston-Salem, N. C., delivered the sermon at 8 o'clock yesterday evening at the First Christian Church, Bedford Street, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Edgar Gearhart.

Mr. MacDonald, a former Cumberland resident, together with his wife, are in the city for a few days visiting their parents while enroute to the New England states for their annual vacation. Mr. MacDonald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. MacDonald, Maryland Avenue, and Mrs. MacDonald is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Reckley, Bedford Road.

Fort Hill Reservoir Water Supply Low

The low water supply in Fort Hill reservoir was attributed Saturday night to "flushing of fire hydrants and cleaning fillers at the dam."

Water Superintendent Andrew G. Bender offered the explanation after several residents complained. Water in the reservoir had dropped to the midway mark.

Kimble Attends Pay Conference

State Senator Robert B. Kimble, of this county, attended a conference Saturday at the home of Senator Goldstein, Prince Frederick, Calvert County, to discuss the possibility of a pay increase for teachers from state funds. Those present in addition to the Cumberlander, were Speaker of the House of Delegates John H. Luber; State Superintendent of Schools Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., and David Zimmerman and John Seidel, members of Dr. Pullen's staff.

The state's failure to raise teachers salaries has caused a drop in teacher college enrollments and an increase in resignations by present teachers, Dr. Pullen told the legislators.

Pullen said the present $2,200 to $3,800 scale could be raised by a flat increase of $300 at an annual cost of $3,463,814 to the state. He said if a $400 hike is granted, the cost would be $5,164,689 annually.

Dr. Pullen suggested that a raise be granted, and also called for eight annual increases to teachers of $200 each instead of the present custom of granting 16 annual increases of $100 each.

Sen. Goldstein is chairman of a subcommittee of the Legislative Council to consider teacher pay increases. He said the subcommittee would have no comment until after a meeting with Governor McKeldin on Sept. 5. Senator Kimble said the committee must prepare a report before Oct. 15.

The world's first Christmas cards with religious designs were published in Belfast, Ireland, in 1875.

Refreshing Viewpoint

At a Stanford University conference, Prof. Allan Nevins of Columbia University predicted there will be a change in the interpretation of American economic history, with more appreciative treatment for "the heroes of our material growth — the Rockefellers, Carnegies, Hills and Morgans."

Historians, Professor Nevins continued, have been "apologetic about our dollars, our race to wealth, our materialism; they mentioned deprecatingly our worship of size and deplored our boastfulness about steel tonnage and wheat production. They spoke scornfully of the robber barons, who were not robber barons at all."

Professor Nevins' prophecy is significant, for what has been called the "masochistic school" of American history was born on the campus. There was some ground for criticism, but objectivity was always lacking. The historians confused the system with its abuses. They held that bigness was an evil in itself, ignoring its contributions to the nation's welfare, including the higher living standards which it made possible.

They ignored the courage, enterprise and broad vision with which the 19th Century built the industrial machine that is today the greatest bulwark of the nation's security.

A government which has incited suspicion and hatred of industrial leaders has found it necessary again and again to call them to manage the economy in wartime. Always they have responded patriotically, as they are responding now, and always they have accomplished miracles of production. Their skill and knowledge which are indispensable to the nation are always at its disposal.

Industrial development should be encouraged and its leaders, past and present, given credit for their achievements.

Fanning Inflation

There are many inconsistencies in government administration. Today, while urging people to refrain from needless spending and excessive borrowing to quell the inflationary flame, the government continues to fan that flame by new commitments by its credit lending and loan guaranteeing agencies.

In this critical period the lack of adequate fiscal control of these government corporate enterprises, as revealed by the Hoover Commission, should be a matter of serious concern. The commission found that not only was there confusion and duplication, but also unnecessary multiplication in their functions.

Worse still, some agencies were investing their surplus cash in government securities, thus compelling the government to pay interest on its own investment. The Hoover Commission's majority was led to the conclusion that direct lending by the government should be avoided except for emergencies on the ground that the practice opened up "dangerous possibilities of waste and favoritism" as well as inviting "political pressure or even corruption."

Subsequent disclosures about Reconstruction Finance Corporation lending by the Fulbright investigating committee sustained this report. As a result the pending Fulbright bill authorizes appropriations to a revolving fund for the RFC in place of its present authority to borrow from Treasury public debt receipts which are funds obtained in financing operations rather than from taxation. The menace of inflation makes the need of this method, applied to all similar agencies, more pressing than ever.

A comprehensive analysis of the situation has been supplied by the Tax Foundation of New York. Emphasizing the importance of placing the agencies under more effective budgetary control, the analysis shows that authorizations to spend from public debt receipts total nearly $20,000,000,000. And this in a period of boom economic activity.

The foundation logically contends that the restrictive policies imposed on private credit should be imposed on public credit.

Not The Full Solution

The beginning war on the drug evil, quickening on state and local fronts, is at last receiving notice in Congress. A series of bills has been introduced, nearly all directed to solving the problem by increasing prison penalties.

One measure, product of the Senate crime investigation, would impose mandatory sentences of 20 years to life in all cases involving sales to youths under 17 years. Other bills affecting sentences are pending. There is a bill, dedicated to better enforcement, which would post a reward of $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of peddlers.

Stiffer and firmer sentences for the ringleaders are surely indicated. It is to be hoped, however, that Congress will not stop there. That is a beginning, not an end.

The Federal Narcotics Bureau, which has only 180 officers, needs additional personnel. Expanded facilities for the care and treatment of narcotics addicts are required. Aid to local authorities, in their own communities, is essential.

As it is now, narcotics addicts, after imprisonment, are turned loose to return to their former environments, without a job, without helpful advice and interest, without hope.

Relief Roll Publicity

The distribution of welfare funds in this country has been accompanied by so much fakery and downright crookedness that several states want to make public the names of persons on relief. It is proper, they contend, that they should be able to check expenditures for old age assistance in the same way they now check other disbursements.

Under the present federal law, publication of relief rolls is not expressly forbidden. Still it amounts to that, inasmuch as any state which engages in the practice will lose its share of the sizable contribution which the federal government makes for this purpose every year.

But if the House of Representatives passes a bill already approved by the Senate the various states will have some discretion in the matter. Thus there will be restored to them their traditional right to determine whether the money entrusted to them by their taxpayers is being properly spent.

Nor are individual chiselers exclusively to blame. The responsibility for the present situation must be shared by those welfare agencies—federal as well as state—which have been more interested in giving away money than in seeing that it goes only to persons entitled to it.

Latest complaint concerning current literature concerns format. Covers of books are too far apart, it is alleged.

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Trench Mouth, Or Vincent's Infection

Penicillin has knocked trench mouth (Vincent's infection) from the list of unpleasant diseases. The wonder drug has not eliminated it, but when the lesions appear they cause less concern than in the past.

The disease was prevalent among soldiers in the trenches in World War I, hence the name. Two organisms predominate, the Bacillus fusiformis and the Borrelia vincentii. The resulting infection is more severe and painful than those caused by the streptococcus or staphylococcus. When they get the upper hand and invade the gums the affected site becomes red and puffy. As inflamation increases, ulcers form that are covered with a grayish membrane. These lesions have a punched out appearance and bleed easily on slight pressure or irritation. The gums are so tender that the victim finds it difficult to chew or even to swallow. Salivation increases and the breath becomes offensive.

The disease is not always confined to the gums; it may spread to the tonsils and produce tonsilitis or to the vocal cords, with ensuing hoarseness. Now and then the organisms even reach the bronchi resulting in an irritating cough. Many victims develop fever and headache and feel as ill as tho they had a strep throat.

The condition is most likely to attack individuals whose general resistance has been lowered thru illness, stress, or dissipation. Poor oral hygiene, inadequate diet, and vitamin deficiencies can do the same. Smoking also may play a role by lowering the resistance of the oral tissues. The organisms frequently are present in healthy individuals but they do no damage until resistance is decreased. Occasionally the infection occurs in epidemic proportions; in such cases it is contagious and is transmitted thru contaminated eating utensils, glassware, and towels. Epidemics of this nature appear in institutions and army barracks where the quarters are crowded.

Penicillin usually cleans up the lesions within 12 to 48 hours. It can be used locally in the form of a mouth wash, spray, or lozenge. Some physicians inject the wonder drug into an arm or leg, especially in more severe cases. When this is done, it is absorbed into the blood stream to combat the disease from within. In addition to these methods the remedy also is applied directly to the lesions via an applicator. But penicillin is not the only antibiotic that works, and more recently others have been used successfully.

Additional measures include mouth washes of sodium perborate, hydrogen peroxide, and normal saline solution. Good oral hygiene, and maintaining the health at par are essential to prevent recurrences. Any existing dental defects should receive attention.

TOMORROW: Man's search for nutrition is discussed by Dr. Van Dellen.

ROUGH SKIN

Mrs. D. Writes: "My husband and son have areas on the skin that are rough and feel like sandpaper. Is there any cure for this ugly condition?

REPLY

Olive oil or lanolin cream often gives temporary relief. A thorough examination is indicated because in some instances a deficiency of vitamin A or thyroid is responsible.

FROZEN JUICE

Mrs. L. writes: Does frozen concentrated orange juice contain as much vitamin C as fresh oranges?

REPLY

Yes. The vitamin C content will vary, as it does in fresh fruit, depending upon the soil in the area where the oranges are grown, their ripeness, and other factors. The containers should be properly refrigerated after purchasing and used soon after being poured into an open container.

CHAFING

Mrs. F. writes: I am overweight and suffer from chafing as soon as warm weather appears. What can I do?

REPLY

Obesity encourages the condition. Why not try to reduce? Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on relief measures in chafing.

Rh NEGATIVE

Mrs. Z. writes: Tests show that my blood is Rh negative. Could this blood type account for the fact that I'm cold all the time?

REPLY

No, because "negative" does not mean that you lack "warm cells." The test refers to the presence or absence of the Rhesus factor in the blood.

HAIR LOSS

Mrs. L. writes: I am a woman of 82 and used to have a thick head of hair but am losing it fast. Is there something wrong?

REPLY

This occurs from time to time in the elderly. The cause is not known. Now you can appreciate how men feel if the tresses begin to fall when scarcely out of their teens.

Russian Bear Has Swallowed Too Much — Can't Absorb Satellites; Western Propaganda Needed More Than Ever To Encourage Peoples Behind Iron Curtain

NEAR THE IRON CURTAIN, IN CENTRAL EUROPE—If there was ever a time when propaganda was needed to encourage and stimulate the people behind the iron curtain, now is it.

Already the people of the satellite countries and even many in Russia proper are tron by doubt and dissension and distrust. Their restlessness had been churning for some time but now it's near the boiling point.

All clues I have been able to pick up from the underground and from intelligence reports convince me that the Russian Bear has swallowed too much and will have to regurgitate. A bear that's suffering from acute indigestion is not usually belligerent and it may be that additional propaganda barrages by balloons, the Voice of America and every other device possible could help increase that sickness and tip the scales for peace.

Furthermore, messages of friendship and encouragement to the people behind the iron curtain at this time can help produce another Tito in Poland, Czechoslovakia or Hungary. That, of course, is what Stalin fears most.

There have been reports in previous years of trouble behind the iron curtain, but never as many as now. Two hundred Communist leaders in Bulgaria are reported under arrest; 22 Soviet generals and high Soviet officials have died mysteriously in the last seven months; four Czech generals have been arrested or committed suicide in six months; nine of the highest officers in the Polish army were tried for treason; 12 Polish seamen on a minesweeper mutinied, locked up their officers, and deserted to Sweden; four young Pols fled to Sweden in a stolen bullet-riddled airplane; three Lithuanians locked up other crew members on a Russian trawler and escaped.

Why People Rebel

This throbbing unrest inside the iron curtain has been caused in part by Soviet war preparations which have been going on for some time. When a government takes too much of the necessities of life—food, fuel, consumer goods—away from its people they rebel. When a Polish miner who hates Russia anyway is ordered to work harder to produce war material for communism, he gets restless. Likewise with the Czech uranium miner and the Hungarian farmer who never did like collective farming.

No nation in its right mind — though dictators seldom are in their right minds—makes war when the civilian population behind the lines is certain to rise up against the government. That's why the unrest behind the iron curtain is so important. To illustrate the seriousness of this situation and the importance of intensifying our propaganda, here is a brief summary of the best underground reports I can get of what is happening behind the curtain:

CZECHOSLOVAKIA—The Czechs have now recovered from the stunned apathy which followd the initial seizure of their country by Moscow and are beginning to get their courage back. A serious food shortage, blamed on the Russians, is partly responsible. On top of this the Voice of America, which predicted the arrest of Foreign Minister Vladimir Clementis and four other Czechs had its effect. Finally, Radio Free Europe has sent such devastating barrages of propaganda into Czechoslovakia that the Czech government has demanded that Radio Free Europe be taken off the air.

Kremlin Suspicions Increasing

POLAND — Resentment against Moscow is so serious that Vyacheslav Molotov, now the No. 2 man to Stalin and seldom seen in public, made a special trip to Warsaw to warn the Poles against following Tito. The importance of this warning is shown by the fact that Marshal Grigori Zhukov, hero of Berlin, and Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, military ruler of Poland, appeared with Molotov on the same platform. Behind this warning was the fact that the railroad between Berlin and Moscow is sabotaged so frequently that repair crews are kept busy night and day. Production is dropping. The Catholic church is leading a potent underground and Kremlin has become so suspicious of top Polish generals that nine of them have now been tried.

"Ulcer" To Cominform

BULGARIA — A peasant revolt has held up delivery of wheat to Russia and brought a battery of Soviet officials hurrying into Sofia. About 15,000 have been added to the 30,000 already in concentration camps, while treason trials have shown that the Agrarian (or peasant) party, once the strongest in Bulgaria, now operates a powerful underground. Agrarian leaders have encouraged the peasants to withhold crops and join guerrilla units in the mountains so successfully that the official cominform newspaper called Bulgaria an "ulcer" and criticized Premier Chervenkov for allowing the unrest to spread.

ROUMANIA—Minister of National Defense Emil Bodnaras has been arrested and there have been mass evacuations of those suspected of disloyalty to Moscow.

HUNGARY — Deportation of thousands of Hungarian peasants to concentration camps to face slavery and death have been recently denounced by U. S. Secretary of State Acheson. The leader of these mass arrests is Bela Szanto, Moscow-trained Hungarian especially sent to do the job. Szanto is a ruthless butcher who has already jailed 70,000 peasants because they have held back their grain or refused to collectivize their farms.

EAST GERMANY—Moscow's efforts to build a Communist German army have been partly frustrated by the desertion of officers of the "people's police" to Western Germany. Three separate undergrounds operate among the Russian and Red army personnel inside Germany.

College Scholarships

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 12—I have recently received from a devoted father the copy of a letter which he wrote his son on graduation. In it he says:

Lincolns vs. Land

"Mother and I are proud of the record you made in school and college, especially by your continued faith in God and constant association with the church and the things it stands for. Now I have been thinking of what to give you as a graduation present. Mother wants me to give you a fine Lincoln convertible car; but I just don't feel it is right to do so.

"Hence, instead of giving you the car, I am enclosing a deed to 40 acres of good land worth three times the cost of the car. Land and labor are the basis of all wealth, especially in this day of inflation. Land is more desirable than money. Land will keep getting more valuable if you give it half the attention you would give a car. If you take care of the land, son, it will take care of you. I cannot object to your having a Lincoln, as I have two; but I earned the money with which I bought mine and I want you to do likewise."

Present Unfair Conditions

During the summer I have talked with several high school principals. They tell me that some of their highest and hardest working students have not the money to go to college. They can get partial scholarships, but unless they can live at home, they just can't swing it. On the other hand, students who are much less deserving go to college with an automobile and a big spending allowance.

Large corporations which send their employment managers to the colleges to hire the "best graduates" would do far better to go to the high schools and select their students by their high school record and then help finance these students through college. These corporations are now doing their picking four years late!

Importance of Summer Work

Of one thing I am certain—namely, that how high school students use their summers is of great importance. I have about come to the conslusion that I will employ only those who have worked every summer during high school and college.

Those who have earned at least half their college tuition and board are to be preferred. The best young people to hire are those who have earned their entire way through college, with the help of scholarships and summer work.

A person can do too much for his children or grandchildren. Unless a young person has learned to love work, something is wrong. It may have been careless school or home training, or giving the boy or girl too much money. Certainly more high school young people are harmed by having too much money, rather than too little money.

It is easier for a parent with money to say "yes" rather than refuse; but isn't this pure selfishness on the part of the parent or grandparent? Simetimes I think that families lacking money are more fortunate than those possessing it. Certainly this whole educational and home training problem is topsy-turvy.

Helping The Worthy

The best way to help young people is to give them opportunities to work and earn money. If they stick to the job—or themselves find a better one—then they will come out okay. I sometimes think a young person will do better in a job which he or she finds without family help. But idleness is dangerous to all concerned.

Next to giving young people good opportunities to work, perhaps the best way to help them is to say to the high school principal: I want to help some worthy student who is anxious to go to college but who must help his family and hence thinks he can't do so." Let me add that I, myself, would like to so help two or three such students who would immediately write me.

What About Trust Funds?

I believe in trust funds for children and grandchildren; but they should serve as insurance in case of sickness, old-age or hard luck. They should not result in making it unnecessary for the beneficiary to work, save and be a useful citizen. The love of work is a blessing.

Instead of arranging for the young person to get all the income when 26 years of age—it may be better to make him co-trustee with the bank but to move the 26 years up to 40 years. Trustees, however, should have power to use part of the accumulated income to help in case of need.

NOTE: I apologize for a mistake made in my release of July 8 on taxation. I should have said the Revenue Act of 1948—allows a marital deduction of 50 percent of the adjusted gross estate provided that much or more goes to the surviving spouse. This 50 percent would include life insurance which, although it pasees by contract rather than by will, is now viewed by the Internal Revenue Bureau as being part of the decedent's estate for estate tax purposes when the insured has paid the premiums, owns the policies and the other prescribed requirements which I mentioned have been fulfilled. In other words, I understand that the $40,000 limitation has temporarily been removed. R. W. B.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Which Way For Stalin?

WASHINGTON

There is a key to the mind of Joseph Stalin. For, if the past is any guide to the present and future, the voluminous writings of Stalin and his predecessor Lenin reflect the motives and intentions of Stalin quite as accurately as "Mein Kampf" did in Hitler's case. In the following imaginary address by Stalin to the Politburo, some of the words are Stalin's own words, or the words of Lenin quoted with approval by Stalin.

"Comrades. It has been whispered that the war in Korea was an error. This is counter-revolutionary infantilism. It is true that it has been necessary to liquidate those enemies of the people, the agents who reported that the American imperialists would not strongly react. Yet these are the checks which we must expect in the world-wide war in which we are engaged, a war which is a hundred times more difficult, prolonged, and complicated than the most stubborn of ordinary wars between states.

"Now, however, the time has come to reconsider our situation. We must remember that we live at all times but a hair's breadth from intervention by the imperialists. We of course know that it is inconceivable that the Soviet Republic should continue to exist for a long period side by side with the imperialist states. Ultimately one or the other must conquer.

Must Assure Victory

"The imperialists are now preparing a predatory alliance, led by the United States. As is well known, when it becomes sufficiently strong, this predatory alliance will fly at the throat of the first socialist state. In this situation, our aims are clear. Our ultimate aim must be, as always, all power to the Soviets. But first, the defense of the Soviet Union must be considered paramount—at any price, the victory of the Red Army over the armies of the imperialists must be assured.

"This can be assured in only one way, by breaking up the imperialist alliance. But in order to do this, we must make a choice. For this is a time when history confronts us with the necessity of deciding whether to take the direct or zigzag path.

"The nature of the direct path, the path of the direct frontal attack, is clear. One way to take the direct path, for example, would be to order now the liquidation of the fascist mercenary Tito by the armies of the peace-loving Peoples' Democracies, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria. If brought to a successful conclusion, such a direct frontal attack will cause the imperialist predatory alliance to disintegrate.

"Yet the danger here is evident. As is well known, the liberation of Yugoslavia, or other direct action, might cause the American ruling clique to unleash a new war. One can succeed by the direct frontal attack, only when one enjoys an overwhelming superiority of force. We must carefully consider whether we now enjoy such a superiority.

Zigzag Path Clear

"It is true, comrades, that the glorious peace-loving Red Army can smash the aggressor armies of the imperialist lackey Eisenhower into a thousand pieces. Yet our stocks of peoples' democratic atomic bombs are still comparatively low. Moreover, the iron discipline necessary for the dictatorship of the Proletariat has not been even yet fully imposed on the peoples' democracies, most notably in the case of China.

"For such reasons, we must ask ourselves whether for a time it will not be well to take the zigzag path. For, although Marxism energetically resists compromises, Marxism deems it necessary to resort to compromise . . . when the new is not yet strong enough to overthrow the old and when forces are inadequate, detours, waiting periods, zigzags, retreats . . . may be necessary.

"The way of the zigzag path is also clear. First, it will be necessary to liquidate the war in Korea, even should this cause difficulties with that devious, sly—I mean with our great peace-loving comrade, Mao Tse-tung. We must then greatly strengthen the peace offensive, while I shall again find an opportunity to stress the exportable doctrine of peaceful co-existence. Finally, we must by every means 'exacerbate the struggle between the ruling cliques of powers in the imperialist camp,' as Comrade Molotov aptly said at Warsaw, in order to cause the disintegration of the imperialist alliance. Yet here too, the danger is evident—that despite all our efforts, the disintegration of the imperialist alliance will not result.

"So, comrades, which is it to be? The direct path? Or the zigzag path?"

That Stalin and the men in the Kremlin are thinking in some such way is as sure as that the leopard has spots. It may be, of course, that they will make no clearcut choice, taking, as so often before, both paths at once. Yet we should quite soon have a very good idea of the general direction of the Kremlin's decision. For the outcome of the truce talks in Korea should provide solid evidence whether the Kremlin is to take the direct path—which will almost surely lead to war—or the zigzag path—which may lead to a precarious, but lasting state of not-war-not-peace.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Heart Of The Problem

In all the discussion of the West Point scandal, the emphasis lies on the immediate, on the young men, who are often euphemistically called boys, on the officers, on the parents. Many say, "boys will be boys," which is biologically correct until boys become men with the obligations and responsibilities of men.

Others feel that football players have to do so much practice that they cannot keep up with their work unless they are "assisted." And nothing is being said about the cadets who have not cheated.

The real issue is the nature and purpose of a college, university or other school, and of such special schools as West Point and Annapolis. This issue has, more or less, been dodged by many educators as well as parents, since it has become increasingly popular for young men and women to go to schools of higher education and special training whether they have an aptitude for scholarship or not.

The question then arises whether students attend to broaden their minds and spirits or to make friends or to mark time or to play what has come to be professional or semi-professional sports. When scholarships are given to men and women because of their excellence as students, the reward is in the field to which the universities have been devoted since the founding of Bologna in the 11th Century.

The athletic scholarship is a fee paid for special services rendered outside of scholarship. The object is to make money for the school, to attract box office receipts, to advertise the institution. It is strictly a business proposition and those to whom the fees are paid are professional performers—in whole or in part—depending upon the individual and the school.

Sometimes such paid performers are also capable of scholarship; often scholarship is not only foreign but offensive to them. In the latter instance, if they are good enough performers to be of commercial value, they are "assisted" to pass examinations so that they may comply with rules and regulations.

At such a school as West Point, this raises three important issues:

1. Under the honor system, the individual who "assists," the individual who is "assisted," and anyone who knows about it is honor bound to report the fact. West Point is a free school, the tuition, board, lodging, uniforms and other expenses being paid by the taxpayer. Also, the students are soldiers in the army, drawing pay. They are especially bound by rules and regulations in compliance with which they receive these benefits from the taxpayers.

2. These men are to be our generals of the future upon whom the survival of the nation depends. The United States makes a huge investment in each one of them, not only to be "educated," as you and I might have been at college, but to protect, defend and safeguard the nation and the Constitution. They are men apart, whose word must be inviolate for the safety of the nation. Therefore, the word, honor, must have, for them, a special and emphatic meaning.

3. The standing of a West Point man is not only a matter of personal pride; it is a matter of record, upon which an officer's career may depend. Even now, 48 years after his graduation, the fact that General Douglas MacArthur stood first in his class is significant.

If cadets are "assisted" the record is inaccurate. That assistance, on the other hand, may result in better men being kept lower on the list because they do not play football. It means that the standing of these soldiers and gentlemen is false. If the West Point records are falsified, we do not know any longer what kind of officer material is coming out of that school; we have no measure to decide whether it is safe to entrust them with the responsibilities for which they receive special training at the taxpayers' expense.

This, it seems to me, is the heart of the problem. A full and serious congressional investigation needs to be made of the entire situation, in a broad spirit, without regard to individuals.

West Point is either a school for military officers and gentlemen or it is a show place which Billy Rose might manage and save the taxpayer the cost. And these criteria could with advantage be applied to many prep schools, colleges, and universities. Perhaps some day, in their search for advertising methods, to raise funds, or to attract attention, schools will hire a corps of showgirls to put on an exhibition of slightly clothed pulchritude. But that is not education.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

More Dead People

One nice thing about the supernatural. It gives a writer scope. The normal inconvenient requirements of time, space and plausibility are suspended when a writer starts monkeying around with spectres.

John Crosby

That, I suppose, is why the supernatural is so popular on television—popular, that is, with the people who turn the stuff out, not necessarily popular with me.

There is the young couple — you must have encountered them at some time or other — who find themselves unexpectedly wandering through the woods and come upon a cabin where a wondrously wise old man utters cryptic observations about the hereafter. It's only after 10 minutes of this that the young people realize they are dead. I had rather suspected it from the outset, having seen more television than they have.

• — • — •

The supernatural drama has already been subdivided into certain definite types. One type is what I like to think of as the Ancient Curse story. A married couple are marooned in the old lighthouse and the aged lady, who has tended the place since her husband fell at Waterloo, tells them about the old bell in the belfry. When it rings, vengeance strikes. Sure enough, the wife, who plans to murder her husband, is struck down by the old bell just after she massacres the old boy. The moment the television camera enters an old house, I know an Ancient Curse is lying around somewhere like a coiled spring, that it will explode in somebody's face just in time for the closing commercial.

Then there is the philosophical type supernatural, an excellent example of which was on Cameo Theater, you should know, is a dramatic program (NBC-TV, 8 p. m. EDT Mondays) which dispenses with sets almost entirely and in this case came close to dispensing with a story, too. On this one, a woman tracked down her husband who had been declared dead seven or eight years earlier. He had, it developd, falled victim to philosophy. That's a terrible addiction, philosophy, 10 times worse—as far as wives are concerned — than heroin.

"I have learned the dualism of reality," he said dreamily. Every time he walked through a door, he declared, he remembered, by some process of association which eludes me, that the earth was at that very moment spinning at the rate of 33,000 miles an hour (or whatever it is) that only a few people like Einstein, Sir James Jeans, and Arthur Eddington felt this way about opening doors, and that, anyhow, this philosophy didn't leave space for such mundane things as wives. The wife considered this insufficient grounds for desertion — I'm afraid I agree — and shot him three times. The bullets just passed through him or missed him or something because he said, "Good night, Janet" and went through the door, thinking — I suppose — about the earth spinning so fast, about the dualism of reality and possibly about the electronic composition of door handles.

I never quite figured out whether this philosopher of the open door was alive or dead or whether philosophy made him bulletproof or just what the score was. I doubt that the author did either. As is said earlier, you don't have to explain things very closely in these mystical dramas. The author can circumvent explanation neatly by muttering about the timelessness of eternity.

It's downright unsettling to a man like myself who has always believed that bullets can be homicidal. In a recent "Lights Out" drama, a berserk Army veteran mowed down three people—two men and a woman—who, he explained hysterically, had been trying to kill him for six years. They were three ex-Nazis, who should have been dead for six years, but sure enough, they showed up at the end disguised as doctors and a nurse, hovering over an operation table. Presumably they finally finished the poor veteran off. But, the way I figure it, he'll be back, the veteran, pumping more useless bullets into the three dead Nazis and they'll retaliate by encasing him in cement and dumping him in the East River and so on into the timelessness of eternity.

• — • — •

Things were much easier in the Type supernatural fiction. Dracula was as dead as all thesec haracters, but he was disposed of finally and forever with a stake through his heart. These temporary dead guys never know when to lie down.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

F Q U C I Z X R H Y O V R C C R L V R O C Z F R A
C Q U X C Q U C Z M U O P Q Z Z T V Z H'O C Y K?

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

What Would You Have Done?

"I want to ask you a question," said the man to the banker. "It has to do with ethics."

"You have come to the right place," he answered.

"The father of a friend of mine died recently, and two brothers were the principal heirs. After a while, they went to his office where there was an old-fashioned safe. They began to go through the contents—memoranda made years ago, an old watch, and worthless papers. These were being thrown in the waste basket. Down near the bottom was a dusty package wrapped in newspapers, held together by elastic bands. It started to follow the rest of the junk, when one of them stopped and opened it. Then his eyes bulged.

"The contents were greenbacks, and these added up to $13,000. The question is, what should my friend have done?"

"Was his brother with him?" asked the banker. "If he was, they could have divided it up and put the money in their pockets. If not—" he winked.

"One was a lawyer and insisted they call the bank to send a mensenger to deposit it as part of the estate."

"Of course, that was right, especially if the deposit had gone in our bank, but the situation would be mighty tempting to less honorable men, considering the present inheritance taxes," he concluded.

"I once asked Montague Glass what his favorite story was. He said it was about the boy who was learning ethics in school.

"'So they teach that now, do they?' asked his father. 'We used to have to learn the hard way. A customer came in our clothing store to buy a suit of clothes when $20 would get you one. He tried on several and finally found one which fitted. He reached in his wallet and handed me a $20 bill. As he was going out the door, I discovered there were two twenties stuck together. Now that's where ethics came in. The question was, should I tell my partner?'"

Ernest Cuneo contributed the following:

The term horse trader has long been one indicating the acme of American shrewdness and sometimes doubt has been expressed whether the reputation was justly earned. A classic story originated in Utica almost a hundred years ago. The local doctor had a great trotting mare which the town's David Harum pestered him to sell. She was famous, and her owner was very proud of her so for years there was no deal. But one cold January morning the two men met in the street, and the dealer was amazed when his offer was accepted.

"As is," said the doctor. "One thousand dollars down, and you take delivery at the stable.

The man peeled off $1,000 and rushed to the barn. There was the poor mare "as is" — not "as was" — stone dead. Undismayed he got in his buggy and headed out of town for Syracuse, where he broke into a poker game of the local sports.

"All of you know the doctor's horse," he said. "This is my offer. Each of you seven men put up $250, draw, and high card gets her."

The mare being famous, $1,750 was instantly in the pool. The winner drove off to Utica with the trader to find the horse still dead.

"But," he said, "I am not the man to cheat you. Here's the $250 back you paid for the draw."

He had cleaned up $500. So that ends this essay on ethics.

Never let complacency rob you of your store of charm! It can't if you follow this program!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

There's nothing petty about the larceny committed by self-complacency. What it steals is your personal appeal. And the worst of it is the insidiousness with which your store of charm is taken away. Bit by bit, one thing disappears. You scarcely notice the absence of the first few—but when you wake up to what has happened, the task of replacement seems more than you can face.

Complacency at Work

Perhaps one day you notice a chipped nail, just before you are leaving the house. "Oh, what's the difference, no one's going to notice it," your complacency whispers. Soon, you are the one who doesn't notice—and then you are going out with chipped nails most of the time. The same thing happens with other details of grooming; your clothes lose their fastidiously cared-for look and, as your interest in your appearance slides, your posture slumps a bit—and then a bit more. Before you know it, although others do, your face acquires a bored and discontented expression. And your charm . . . where is it?

Your charm needs policing just as do any of your other precious possessions. On your daily check list should be such items as bath, deodorant, dental duty, skin and hair care, nails, meticulous make-up; cultivation of the Powers Girl posture; alertness for crooked stocking seams—and a crooked smile, too. You can fill out the rest of the list easily.

On your weekly charm patrol, there's a shampoo, de-fuzzing, manicure, clothes refurbishing; the straightening of your purses, bureau drawers, closets, and the cleasing of your cosmetic containers; the shining and polishing of shoes.

On Charm Duty

For monthly, bi-yearly and yearly chores, there are such items as hair cutting dates; permanents; medical and dental check-ups; seasonal wardrobe purchases carrying out your detailed plan; the completion of old projects and the finding of new ones to keep you an interesting and interested person.

With such a schedule, there'll be no pilfering of your charm! Your eyes will be wide open every minute. What happens to your personality and appearance will always be strictly under your control!

P. S. from J. R. P.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS
(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12 (INS) — Louis B. Mayer, just back from Kentucky and New York, is staying in film production. L. B. has turned down the one hundred million dollar bank roll offered by his friend, Walter P. Chrysler, and other eastern industrialists, to head a films-for-television company.

LOUIS B. MAYER

I talked with the man whose long leadership in films won him the title of Mr. Motion Pictures the day he flew home from New York.

He said, "I've turned a deaf ear to all offers to produce for television. Pictures are my real interest"—and he added that no amount of money can tempt him away now, or in the near future.

He didn't, however, deny that the oil deal in which he is interested with big easterners, is booming. He says the New Mexico field is coming in bigger than the great oil fields of Texas.

The highest sum ever paid by TV —$50,000—goes to Irving Berlin for an hour show channeled by NBC, "Salute To Irving Berlin," September 12. Berlin is giving the entire fifty G's to the Boy Scouts of America.

Star singer of all the wonderful Berlin tunes will be Tony Martin. Margaret Truman closes the big hour with "God Bless America."

It's a big feather in Tony's already feathered cap that Irving chose him to sing his best beloved melodies plus a brand-new, never before heard song Irving is composing just for Martin.

Pretty swell of Peter Lawford to fly to Molokai from Honolulu and visit the children in the leper colony there.

Pete's island hostess, Mrs. Ronald Balcom, writes a friend in Hollywood, "the children knew Peter from reading the movie magazines. They get to see few pictures and usually they are old ones. But they love the movie books. Peter took with him some small shell bracelets for the little girls and some box cameras for the boys.

"His visit so deeply impressed him that he will make another trip to the colony before leaving for England this week."

The most "human" plot I've heard in a long time is "The Girl Who Couldn't Help It" which Producer Robert Bassler is readying for Mitzi Gaynor at 20th.

It's about a trim, streamlined girl who faithfully promises her G. I. sweetheart to wait for him. But, instead of pining away during the two years he's away, she eats like a horse.

When the boy friend returns he loses interest in the doll who has turned into a baby truck. How she diets in an attempt to win him back from blonde competition should strike home to many plump belles.

Hollywood in shorts:

Rita Hayworth meets the press this week and you can bet your life the biggest question she will have to answer is whether or not she is giving up the Moslem religion.

Following a collapse a few days ago, Valentina Cortesa has been ordered to bed until her baby is born in December. Olivia De Havilland was in bed seven months before the birth of her son.

Bob Hope, vacationing in Tahoe, coasted down the hill to Reno for Frank Sinatra's show at the Riverside Casino.

Dorothy Parker is out of the hospital following a freak accident. She had eight stitches taken in her forehead after tripping over her pooch. And for the first time in her life — no wisecracks.

Joan Crawford had the girls wondering at her courage in wearing a chic orange-colored dress with her red hair. On her it looked great — but I wouldn't try it, sister. Joan's luncheon date was her business manager, Myrt Blum.

Spencer Tracy staggering the room service at his Paris hotel by ordering quarts of milk in a champagne cooler! Spence's diet calls for lots of milk and he can't drink it unless it's freezing cold.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Carl Wilfong, big righthander, pitched the Keyser Firemen into possession of first place in the Bi-State Baseball League yesterday when he turned back the Frostburg Demons with five hits, struck out four and posted his 11th consecutive triumph of the season. The score was 4-1.

Frostburg's lone tally came in the eighth frame and it was unearned, giving Wilfong a total of 32 consecutive innings in which he has failed to yield an earned run. The Keyser ace's record for the season is 11 wins, three losses.

Rotruck and Kuhn shared four of Keyser's eight hits and Bill See rapped a three-bagger. Langan's triple, Drew's double and two singles by Lou Baker were among Frostburg's five safeties.

At Lonaconing, Westvaco's Papermakers walloped a patched-up Lonaconing team by the score of 12-1. The win enabled Westvaco to tie Frostburg for the runner-up spot, one full game back of Keyser.

Manager Frank Patrone and Leo Ryan banged a double and single each while Tysinger smacked a pair of singles to head the Westvaco swatsmiths. Woody Woodson was in top form and shut out 'Coney until the 8th when Love doubled and scored on Curt Johnson's single. The Westvaco hurler struck out eight and gave up only five hits.

Aside from his two homers, Campy contributed a single to Brooklyn's nine-hit attack on Johnny Sain and Bob Chipman.

Darwin Cooper Cops 75th Heat Before 80,000

14th Winner At Akron Is From Williamsport, Gary, Ind., Boy 2nd

AKRON, O., Aug. 12 (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Darwin Cooper, representing Williamsport, Pa., whistled down the All-American Soapbox Derby course in his sleek black racer No. 137 today to win the 14th running of the classic at Derby Downs.

He bested 140 competitors from the United States, Canada, Alaska and the U. S. Occupation Zone of Germany. His prize is a $5,000 college scholarship at the school of his choice. About 80,000 fans saw the event.

Second place, with a prize of a new automobile, went to Raymond Marconi, 12, of Gary, Ind.

Third and last in the final, 75th heat was Paul F. Albreight of Jefferson City, Mo.

In the heat to determine the next three places, the order of finish was James Gray of Columbus, Ga., William E. Herget of Akron, O., and Ferdinand Funke of Evansville, Ind.

Cooper's time in the final heat was 27.97 seconds.

It was the first time a Pennsylvania entry had won the grand prize. The boy lives in Danville, but raced and won the area championship at Williamsport, under the sponsorship of the Sun-Gazette. He is the fourth Danville boy to represent Williamsport in the All-American.

Wilbur Shaw Collapses

Wilbur Shaw, 48, Indianapolis speedway official, was to have served as referee for today's races, but he suffered a heart attack and was taken to city hospital in a serious condition.

Shaw ran up the green-painted racing strip, 975.4 feet long, to board an automobile for the pre-race parade, and collapsed.

The winner, a freshman at Danville High School, is a tall, thin lad, serious and quiet. He is the eldest of four children of steelworker William Cooper, an employe of the Kennedy Van Saun Mfg. Co. in Danville.

Last year a cousin, Donald Alter, placed second in the All-American.

All the excited champion could say after his victory was "thanks—I'm glad I won. I sure put a lot of work in on my car."

Winner's Best Time 27.9

Cooper's best time in the racer he took three months to build was 27.9 seconds in a first-round victory over Jerry Devault of Indianapolis and Alberto Martinez of Laredo, Tex. That was the second fastest time of the day.

The speed mark for the afternoon was 27.83 seconds posted by Thomas R. Gore of Atlanta in the second round. Cooper's time in the second round was 28.05 as he won over George Short of Pittsburgh and Bruce Steve of Ithaca, N. Y.

In the third round Gore finished third in a heat that Cooper took in 27.91, and in the fourth round, Cooper made it in 27.92 over young Gray from Georgia.

Hogan's 15-Under-Par 273 Earns $12,500 Golf Prize

Demaret's 276 2nd; Babe Zaharias Wins 4th "World" Tourney

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP)—Indomitable Ben Hogan, finishing the pressure-packed last round with a pair of dazzling 33's for 66 and a 15-under-par 273 for 72 holes, today bagged golf's biggest money award, $12,500, and the Tam O'Shanter "world" title.

Ben Hogan

Hogan, who boosted his winnings in five official tournaments this season to $20,400, trailed Jimmy Demaret, the 54-hole leader by five strokes entering the last round.

But his brilliant 33 wiped out four of the debits at 63 holes when Demaret wilted to a 37 on the first nine.

Demaret Collects $5,000

Demaret required another 37 to get home for a 74 and a 276 total. The colorful Ojai, Calif., pro who had been in the lead through the first three rounds, wound up second to collect $5,000.

Pete Cooper, the perennial contender from White Plains, N. Y., banged a final 69 while Bobby Locke and his newly-found putting touch added 70, each to finish at 277 and win $2,750

Lawson Little of Pebble Beach, Calif., fashioned his third straight 70 for 278 to be locked in that bracket with Clayton Heafner, the big Charlotte, N. C., veteran who once again was a victim of last-round jitters and soared to 73. Each earned $2,100.

Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, who won the Tam All-American crown last week, reeled off a respectable pair of 35's for 279 and seventh place. His swag was $1,800.

Grouped at 280, worth $1,650 for each, were Sam Snead and Lloyd Mangrum. Both took closing 73's.

Hogan ended officially his tournament golfing for the season.

"My next meet will be the Master's next April," said Ben, who celebrates his 39th birthday tomorrow. "I'm going home to Fort Worth with Val (his wife) tomorrow. Might

Yanks Blasted From Top Rung By Athletics

Philadelphia Halts Morgan In 1st, 9-5; Bags Nightcap, 7-4

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Pennsylvania curfew that prevents Sunday games from continuing after 5.59 p. m. (EST) erased a five-run New York Yankee rally in the eighth inning and allowed the Philadelphia Athletics to score a 7 to 4 win in the second game of a twin bill. The lowly Athletics also won the opener, 9 to 5 as they sent the Yanks reeling into second place 1½ games behind the Cleveland Indians.

The nightcap ended in rain and darkness and amid a welter of confusion as the Athletics appeared to be stalling and the Yankees appeared to be trying to hurry the game along. The top of the eighth inning took 22 minutes with the Bronx Bombers sending nine men to the plate and the A's using four pitchers.

It was indeed a dark, dismal day for the proud New Yorkers as the Athletics ended rookie Tom Morgan's eight-game winning streak in the opener. The youthful righthander hadn't lost since his first start of the season against Washington and was trying for his ninth win. He lasted only 2⅓ innings, allowing eight hits and six runs.

Excursion Boat Goes Aground; 827 Removed

BOSTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — The excursion steamer Nantasket went aground on Peddock's Island in dense fog today with 827 passengers aboard.

All passengers were removed by Coast Guard boats shortly after the craft's plight was discovered by a searching coast guard vessel.

Mirror Of Your Mind

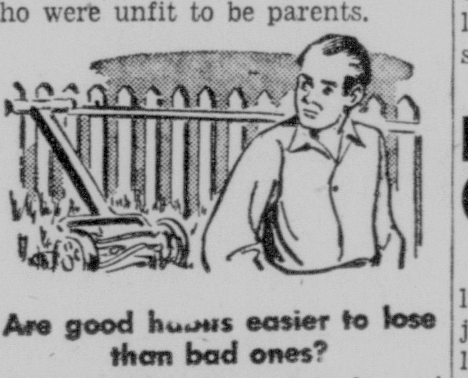
By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Must you always "prove you are right"?

Answer: Not if you can take the long view. If you have an argument with someone regarding a matter of fact—the spelling of a word, for instance—and discover later that you were right and can prove it, you have every right to crow about it. But this is one of those rights which it may cost more than it's worth to exercise. If the other fellow really wants to know the answer he can look it up for himself, while if he does not, this means that he values his vanity more than the truth and will only be annoyed by being forced to admit that you were "smarter than he was."

Are delinquents recognizable?

Answer: Yes, report Drs. Sheldon P. and Eleanor Glueck in "Unraveling Delinquency." This was shown by an experiment in which 500 delinquent and 500 non-delinquent Boston boys were matched for age, national origin, I.Q. and residence in underprivileged neighborhoods. It proved possible to distinguish the delinquents by five characteristics: A mesomorphic (solid, "chunky") build; a restless, energetic temperament; a hostile and suspicious attitude; literal-mindedness, and a background of misunderstanding and rejection by people who were unfit to be parents.



Are good habits easier to lose than bad ones?

Answer: They are apt to be, not because human beings are bad, but because they are short-sighted. The only "force" in a habit is the satisfaction it affords you, and in general what we call bad habits (like putting unpleasant things off) provide an immediate satisfaction while good habits (such as punctuality and neatness) do not "pay off" until later. To complicate matters further, you are likely to think of a good habit as a duty and it is hard for your unconscious mind to realize that a duty can bring any satisfaction at all. The way to retain good habits is to learn to enjoy them.

Tito May Deport Achbishop Stepinac

ROME, Aug. 12 (AP)— U. S. Sen. Blair Moody (D-Mich) said tonight that Yugoslav Premier Marshall Tito is considering deporting Archbishop Alojzijc Stepinac as one of three possible ways of settling the case of the imprisoned Roman Catholic prelate.

The Senator had a two-hour conversation with the Yugoslav Premier today at his summer home on the island of Brioni, off Pola, Yugoslavia. During the talks Tito warned that the next year will be "the period of greatest danger" to world peace.

Tito indicated that the case of Archbishop Stepinac, sentenced in 1946 to 16 years' imprisonment for alleged wartime collaboration with the Nazis, has become a thorny one. The Yugoslav Premier said he would be pleased to see the problem solved and soon would take some action on it, Moody said.

Hogan, who staged rousing finishes to win the Master's and his third National Open this year, was his machine-like self in returning to Tam for the first time in four years and tying a ribbon around it.

Hogan's four trips were 68-69-70-66, a harmony of consistency but still four strokes shy of matching the Tam O'Shanter record of 269 set by Byron Nelson in 1945.

Hogan's big payoff shot him from seventh to second place on the season's financial list. In the lead is Mangrum with a total of $21,078 after picking up $1,650 today.

"Babe" Wins Fourth Time

Miss Berg finished six strokes behind with 304 with a closing 79 that was worth $900.

FROSTBURG WOMAN IS STABBED TO DEATH

Young Mother Of Twins Dies Following Family Argument

Donna Beeman 3rd Victim Slain In 10 Days

An 18-year-old mother of twins was stabbed to death early yesterday morning by her irate husband following a family argument in the home of the girl's parents in Frostburg. It was the third slaying in Allegany County within the past 10 days.

Mrs. Donna L. Beeman died shortly after receiving stab wounds from the front and back which, authorities said, apparently were inflicted with a penknife by her husband, Noah Earl Beeman, 24, Midland.

Hemorrhage Cited

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death was caused by hemorrhage due to stab wounds in the lungs and heart. He added the young woman succumbed about 12:40 a. m. yesterday.

Fighting On Floor

Investigation revealed the Beeman woman was staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Airhart, Railroad Street, Frostburg, Dr. Deming reported, and her husband visited her there Saturday night.

An argument ensued between the young couple, Dr. Deming stated, and erupted into a fight which the girl's mother apparently joined. The father-in-law, elsewhere in the house at the time, told police he heard a noise in the kitchen of the house and when he investigated discovered his wife and the Beemans struggling on the floor.

Ran From House

Mrs. Beeman broke loose from the struggle and ran from the house, Deming said Airhart added, and she apparently ran about 75 feet up the roadway before she collapsed and died.

Frostburg police were notified and investigated. They found Mrs. Beeman lying dead alongside the road, with two stab wounds in her body, Deming went on. Beeman was arrested by the Frostburg authorities and lodged in jail until the State's Attorney's office could launch an investigation.

Witnesses to the fracas along with Beeman were questioned throughout yesterday in the State's Attorney's office and the probe will be continued today, they added. It has not yet been determined if anyone else was in the house at the time of the stabbing, police said.

Husband Is Held

Beeman is being held in the Allegany County jail where no charge has been placed against him pending completion of the investigation, authorities related.

Mrs. Beeman worked in the Berkowity pajama factory in Frostburg and was staying with her parents, police reported. Her husband, who once served six months in the Maryland House of Correction for robbery, was living with his mother Mrs. Effie Beeman, in Midland, they continued. He is unemployed.

Criminal Investigator William F. Baker, Maryland State Police, LaVale barracks, is aiding with the investigation.

A funeral service for Mrs. Beeman will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at the Frostburg Church of Nazarene with Rev. Joseph D. Byers officiating. Interment will be in Eckhart Cemetery.

Mrs. Beeman is survived besides her husband and parents by her twin children, Frederick and Gloria Jean, aged six months, two brothers, Louis Airhart, Jr., at home, and William, Eckhart and five sisters, Mrs. Argyle Lancaster, Shaft, Mrs. Arthur Femi, Morantown; Mrs. George Komatz, Eckhart, Mrs. James Warnick, Baltimore, and Helen, at home.

Murder Charges Placed

The first county incident occurred August 2, when Nile J. Michael, 50-year-old Celanese worker, was shot by his alleged common-law spouse, Margaret E. Gray, 39 ,in their North Branch home. Michael was shot in the groin with a .22 calibre and died list Sunday in Memorial Hospital here. The Gray woman was charged with murder and is held in the county jail for action of the October Grand Jury.

The second shooting took place early in the morning August 6 when 27-year-old George A. Schurg, Hoffman, was shot in the chest with a .22 calibre bullet fired by his wife, Mrs. Shirley Meek Schurg, 21. Schurg died Friday in Miners Hospitl, Frostburg, and a murder charge was filed against Mrs. Schurg.

Mrs. Schurg yesterday received permission from the sheriff's office to attend her husband's funeral in Frostburg today at 2:30. She will be accompanied by Trooper Baker.

Weather

Cumberland's all-too-usual weekend weather was here again yesterday, as the weatherman measured .35 of an inch of rainfall for Saturday night and Sunday. The rain brought the mercury down to a more reasonable high of 80, but that wasn't much help, since the humidity rose to a stuffy 82 per cent. Yesterday's low was 67, and by 8 p. m. the thermometer was down to 74 degrees. Better prospects are in sight for today, but the Weather Bureau would commit itself only to the extent of "mostly fair and less humid."

Man Struck By Auto Dies From Injuries

Wheeler Robey Had Fractured Skull

A 75-year-old man who was struck by an automobile Saturday night on Route 220 three miles south of Rawlings, died yesterday morning about 9:30 in Potomac Valley Hospital where he had been admitted following the mishap.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said Wheeler A. Robey, Danville, succumbed after receiving a fractured skull in the accident.

State Trooper A. M. Spioch, Maryland State Police, who investigated the fatal mishap, said Robey alighted from a car driven by Frank Rhodes, N. Y., who is visiting at 500 North Centre Street. Robey was walking across the highway toward his home when he was struck. He died without regaining consciousness, Dr. Deming added.

According to witnesses, Spioch stated, Robey left the car in which he was riding on the right side of the road, crossed behind the vehicle and swiftly walked into the highway.

Paul E. Goins, Detroit, Mich., driver of another car, told police he saw the Rhodes car stop but failed to see Robey until the latter stepped in front of Goins' vehicle.

Goins said he swerved to the left to avoid hitting Robey but the victim was struck a glancing blow and hurled to the road, Spioch related.

Witnesses to the accident called for assistance and the McCoole Volunteer Fire Company responded and took the injured man to the Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser, W. Va.

Spioch noted both cars were traveling in the direction of Cumberland when the mishap occurred. In addition to Rhodes, Robey's brother, Conrad, was in the first car. Members of the Michigan auto included Goins' wife and sister-in-law.

Goins was placed in Allegany County jail here pending action by the State's Attorney's office. No charges have yet been preferred, police added.

Three Injured In Auto Mishaps

The conditions of three persons injured in accidents over the weekend were reported as good by the hospitals last night.

Mrs. Lela Harden, 25, of Spring Gap, suffered possible skull fracture and other injuries, and Christian Harden, 5, sustained facial lacerations and contusions. They were admitted to Memorial Hospital Saturday morning.

Hospital attaches reported that the car driven by the woman's husband, Elmer Harden, careened from the road near Spring Gap and struck the embankment. The driver and three other children in the auto were not hurt.

Edward Harman, 23, of Twiggtown, was admitted to Allegany Hospital Saturday night with rib injuries after the truck in which he was riding with Frank Casteel, 29, Bedford Street, overturned on Oldtown Road.

Casteel received treatment for abrasions, and Harman was admitted for X-rays. State Trooper John F. Browning is investigating.

Saucers Again? "Mystery Light" Baffles Observers

First it was flying saucers. Then it was an oversize balloon. And now it's a mysterious light in the sky.

According to William McFarland, who saw it, it was just a bright light in the eastern sky, just below the clouds. It happened twice, at about 1 a. m. Saturday and again at the same time yesterday morning.

McFarland, a Constitution Park night watchman, said the light seemed to go on and off once in a while, but it didn't move. It just hung there in the sky.

Several other people told him they'd seen the phenomenon, but they couldn't explain it either. Robert R. Golden, custodian and weather observer at the Park, theorized that it may have been a weather balloon.

No one else ventured a guess. It was a little too early for the sunrise, and it was in the wrong place for the Northern Lights.

The new building is part of the First Federal's huge expansion program, directors of the association report. The organization bought the Baltimore site last year. The building is planned to be able to construct additional floors in the future if necessary.

First Federal Association To Construct New Building

The expansion program of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association will get underway in approximately a week or 10 days with the beginning of construction of the company's new ultra-modern bank building on Baltimore Street.

After months of delay in which the building plans were made, cancelled and remade because of the inability to obtain steel for construction, the association finally obtained permission from the National Production Authority to begin building the new structure, Lynn C. Lashley, executive vice president of the organization, announced over the weekend.

The Bank Building and Equipment Corporation of America from St. Louis, Mo., drew the plans for the two-story building, Lashley said, and will have charge of the construction although bids will be let to local contractors for the actual work.

Reinforced Concrete

The new banking house will be made entirely of reinforced concrete and brick to meet the requirements of the NPA, Lashley explained. Plans call for the structure to be two stories high with basement, concrete foundation walls and footing, floor columns and framework. The exterior walls will be of roman brick with limestone coping and trim and facing will be red granite.

The architecture for the new building is on a contemporary style and the First Federal will occupy the main floor and basement. The second floor will be made into offices for rental, Lashley added.

The modern building will replace the old Belvidere Hall, 139-143 Baltimore Street, which the bank bought July 28, 1950 for $175,000. The old building, which formerly housed the Belvidere Theatre, had been converted into store rooms which until recently were occupied by Thom McAn Shoe Store and Moskins Credit Clothing Store on the ground floor and the J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets, on the second floor.

Preliminary work will be the tearing down of the old building prior to new construction. First contracts will be let on this phase of work, Lashley noted.

Lashley estimated the new construction would cost approximately a quarter million dollars and would be completed in about 11 months.

The front of the building will have large glass windows and doorway with a semi-circular coping above the entrance. Space for an executive office and three office desks, secretary's desk and three interview booths will be in the main street lobby. Also on the street-level floor will be eight teller windows and check window, a cash and book vault and waiting room for customers.

A circular stairway to the left of the main entrance leads downstairs to the lower lobby which contains directors room, mechanical and storage equipment, toilet facilities, employes recreation room, safe deposit vault and coupon booths, and kitchen and lunch room for the employes.

The interior, to be constructed in a semi-circular effect, will be air conditioned, sound proof with carpeted floors, and colored walls. An elevator shaft also will be constructed.

The building will measure 48 by 125 feet, with parking lot, driveway and auto teller window in the rear.

Explaining the expansion move of the association, Lashley noted the company had outgrown its present quarters on North Centre Street where its current assets have risen to over $7,000,000. The association received its Federal charter in 1935 and had less than a million dollars in assets at the time, Lashley continued.

The organization will remain in its present building until the new bank structure is completed, Lashley added.

Church, Clubs Hold Picnics Despite Weather

Usual Crowds Flock To Parks

Threatening skies and cooler temperatures failed to daunt picnickers yesterday at several large outings and family picnics.

Among the larger events were a church picnic, two club outings and a luncheon club picnic. The crowd at Constitution Park was described as "pretty good" in spite of the weather.

St. Patrick's Catholic Church held its annual parish outing at Malamphy's Meadowbrook Farm from 1 to 8 p. m. The program included races, games and novelty contests for adults and children.

Prizes were given in events ranging from sack races to pie eating and cracker whistling.

The Cumberland Rotary Club spent the afternoon at the new camp of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts, on Oldtown Road. Members went canoeing and swimming in the artificial lake, and competed in several types of games.

Target shooting prizes were awarded to John D. Liebau, Walter Edwards, Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Ray Hillingsworth.

Cumberland Council, United Commercial Travelers, held its outing at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

Several family reunions were held in the area and the usual Sunday crowds flocked to picnic sites.

Shriners To Give Show For Tots

Ali Ghan Shrine Club will present a special free matinee showing of its "Stars On Parade" Wednesday August 22, for crippled and underprivileged county children.

W. H. Rayburn, general chairman, said the special presentation will be the only matinee performance in the show's five-day run during the Cumberland Fair.

The nine-act performance will get under way at 2:30 p. m. Chartered city buses will leave the State Armory on South Centre Street at about 1:30 p. m.

Last year, the Shriners entertained about 500 children at the Fair. Names of youngsters will be furnished through the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, Associated Charities, the Salvation Army, the Welfare Board and the Keating Memorial Day Nursery.

Organizations in the Georges Creek section also have been contacted for names of children, Rayburn said. Five city firemen will be on hand to assist the children.

Regularly scheduled performances will start at 8 p. m. each day. Fire works in front of the grandstand will follow the evening showings.

W. Va. Professor Wounded In Dispute Over Thomas Girl

Hospital Report Man's Injuries Not Serious

PARSONS, W. Va. — Herman D. Sydenspringer, 43-year-old engineering professor at West Virginia University, was shot early yesterday in a dispute with a mine foreman involving a 17-year-old Thomas, W. Va., girl, according to Tucker County Sheriff D. E. Crosten, but attendants at Tucker County Hospital here said that he was not wounded seriously.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Crosten and State Police last night were continuing their search for the mine foreman, Tom Ford, 45, of Thomas, who was identified by the sheriff as the man who wounded Sydenspringer. They also were looking for the weapon, probably a pistol, with which the professor was shot.

Worked At Mine

Sydenspringer, who is a son-in-law of C. O. Gallinger, owner of a mine at Thomas, had been working at the mine during the summer months, according to Sheriff Crosten. In this connection he became acquainted with Ford, who was foreman at Gallinger's mine.

Sydenspringer and Ford had worked together Saturday. At the close of the day, the mine foreman invited the professor to go out with him and his girl friend, Miss Gardenia Evans, 17, of Thomas. The sheriff said that Ford was married and the father of several children but was separated from his wife.

The two men and the girl drank some intoxicants during the evening while riding in Ford's automobile, the sheriff was told. Late in the evening Ford got into the back seat of his car and appeared to go to sleep, the girl reported. Sydenspringer then drove Ford's car into Thomas and parked it at DiBacco's garage.

At that point Sydenspringer told Miss Evans that he would take Ford to his room in Thomas. Immediately, Ford, who actually had only been feigning sleep, opened the car door, got into the driver's seat after ordering Sydenspringer to move over.

Made Accusation

Ford then drove the car from the garage to Bunker Hill, a section in Thomas, and there stopped in front of the girl's house. The mine foreman then accused Sydenspringer of trying to get Miss Evans to go to his room, Sheriff Crosten was told. They both denied the accusation.

"I'm going to kill you," Ford was quoted as saying and then he pulled out a gun which had been concealed in the car. A bullet struck Sydenspringer's right arm, above the elbow, the bullet passing through the muscle.

Sheriff Crosten stated that Ford then refused to allow the professor to leave the automobile for some time. When he did they went into the Evans home. There Ford threatened to shoot Sydenspringer again, they said, but Mrs. Willis Evans, the girl's mother, stood in front of the wounded man and kept him from carrying out the threat. She coaxed Ford into another room.

Eventually, Evans, father of the girl, drove Sydenspringer to the office of Dr. John Miller in Thomas. After treating him briefly the physician advised that he should come to the hospital here for more complete examination. Sydenspringer then drove his own automobile the 14 miles from Thomas to Parsons He reached the hospital about 5.30 a. m.

Today's Sermonette

Some one touched me; for I perceive that power has gone forth from me. Luke 8:46.

By REV. W. W. PATTERSON

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon prepared by Rev. W. W. Patterson, pastor of LaVale Methodist Church. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The Transforming Touch

The scriptural incident which is the basis for our sermon today is one of the bast known in the New Testament. It is known and loved because it does depict the power of faith and its happy reward. However, it is not only the picture of a woman who needed a greater physician than she had thus far been able to find, but the manner in which the Christ was aware of the sincere seeking individual.

Rev. Patterson

You remember that He was surrounded by many people, and yet He turned to his disciples and said, "Who touched me?" Peter, being perplexed by this question replied, "Master, the multitude throng thee and press thee, and sayest thou, Who touched me?"

The attitude of Jesus toward the merely curious onlooker was summed up in what may well be the most pathetic words He ever uttered, "Ye would not come to Me that ye might have life." You see there was a difference between the manner in which men came to Jesus. They could come to Him physically with no great desire for spiritual fellowship or identification. They were mentally interested but not morally persuaded. But they could come as the woman did, with great faith in His ability to lift her into a new life; to heal her diseases. The world today is still curious about the Galilean Physician, but it has never quite understood that it is really sick and needs His healing, transforming touch. This is the truth that the world must be made to see.

The woman in the story would not have been so blessed had not someone told her of Christ. She would have missed this greatest opportunity of her life if she had not known about His coming to her village. However, even this knowledge would have benefited her little if she had not been able to believe in Him. It was necessary that she know of the Physician, that she have faith in His ability to heal and that she have the courage to act upon that faith. Naturally a timid soul, it was not easy for her to force her way through the crowd, whom, had they known that she was ceremoniously unclean, would no doubt have thrown her out of their midst. Then again, she did not want Jesus to know that she touched His garment. But the Master had a sensitive soul for such needs and such faith and even though she merely touched His robe, He knew that someone had touched Him in whose soul was to be found a great, yearning, powerful faith. Of all the people who thronged about Him, brushing His clothes and body, he felt that only this afflicted woman had really touched Him.

Multitudes of people are thronging the Christ today as they gather for worship in their churches, as they are trying to analyse His teaching, but comparatively few are really touching Him. Few are going away from the scene of Christ's ministrations with the feeling that somehow life has become transformed by virtue of His touching it. Their frustrated and sin-sick souls have not been restored to health. Certainly the fault does not lie with the physician, but the patient. Too often we come to Him with our own diagnosis and remedy, wishing that He might merely sign the prescription which, in our human thinking, we are sure will effect a cure. But no man has the ability to so save himself and his generation.

We talk of building a Christian world but it is not we who shall build it, but the Christ touching the world into greatness and peace through us. As our lives are transformed by His spirit, just so is a part of the world transformed. It is always a better world the moment an individual has touched the garment of Jesus by the compulsion of a great faith in His ability to heal and bless.

We talk of building a great church, but it is not we who shall build it, but the Christ functioning through our redeemed lives. No church is ever quite the same after just one person in its membership has had the courage to brave the crowd of merely conventional Christians in order to touch the Christ and to be touched by Him.

Would that all men this morning might have the faith that is necessary to release the divine power to heal; the divine love, and bring down upon humanity the divine panacea for all our ills.

We shall perhaps never seek the Christ in this way until we do it in desperation. When confronted with the alternatives between death and life, destruction and survival, we will brave the ridicule of the multitudes and prove the ancient truth that the man who dares to really trust in God shall know the truth and the truth shall set him free.
